Plan Aimed At Sparking Growth Gets Big Rebuff

By NELS JOHNSON

A redevelopment plan aimed at sparking economic growth in central San Rafael received an overwhelmingly negative response from an overflow crowd in city hall last night.

More than 300 residents packed council chambers and clogged the lobby for the first full-scale public airing of the controversial proposal.

The San Rafael City Council — acting as the city's redevelopment agency —took no action on the plan, and instead scheduled another public hearing for 8 p.m. Nov. 6

Though surprised at the public response, the council gave no indication that disapproval of the plan by most of the audience would scuttle the proposed effort to revitalize the city's sagging economy.

Mayor C. Paul Bettini gavelled the emotion-charged audience quiet during one portion of the three-and-one-half-hour hearing when comments by Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner were met with catcalls.

Most appeared unmoved by arguments from agency staff and consultants that the redevelopment area —downtown San Rafael, the commercial core along Francisco Boulevard and East San Rafael — is in a state of disrepair and economic decline.

William J. Bielser, assistant city manager and executive director of the agency, posted charts which showed what he called the blight which has gripped San Rafael's downtown area in recent years.

Bielser said that 45 per cent of 178 nonresidential buildings in the downtown were in "poor to bad" structural condition. He attributed the downtown's decline to obsolete buildings, faulty planning, ugliness, traffic congestion and outside competition.

Bielser said that 1,646 more parking spaces are needed to meet the area's parking requirements.

"We've had a $3.5 million decline in gross taxable sales over the last three years," he said, adding that sales had soared in the county as a whole over the same period.

A slide show pointed out the hodge-podge planning, ugliness and traffic congestion that marks many areas downtown.

Bielser's figures and agency charts were promptly challenged by County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney, who appeared on behalf of the county, the San Rafael City Schools and the Marin Community College District.

"We haven't even had a fair chance to go over that data and pose intelligent questions," he declared, saying that agency staff had not made the information available. Maloney also said that the agency's environmental impact report was "woefully deficient" and warned of a "long and detailed protest" if a more detailed impact document is not offered.

He charged redevelopment legal consultant Steven Goldfarb with weaving a "gossamer web around the bare bones of the state (redevelopment) statute."

Under state law, a redevelopment agency can freeze current assessed valuation within the

Hanoi Asks Kissinger To Meet And Sign Pact As Is

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The North Vietnamese Communists said today they were ready to meet again with White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger next Tuesday in Paris but demanded the Vietnam peace treaty be signed on that day as it stands.

"Peace is at the tip of a pen," North Vietnamese delegation spokesman Nguyen Than Le told a news conference. But he did not make it clear whether Hanoi was ready to renegotiate parts of the agreed treaty.

"If Prof. Kissinger wants to come or to meet Mr. Le Duc Tho and Xuan Thuy on Oct. 31, the day of the signing of the treaty, he will be welcome," Le said. Tho is a member of the Hanoi ruling Politburo and Thuy is the chief negotiator at the regular Paris talks. Kissinger has talked with both.

"If he wants to come and meet them on Nov. 1 or Nov. 2 after the signing of the treaty, to discuss matters of interest between the two sides, they will be ready to receive him," Le said.

"If he wants to come and see them on Oct. 30 for a glass of champagne and a cup of tea, he will also be welcome."

Le once again demanded that President Nixon override any objections by South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu. Thieu said in Saigon today there would be no peace in South Vietnam unless he signed the treaty himself.

Le insisted the treaty text already had been fully agreed on.

"It was President Nixon himself who, in a message dated Oct. 20, informed our Prime Minister, Pham Van Dong, that he considered the peace treaty as completed," Le said.

Le again demanded that President Nixon give the green light to sign the text in Paris next Tuesday and urged Nixon to overrule the objections of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

"Thieu is only a U.S. tool," Le said. "He should not be allowed to delay the signing. He is a man born in war who makes a living from war—and one can imagine what will happen to him when the war ends."

He charged that Thieu was blatantly demanding "our virtual recapitulation" in his Oct. 24 published speech while the peace treaty already had been approved at secret talks.

President Nixon, in his first public remarks since disclosure that a cease-fire in Vietnam was near, told a campaign rally in Huntington, W. Va., Thursday night:

"I can say with confidence that I believe we are succeeding in achieving...peace with honor and not surrender" in South Vietnam. "There are still some differences that must be resolved," the President said.

'Costly' New Bay Dredge Restrictions Denounced

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

CAMPBELL — New dredging restrictions in San Francisco Bay were denounced yesterday as so costly that they amounted to "burning down the forest in order to prevent next year's forest fire."

The restrictions, which require dumping polluted mud spoils either on land or 30 miles outside the Golden Gate, also were pictured as inevitably interfering with the national defense, aggravating the balance of payments, ruining the shipping industry, depressing the economy, reducing property values, increasing the hazard of collisions between ships, and closing down small craft marinas worth some $100 million.

They also meant an indefinite postponement of dredging scheduled this year of the Petaluma River, it was reported.

The restrictions were adopted six months ago by the Regional Water Quality Control Board to meet federal standards on dumping dredged mud polluted with toxic chemicals or heavy metals such as lead and mercury.

The standards were set by the Environmental Protection Agency, which has the power to step in and impose them on any state which fails to meet its standards.

Almost a dozen speakers nevertheless appealed to the board at its meeting yesterday to ignore the EPA standards and ease the restrictions, all citing the huge jump in dredging costs forced by the restrictions.

All expressed horror that the EPA already has drafted even tighter restrictions, scheduled to become effective early next year. They insisted that EPA still has not been able to justify the existing standards as needed to protect marine life.

Outing For Couple Ends In Death; Head-On Crash

A Forest Knolls man and his wife were killed in a head-on collision on White's Hill last night while driving home from a dance in Mill Valley.

Their car was hit at 11 p.m. by a car driven by a 16-year-old San Anselmo youth who failed to negotiate a sharp right curve on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, about a mile east of San Geronimo Valley Road, and crossed into oncoming traffic, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Killed were Walter Young, 61, and his wife, Mildred, 55, of 190 Tamal Road.

The youth, Stephen Joseph Angel, of 63 Magnolia Avenue, and a passenger in his car, Jerd T. Fornichi, 16, of 307 Oak Avenue, San Anselmo, were both treated for broken teeth and face cuts.

According to the highway patrol's report, Angel, when asked if he was tired while driving, answered, "Yes, I think I fell asleep. I had four beers earlier, about 10 p.m."

Young was an office maintenance and protection manager for the state building in Oakland.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

The deaths were the 32nd and 33rd traffic fatalities recorded in Marin County in 1972. By this date last year, there had been 27 fatalities.

No citation was issued and investigation was to continue.

Reds Capture Two Villages, Threaten Key Southern Towns

SAIGON (UPI)—In apparent anticipation of a cease-fire, Communist troops stepped-up their attacks on populated areas throughout South Vietnam today, capturing two villages and threatening two major towns within 45 miles of Saigon, military sources said.

Though sporadic and widespread, Communist forces carried out 124 attacks in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. EDT today, the most since the Tet offensive of 1968.

The U.S. command said two Americans were killed and four wounded during the stepped up fighting around South Vietnam.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers captured two hamlets on French-built Highway 1 northwest of the capital early today and though under counterattack by government reinforcements, the attackers held their positions. The villages are 20 miles and 30 miles northwest of Saigon, and sit at the edge of the traditional Communist infiltration route fom Cambodian border sanctuaries.

Southeast of Saigon, other Communist troops surrounded Dat Do and Xuyen Moc district (county) capitals and fought their way through the lines of militia defenders to within 1,000 yards of the centers of both towns.

Dat Do, 45 miles southeast of the capital, was captured once for 10 days by the Communists last April during their spring offensive.

Both it and Xuyen Moc, 55 miles southeast of Saigon, are in Phuoc Tuy Province, a resort area when there is no fighting. Phuoc Tuy was "pacified" by Australian forces before they pulled out last year.

In the air war, the U.S. command said a U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom was shot down today by antiaircract fire over North Vietnam. The two crewmen parachuted into the Gulf of Tonkin and were picked up helicopter 11 miles northeast of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

U.S. fighter-bombers attacked North Vietnam "more than" 90 times Thursday. High-flying B52 bombers joined the airstrikes with nine waves, all of them over the lower panhandle, the U.S. command reported.

The U.S. Navy announced today the guided missile destroyer USS Cochrane was damaged by a shore battery Wednesday night while making a firing strike against an ammunition dump near Vinh in North Vietnam. The Communist shell was a "near miss" and caused minor damage to the ship's superstructure. None of the crew was injured, the Navy said and the ship remained on station.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Yorty For Nixon

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mayor Sam Yorty, who campaigned unsuccessfully for the Democratic presidential nomination, endorsed President Nixon Thursday.

Yorty said Sen. George McGovern's program "consists only of chameleonic inconsistencies and wild diatribes calculated to capture votes by rash promises and sheer demagoguery. Under the circumstances, disgusted and disillusioned Democrats in droves are planning to vote to re-elect the President."

Wallace To Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will come back to the Washington area this weekend to raise funds for Holy Cross Hospital at Silver Spring, Md., where he was treated for gun shot wounds received in May at a Maryland campaign rally.

Hospital officials said yesterday that Wallace had accepted an invitation to attend the eighth annual fund-raising ball for the hospital Saturday night at a Washington hotel. He will be accompanied by his wife, Cornelia.

Polio Shots

GREENWICH, Conn. (UPI) — A program was started yesterday to inoculate 350 students and staff members at a private school where three confirmed and eight suspected cases of polio have occurred.

None of the students had been immunized before because the Daycroft School is affiliated with the Christian Scientist Church, and the religious beliefs of that church do not favor inoculations, said Dr. George Kraus, Greenwich health director.

The U.S. Public Health Service Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said 10 cases of polio have been reported in the U.S. this year, and nine were paralytic.

He said the three confirmed cases at Daycroft were paralytic, and the others were subject to viral tests.

Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. ran up a $513.2 million trade deficit in September, its 12th straight month of deficits, and AFL-CIO President George Meany said the trend was threatening the American standard of living.

The United States recorded its first annual trade deficit in the 20th century last year, and Commerce Department figures indicated yesterday the spread between imports and exports would be much worse this year.

Meany blamed the deterioration of the American trade position on the flight of U.S. firms and capital abroad.

"Baseball is an American game, but about 90 per cent of baseball mitts sold in the United States are imports," Meany said in giving an illustration of how imports are exceeding exports.

General Is Target

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen today attacked the isolated country home of Lt. Gen. Sir Harry Tuzo, who commands all British troops in Northern Ireland. He was not home and no one inside was struck by 12 bullets fired by the gunmen.

An army spokesman said several gunmen fired at the building, Cloona House, located about five miles southwest of Belfast and about three miles from Army headquarters at Lisburn.

Troops returned fire and said they hit one of the gunmen.

Gunmen also shot and wounded a 51-year-old man as he stood in the doorway of his home last night chatting to a neighbor.

In Belfast, a crowd tarred and feathered two youths, aged 17 and 15, but they were not seriously hurt.

Letter Bomb Arrest

KIRYAT SHMONA, Israel (UPI) — Police said today they have arrested a 22-year-old American tourist suspected of sending letter bombs to President Nixon and two of his cabinet members.

Police said Dennis Feinstein, who they said arrived in Israel several weeks ago, was jailed for 10 days by a magistrate court on suspicion of sending the letter bombs Tuesday to the President, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Feinstein's home was given as Stockton. Police said they were investigating the possibility that he may have had accomplices. They would not say how they connected him with the letter bombs.

Aide Dismissed

CAIRO (UPI) — Political sources said today they consider the dismissal of Egypt's war minister, Gen. Mohammed Sadek, the result of a thaw in relations between Egypt and the Soviet Union.

Sadek resigned yesterday in a surprise mililary shakeup.

He was long considered strongly critical of Soviet aid to Egypt. Political sources said he called it inadequate. He was never on good terms with Soviet military advisers before their expulsion last July, the sources said, and he was considered one of the major factors behind the expulsion.

Jews Can Leave

MOSCOW (UPI) — Jewish leaders in Moscow said today the Soviet Union's acting interior minister told them 93 of every 100 Soviet Jews who want to go to Israel have received or will receive permission to leave.

Jews included in a group of about 70 who had an unprecedented meeting last night with three high-ranking Soviet officials said work considered "of state importance" apparently prevents the remaining 7 per cent from receiving permission to emigrate to Israel.

The Jews — all of them denied requests earlier for exit visas — met for 30 minutes with the acting interior minister, the national chief of militia police and the national head of the visa office.

The winemakers announced Thursday that the tasting will be held Nov. 3. The invited tasters: "All of the UCLA senior class age 21 or over." That's in the area of 4,000 students.

AIDS ARTERY GROWTH — Dr. Charles Sparks holds a flexible silicone mandril carrying two layers of knitted dacron tube which he said will aid in the growth of new artery in humans. He displayed the material at Good Samaritan Hospital in Portland, Ore.

(UPI Telephoto)

New Kit Is Aid In Artery Growth

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—A Portland surgeon Thursday described "a very simple 15-minute operation" in which a diseased artery is replaced by utilizing the body's ability to grow a new blood vessel around a silicone tube.

"Any surgeon with training in vascular surgery is quite capable" of performing the needed operations, said Dr. Charles H. Sparks.

The physician said the initial surgery is the 15-minute operation in which a flexible silicone rubber tube, wrapped in a loosely knit dacron cover, is implanted at the site of the diseased artery.

"Then the patient goes home and goes about his business for five to six weeks while a tube of the patient's own tissue grows," Sparks said. "Then he comes back to the hospital and we remove the silicone tube and hook up the ends of the tissue tube where we want it."

The second operation is more complicated than the first, requiring about two hours to remove the silicone tube and sew the ends of the new tissue tube to healthy ends of the natural artery.

Sparks said the central element in the new technique is a three-piece kit just released by its manufacturer, Edward Laboratories of Santa Ana, Calif., for general use throughout the country.

The technique has been used on about 100 patients at 11 medical centers around the nation, Sparks said.

The initial surgery involves using "a tunneling device"—a sharp hollow metal tube to slice through tissue. The silicone tube with its knitted cover is then pushed through the metal tube and the metal tube is removed.

Fiji Hurricane Damage In Millions

SUVA, FIJI (UPI)—Damage from hurricane Bebe, which smashed its way through the South Pacific earlier this week, will cost Fiji millions of dollars, Prime Minister Ratu Sir Kamisese Mara said today.

The death toll in the hurricane rose to 17 today with the discovery of the body of a 90-year-old woman in a native thatched hut in the still-flooded Rewa river valley.

1.3 Million Killed In Viet War, U.S. Figures Show

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. government figures show that at least 1.3 million persons have died in the Vietnam war in the past decade. The cost in money has been $105 billion to U.S. taxpayers since 1965.

The bulk of the dead are civilians and North Vietnamese military.

Pentagon totals include 45,884 Americans killed in combat and 10,281 dead from non-combat causes. South Vietnam has lost 182,494 military and other allies 5,199.

Estimated North Vietnamese military dead are 904,000.

President Nixon this summer said 205,000 South Vietnamese civilians have died since 1965, while the Senate Refugee subcommittee headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., placed the estimate of dead and wounded at 1,050,000.

At Sand Creek, Colo., in 1864, a village of Arapaho and Cheyenne Indians was attacked by a U.S. Army force. Men, Women and children died in the battle.

Redevelop Plan Brings Outcries

redevelopment area and use future increase for financing of improvements. County supervisors, concerned abuout diversion of revenue from school and other special districts, have directed Maloney to find ways of blocking San Rafael redevelopment plans.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell told the council that the board of supervisors would stand firm in its opposition to the plan. The means of financing redevelopment would cause an erosion of the county tax base and higher property taxes, according to Mitchell.

"It's the method of financing we find fault with, and not the goals," said Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino, who joined Maloney in charging that San Rafael was not blighted enough to quality for redevelopment.

John F. Plank, superintendent of the San Rafael school system, and John A. Grasham, superintendent of the Marin Community College District, also rose to oppose redevelopment. Both administrators declared siphoning future increases in school revenues would force massive cutbacks in personnel and programs, since both school systems were currently operating at maximum tax rates.

Both men asked the council to make use of a state law which allows a redevelopment agency to return tax increments which would normally accrue to school districts.

The council made no comment on the proposal.

Arthur J. Ring, one of several residents who spoke in support of the redevelopment plan, said his calculations showed redevelopment would cost the San Rafael School system 1 per cent of its $10 million budget the first year, or about $107,160. Plank put the cost at $107,254. Grasham said the college district might lose up to $540,000 over a five-year period under redevelopment.

"School districts can holler. The county can holler. But it's legal, and they can't do anything about redevelopment," declared downtown merchant Walter G. Zurcher, who backed redevelopment along with fellow chamber of commerce member Sig Herzog. Comments of the pair received scattered applause.

But more uproarious applause greeted another San Rafael businessman, who said he could see no decline in the downtown and urged the council to "maintain a town that looks like a town.

"San Rafael looks better than the Corte Madera Center," he declared.

Another resident, who described himself as an "outraged taxpayer," suggested the Northgate shopping center bear the burden of redevelopment costs. He said that redevelopment in Richmond had turned downtown Richmond into a bombed-out city.

One woman demanded the entire matter be put to a public vote.

Several residents were silenced by Bettini when they began hooting during a staff explanation of the high turnover of tenants in the downtown area.

Several councilmen and agency consultants expressed surprise at the apparent public rejection of the redevelopment proposal, though one city official said the response was "simply a fear of the unknown."

"The agency has the power of condemnation, but we're not going to line bulldozers up along Fourth Street," according to William M. Bryant, agency planning consultant.

He said that 18 specific projects costing about $6 million are proposed, including downtown street improvements, a Fourth Street mall, parking facilities, a shoreline park in the Canal area, a Bahia Vista park and undergrounding utilities along Francisco Boulevard.

"This opposition is just unbelievable," he said.

New Bay Dredging Curbs Held Costly

pointed to a theory that poisonous metals in mud are stirred up far more by wind and wave action than by dredging. He noted that his office recently started a three-year, $900,000 study of the problem.

The regional board pointedly ignored the economic impact of the restrictions when it adopted them in April, but at that time promised to look at them after six months. Several board members predicted privately that the board will ease the restrictions when they consider them again at their November meeting.

Board member Sidney S. Lippow of Martinez expressed their frustration when he told Lammie the board was caught between the EPA and the Army. "We have one department of the federal government telling us one thing and another department telling us another thing. It isn't a position I relish being in," Lippow compalined.

Lammie testified that his budget this fiscal year for maintenance dredging in the bay had gone from $1,846,000 to at least $7,329,000 because of the regional board's restrictions.

Because there was virtually no hope of getting the $5,483,000 to cover the difference, he has had to order a halt to most dredging, he said.

Similar restrictions throughout the nation confronted the corps with $2 billion in unbudgeted dredging costs, he said.

In addition, Lammie said, the restrictions would increase Bay Area dredging costs for the Navy this fiscal year from $965,000 to $3,325,000. If a lack of funds prevents dredging before next spring at Hunters Point Naval Shipyard, he said, 3,600 workers there could be out of work because aircraft carriers could not reach the shipyard.

Without corps dredging of the Mare Island Strait channel, the colonel said, submarines and deep-draft vessels also could be cut off from Mare Island Shipyard by next February.

He offered a letter from Gen. George B. Fink, engineer for the South Pacific Division of the corps, advising Gov. Ronald Reagan that dredging had been halted at Oakland and Redwood City harbors and at Mare Island Strait.

Fink cautioned Reagan that other dredging projects also will be halted unless either the restrictions are relaxed or the state makes up the cost difference.

Lammie's testimony showed that dredging the Petaluma River from the city to the mouth of the channel in San Pablo Bay should have cost $630,000, but because of the new restrictions would cost an estimated $705,000.

The cost of dredging the Saucelito Canal would go up only $10,000 to $1,040,000, Lammie said.

Doomsday also was seen by B.C. Flett, plant engineer for Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s shipyard in San Francisco. He said the extra dredging cost was "enough to put us out of business."

It was Richard M. Boswell of the Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Association who charged the restrictions were like "burning down the forest to prevent next year's forest fire." The restrictions will force the closing of marina after marina, he predicted.

Boswell said the cost of dredging a typical marina would be $45 a month for each berth. Mrs. Harder G. Hudson of California Marine Parks and Harbors, a group representing small-craft harbors, said the restrictions had pushed the cost of dredging the San Leandro marina from $210,000 to $630,000, a sum "we simply cannot afford."

Philip Steinberg of the American Institute of Merchant Shipping said that without corps dredging the channels to Oakland Harbor will silt up at the rate of about six inches a year. This will force steamship operators to carry less cargo, resulting in a $26 million loss for the first year for the four lines using the harbor, he estimated.

Protests also came from the California Marine Affairs and Navigation Conference, Standard Oil of California, state Department of Navigation and Ocean Development, and the county of Solano.

Additional written comment will be accepted by the board through Nov. 6 at its Oakland office, 364-14th Street.

Is In Recess

FT. ORD (UPI)—The "fragging" court marital of Pvt. Billy D. Smith today was recessed until Tuesday because defense attorney Luke McKissack is ill.

Guilty Plea To Charge Of Robbery

A 20-year-old airman from Hamilton Air Force Base has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court to a charge of being one of three persons who robbed a San Rafael bartender of about $1,400 last month.

Edward Alexander Moten admitted his guilt to Judge Samuel W. Gardiner provided he is given a suspended state prison sentence in favor of a year in jail. Sentencing was set for Nov. 27.

Codefendant Jerry Wayne Hurd, 21, of Santa Venetia, who agreed to the same sentence, is scheduled to be sentenced the same day.

The two were arrested Sept. 3 in San Francisco less than half an hour after three men, one armed with a pistol, held up bartender John Goveia at George's Recreation Parlor. The three emptied two cash registers and a safe, according to San Rafael police.

A 17-year-old youth was arrested with Hurd and Moten, then turned over to juvenile authorities. His name was withheld on order of Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

area centered just 15 miles north of Saigon, where the Communists have been leapfrogging from hamlet to hamlet since Oct. 5, government sources said.

The high command also reported fighting only 12 miles southwest of the capital near Ben Luc district capital on key Highway 4 to the Mekong Delta. The Long An Province chief was wounded in the fighting, which was away from any populated areas, field officers said.

College Board Hopefuls To Speak

A candidates' night for contenders for the two vacant seats on the Marin Community College Board will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in College of Marin's Olney Hall.

The event is sponsored by the college student newspaper, The Times. So far six of the 11 declared candidates have confirmed their attendance.

Student sponsors say most of the evening will be devoted to questions from the audience and answers from the candidates.

Pleas Made To Cocaine Charges

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin County men yesterday pleaded innocent to federal charges of possession and sale of cocaine and use of public communications to commit a felony.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert H. Schnacke ordered a jury trial to begin Dec. 26 for Gilroy E. Atencio, 31, of Greenbrae, and Timothy M. Wall, 22, of Fairfax.

The two were arrested by federal and local narcotics agents Sept. 22 after a raid on Atencio's home.

Admission To Assault Charge

Woodrow Heslip, 50, of San Francisco, has admitted in Marin Superior Court that he assaulted a former girl friend with a razor at her Marin City home.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner accepted the admission as part of a plea bargain resulting in probation and 60 days in jail. Sentencing was set for Nov. 27 to obtain a probation report.

Heslip was arrested June 29 after an argument with Flora Sample during which he cut her on the chin and arm, according to sheriff's deputies who made the arrest.

Cocaine Sale Trial Is Set

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin County men and a Washington lobbyist will stand jury trial Dec. 4 in U.S. District Court here on charges of selling cocaine.

Marco F. Madio, 23, and Brian Neal Smith, 27, both of Sausalito, and George E. Miller, 31, attorney and lobbyist, pleaded innocent yesterday before Judge Stanley A. Wigel.

The three were arrested Sept. 15 when a dozen federal, state and local narcotics agents raided Madio's home and seized an ounce of cocaine.

PEACE

"I believe they will be resolved."

In Saigon today Thieu criticized the United States and Hanoi for reaching an agreement at Paris talks at which he was not represented and said:

"We are not afraid of a cease-fire and the peace. I am sure it will come, but it will only come when I personally sign the treaty for a cease-fire and peace. Without my signature it means it has not been agreed to by the people."

UPI diplomatic correspondent K.C. Thaler said in London today that according to diplomatic sources in close contact with Hanoi that there were both political and military pressures on Hanoi to reach speedy agreement.

Both Peking and Moscow have urged Hanoi to reach an early peace agreement, and the diplomatic sources said the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and the U.S. Navy blockade of the major ports had inflicted far worse damage than Hanoi has ever admitted.

Hanoi Radio today voiced dissatisfaction with the delay and repeated its demands the United States sign on Oct. 31. But since then the Hanoi delegation agreed to the new Kissinger meeting on that date.

"We have not agreed on anything yet and yet the Communists boasted that there will be a cease-fire and are preparing for it," Thieu said.

"The Communists can use 10 hands and 10 legs to sign treaties, but without my signature, it means there has been no agreement by the people. It will be invalid in South Vietnam. I am not an obstacle to peace. I reflect the will of the Vietnamese people."

There were other manifestations in Saigon of displeasure with the proposed terms of a peace settlement. In Phnom Penh, Cambodian government officials reacted with desperation to what they termed a "flagrant disregard of Cambodian interests."

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry called the agreement a "perfidious act" designed to divide the Saigon government and its allies.

The nine-point program called for an immediate cease-fire only in Vietnam with the war in Laos and Cambodia to end as part of the general settlement. Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos, the Prime Minister, expressed satisfaction with the agreement Thursday, and said he hoped it would end 20 years of war in Laos.

The agreement would call for the withdrawal of American troops from Vietnam 60 days after the peace treaty is signed, with U.S. prisoners of war to be returned home during that period. But it would not affected the more than 100,000 American servicemen aboard ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet or at air bases in Thailand.

Bangkok dispatches today said the 45,000 men in Thailand would remain there as long as needed to protect the withdrawal of American POWs or for use if North Vietnam should flagrantly violate any peace agreement.

Guilty Plea To Burglary

A 23-year-old man arrested as he hitchhiked away from a burglarized home in Strawberry has pleaded guilty in Marin Superior Court on condition he spends no more than six months in jail.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also agreed the felony burglary count against Robert C. Molina will be reduced to a misdemeanor if he completes five years probation. Sentencing was set for Nov. 27 to obtain a probation report.

Molina, of no known address, was arrested Sept. 20 after he allegedly broke into the home of Kent Wisecarver at 5 De Silva Island. He was captured trying to flag down a ride south on Highway 101, according to sheriff's deputies.

Jail Time On Theft Of Auto

A Marin Superior Court judge has ordered Leland Howard Jones, 22, of Corte Madera to spend four months in jail for stealing a car which crashed into a lightpost in San Anselmo May 12.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner gave the jail time as part of three years of probation, but told Jones he may spend the final two months in an alcohol treatment program instead of in jail.

Jones was arrested in a car stolen from James C. Welch of 241 Cascade Drive after the vehicle hit the post and a cement wall at Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Spaulding Avenue. The judge ordered Jones to pay for the damage.

OBITUARIES

Margery Simpkins Dies At 79

Margery L. Simpkins of Sleepy Hollow, a Marin resident for 27 years, died yesterday at her home at 25 Crane Drive. She was 79.

Donald L. Cornish, Marin coroner's deputy, said Mrs. Simpkins was found dead in bed by her husband, Edward, a retired engineer for the Shell Oil Co. Mrs. Simpkins had been under treatment for high blood pressure, according to Cornish.

She was born in Butte, Mont., and had lived in Phoenix and Burlingame before moving to Mill Valley in 1945. Four years later, the Simpkins moved to Sleepy Hollow.

Mrs. Simpkins, with her husband, was long involved in Sleepy Hollow Homes Association activities, and held honorary life membership in the group. She recently took part in Marin County Republican Central Committee affairs.

Survivors, besides her husband, are two sons, James of Plainview, Ill., and Harvey of Novato; 12 grandchildren, and a great-grandchild.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

MRS. SUNDBERG

Ellen Sjoberj Sundberg, mother of Walter Sundberg of Novato, died today in a local hospital after a long illness. She was 80.

Mrs. Sundberg was a native of Finland and a resident of California since 1909. She lived in San Francisco until she arrived in Marin County 15 months ago.

During World War I, Mrs. Sundberg worked as a nurse's aide. She was a member of the Star of Finland of San Francisco.

In addition to her son, Walter, she is survived by another son, William Sundberg of Daly City, a daughter, Lillian McMahon of Ukiah, and a brother, Victor Shoberg of Cedarville, Mich., eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at the Redwood Chapel Funeral Parlor in Novato. Burial will be at Olivet Memorial Park in Colma.

Waiving Of Use Permit Is Asked

The Cotati Planning Commission last night was asked to waive use permit conditions for a child care center.

The commission reviewed the year-old use permit for My School, a child care center at 768 East Cotati Avenue, and said operators had failed to construct a fence along the property line as required.

School director Ronald S. Schultz said the school had not intended to violate conditions of its use permit, but has found the fence would restrict movements in the parking lot and making a portion of it unusable. He asked that the condition be waived and the use permit extended.

Commission secretary Donna Olson said the commission continued the matter to the Nov. 9 meeting for a decision.

Gregg Marriage Is Dissolved

The marriage of Harold E. Gregg, executive director of the Marin Conservation League, and his wife, Frances, has been dissolved in Marin Superior Court.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson ended the 40-year marriage Wednesday on grounds of irreconcilable differences and ordered Gregg to pay his wife 40 per cent of his earnings until he retires and $1 a year for five years after that.

The judge also divided the couple's extensive land holdings throughout the state.

Mrs. Gregg filed for dissolution in April. The couple has four grown children. They were married in 1931 in Berkeley.

Guilty Plea To Felony Charge

Myron Francis Kaczmarek, 28, of San Anselmo had admitted in Marin Superior Court that he drove while drunk in Larkspur in June.

Kaczmarek pleaded guilty to the felony charge before Judge Samuel W. Gardiner on condition of hit-run driving charge be dismissed and he serve a maximum of 60 days in jail.

He was arrested in a San Rafael bar after he cut off a motorcycle on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Highway 101, causing it to crash.

The cyclist, Malcolm Johnson, 41, was treated at a local hospital for scrapes and bruises.

Born in New York, he came West as a teen-ager, riding across the country on a motorcycle, and settled in Oakland. He came to Marin, worked as a fireman at Marinship in Sausalito, then began a long career with United Produce until retiring on disability.

Pieczniski was a member of Teamsters Union Local 624 of Novato.

He had lived in Fairfax since 1950, and prior to that in San Anselmo for about 15 years.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

Graveside services for Kathleen M. Anderson, former Novato resident, will be held at 11 a.m. Monday at Golden Gate National Cemetery.

Mrs. Anderson, 67, died Monday at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla. after a long illness.

She was born in England and moved to this country as a young girl. She grew up in Texas and attended the University of Texas where she was active in swimming, basketball and golf.

Mrs. Anderson lived on Vallejo Avenue and Feliz Road in Novato until moving six years ago to Iron City, Ga., to make her home with her daughter, Peggy Wimberly, who survives her.

She was a former member of the Novato Order of Eastern Star and Hamilton Air Force Base Officers' Wives Club.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by two grandchildren.

MRS. JACKSON

Claudine Jackson, 84, a longtime Californian, died yesterday in a Marin convalescent hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Alexander, N.C., Mrs. Jackson lived in San Rafael about a decade but spent most of her time in Southern California, where she and her late husband, Daniel, once operated a private school.

Her husband died in 1960.

Mrs. Mettam Given Five Years In Try To Arrange Mat's Death

By LARRY MOWELL

A solemn Marin Superior Court judge yesterday sentenced a weeping, raving Una Mettam to state prison for up to five years for trying to arrange the death of her husband.

The former clerk at San Quentin began crying softly when her attorney pleaded for probation, was sobbing loudly when Judge Henry J. Broderick ordered her to prison, and partially blotted out the judge's words with wails and pleas for mercy as he mechanically told her of her right to appeal.

"Your Honor, Why? Please give me a chance," she said, then lowered her head to a table and wailed, "no, no, no," as Broderick finished.

The 42-year-old San Rafael woman was led from the courtroom claiming the judge hated her and asserting she would die at Frontera, the state's prison for women in Southern California.

The tears were commonplace during her trial in June on the charge of soliciting in January the murder of her cab driver husband and flowed again Aug. 4 when she made her first appearance for sentencing.

At that time Broderick said he was on the verge of sending her to prison, but yielded to the recommendation of probation officer Jesse W. Johnson to send her to Frontera for up to 90 days of evaluation.

After studying her, the state prison officials recommended prison and returned her to Marin for sentencing.

The judge said first offenders like Mrs. Mettam who commit serious crimes are the most difficult to sentence, but he denied the plea of her attorney, William O. Weissich, for probation.

"She has made a horrible mistake. Nobody has been hurt," Weissich said.

"But by the grace of God," added the judge.

Mrs. Mettam's defense was that her attempt to do away with her husband, Frank, was a joke and Weissich said yesterday she still believes that. The plump, woman clad yesterday in a green jail shift, would have collected $69,000 in insurance money if her husband died in an auto accident.

Testimony during her trial indicated that on Jan. 6 she contacted an Ignacio service station owner she heard could arrange an "accident" for her. The operator, Marino Guerra, called the sheriff's department, which recorded a phone conversation in which she explained how to kill her husband.

Following her conviction, an examining psychiatrist determined she "could be a permanent threat to the health and welfare of future spouses."

Never Piloted Before, But He Brings It In

Crosby, 46, had to take over the controls of a twin-engine private airplane between Mississippi and Louisiana Thursday because pilot R.W. Hyde blacked out in flight.

"I was scared at first, but then I wasn't scared after that," he said. "I was busy, and I was talking to the man upstairs."

Airport authorities said Federal Aviation Agency officials managed to radio Crosby instructions for 50 minutes during the emergency. They talked him to a safe landing through rainy, overcast skies.

The plane came down just short of the runway and bounced, but then settled for a three-point landing.

College Must Rehire 'Immoral' Instructor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Supreme Court has ordered Los Angeles Valley College to reinstate a teacher fired for alleged "immoral" conduct by using a poem containing profane language and pictures of nude couples.

The court ruled Thursday that Dena Metzger had not acted improperly in her first year college class in using the poem and nude pictures which it said was not out of line with modern academic practice and that no student was harmed.

The board of trustees of the college had earlier been ordered by the Los Angeles Superior Court to reinstate Miss Metzger but appealed to the Supreme Court on grounds that her conduct was "evident unfitness for service."

Louis H. Burke, associate justice, writing the opinion, said the court's ruling "should not be viewed as insulating permanent teachers from discipline on account of their classroom use of indecent or profane works or writings."

CROW LIGHT guide to "Light Whiskey" -the biggest whiskey news since Repeal!

It's here. Now. Light Whiskey.

Light Whiskey. The lightest, smoothest whiskey ever made in America!

Its own light taste

Light Whiskey is made possible by sweeping new U.S. Government regulations. They permit radically different distilling and aging techniques (see box) which produce a whiskey with a delightful character all its own.

One sip of CROW LIGHT will show you that Light Whiskey is a clean break with the past. Light without being thin. Mild without being bland.

Since Repeal, the same strict regulations have controlled whiskey making in America.

But in 1968, to enable domestic distillers to make a whiskey with the lightness of Scotch and Canadian, the Government specified rules for a totally new kind of American whiskey—to go on sale this year.

Nothing shy about it

Don't be fooled by CROW LIGHT's gentle manners though. This is real whiskey all right. Fully 80 proof. But it may well be the most civilized whiskey in history.

Great mixed—or neat

Pick up your first bottle of CROW LIGHT on your way home tonight. Start by pouring it straight, over ice cubes in a wide glass. Wait. Let it chill. Then take it slowly, one smooth sip at a time.

Ahhh.

You can substitute CROW LIGHT, shot for shot, in all your favorite whiskey drink recipes. And it mixes better with fruit juices than do traditional whiskies.

CROW LIGHT is every bit as good as our 137 years of experience can make it. In fact, we're so sure you'll be pleased with it, we're willing to refund every penny if you aren't.

Go ahead. We trust your judgment. Try CROW LIGHT tonight. A clean break with the past.

Try CROW LIGHT tonight.

*We'll refund purchase price to purchaser if he is in any manner dissatisfied with CROW LIGHT. Send bottle with unused contents via Railway Express collect to: Crow Distillery Company, 15th and Bernheim Lane, Louisville, Kentucky 40201—and provide the following information: Your name, address, your comments, purchase size and price, store name and address.

Close Call On BART Platform Spurs Plea

OAKLAND (UPI)—A Bay Area Rapid Transit director described how he worked for ten "scary" seconds to free his 10-year-old son's foot after it became trapped between a waiting BART train and the Oakland Coliseum station platform.

"It was an alarming situation and I want to alert people to be a little more careful until it's remedied," Nello Bianco of Richmond told his fellow directors Thursday.

Bianco said his son, Gary, was "pushed sideways" after last Friday's World Series baseball game. The boy's foot became wedged in a gap between the platform and the train.

He said it only took ten seconds to free the boy's foot "but it was scary."

Bianco asked that the BART staff be instructed to do something about the problem immediately. BART General Manager B.R. Stokes told the board of directors something will be done at once.

Meanwhile, Stokes announced there would be delays of two to five months in the opening of BART's three remaining lines.

He said the reasons for the delays were the hiring of new employes and the accident on Oct. 2 when a train on the Fremont run went off the end of the line and injured five persons.

Stokes said the accident forced the district to spend much time in inspecting cars on hand and testing new ones.

The hiring process has been delayed because of a federal requirement that personnel from existing transit systems be given priority for BART jobs, he said.

Stokes said the Concord stretch would open in May instead of January, the San Francisco-Mission line to Daly City in September instead of June and the Berkeley-Richmond run in January instead of November.

"We're short a substantial number of people," Stokes said. "Some 175 people we should've had aboard in August are not aboard."

Panel For Mount Tam Targeted

Delegates from various Marin organizations have set sights on formation of a citizens advisory committee to serve as an intermediary between state parks and recreation officials and individuals interested in the future of Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Representatives of the Marin Conservation League, Tamalpais Conservation Club, the Mountain Play Association and other groups met at College of Marin Wednesday night to establish machinery toward formation of the advisory group.

Richard M. Sims Jr. of Belvedere, a justice of the state Court of Appeal and president of the Mountain Play Association, was authorized to name an ad hoc group that will be responsible for recommending members of the advisory group.

Sims said views on park needs were uttered by a variety of spokesman, including representatives of the state parks department. Among concerns seems to be the need for closer state-federal cooperation in view of the planned Golden Gate National Recreation Area and for developing camping space in Franks Valley to lighten population impact on the mountain.

Six-Month Jail Term In Burglaries

Ronald Walker, 20, of San Rafael, has been ordered to spend six months in jail for two burglaries in Fairfax and San Rafael.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court placed him on probation for five years and ordered him to undergo vocational therapy to complete a plea bargain.

The judge followed the negotiated sentence although he stated Walker should probably spend a year in jail.

Walker, according to his probation officer, has previously been to the California Youth Authority for burglary and refused to enter the Delancey Street Foundation in San Francisco because it is too rigidly organized.

Walker was arrested May 3 inside a Fairfax home with 20-year-old John Lauren Mott of San Rafael. While being sought for failing to make a court appearance in that case, he burglarized a San Rafael apartment on June 2.

Mott was given three months in jail and probation last month on condition he fulfill his intention to join the Marine Corps.

PROPOSED PRESERVE — About 350 acres of Marinwood's open space (shaded areas) were proposed for purchase by community residents last night. A Jan. 23 election calling for $600,000 in bonds to finance the acquisition was formally called by the community services district board.

$600,000 Open Space Bond Gets Marinwood CSD Backing

By DAVID DIETZ

As in a growing number of Marin communities, Marinwood residents indicated a clear willingness last night to spend their tax dollars on the purchase of dwindling open space.

Through a long hearing at the community center, about 100 citizens voiced no outright opposition to tentative plans by the Marinwood Community Services District board to hold a $600,000 bond election Jan. 23 to acquire up to 350 acres of land, much of it wooded hillside.

The services district board, noting its belief that the entire community of 1,400 homeowners would benefit by the purchase, capped the hearing by calling formally for the election.

If the bonds, to be amortized over a 25-yearperiod, are approved, a resident with a home appraised at $40,000 initially would pay $36.24 per $100 of assessed valuation, while the owner of a $30,000 home would pay $27.18.

The largest applause of the night greeted one resident, Thomas Langdon of 823 Idylberry Road, when he said the community would be "penny wise and pound foolish to walk away from these beautiful hills." He noted open space preservation would greatly enhance Marinwood property values.

Although acquisition has been under study for six months, the community at large got its first chance last night to examine specific properties proposed for purchase by an open space committee of the Marinwood Association, the local homeowners group.

Eleven parcels are involved, nine of them clustered in a 328-acre package filling the community's undeveloped northwestern corner. The two others, totaling about 22 acres, are near the community center and at the end of Limestone Grade, adjoining Highway 101.

Spokesman for the services district board and open space committee, who have been negotiating with the 12 owners of the parcels, assured the audience there was "no doubt whatever" the properties "can be delivered." It was noted, however, that condemnation might be necessary in the event one of the landowners balked after passage of the bonds.

There was no audience dissent to paying the $600,000, with some residents even suggesting the package might take in more land. Many questions were raised, however, on such issues as ultimate use, access by the public and criteria for eliminating parcels if the $600,000 fell short.

James C. Winter, a member of the open space committee, said the group had recommended the proposed preserve, some of which is said to be faced with imminent development, be retained in its present state. However, he said, the decision will be up to the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission and the services district board.

Joan Fernandez, a leader in last spring's successful open space drive in adjoining Lucas Valley, said that contrary to some fears, "no hordes appeared" when a large portion of the Nunes Ranch was purchased by the community.

George J. Silvestri Jr., legal adviser to the services district as deputy county counsel, said the community couldn't create a "royal preserve for the neighborhood" through the bond election, but added that "reasonable regulations" for use of the property could be adopted.

Several in the audience coveted sprawling acreage owned by the Catholic Church to the north of Marinwood. Open space committee and board spokesman noted acquisition of the 536-acre parcel would take the entire $600,000, perhaps more, but said the land, or part of it, had not been eliminated from consideration.

Cash Is Taken

Cash totaling $105 was taken Wednesday from two cash registers at the Petaluma Skate Center at the Sonoma-Marin Fairgrounds, police reported. Officers said a padlock was pried open to gain entry.

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)— Sigma Delta Chi, the professional journalism society, has launched a nationwide campaign to raise legal funds for newsman Peter J. Bridge, who was imprisoned for 20 days for failing to divulge news sources.

Dick Fogel of the Oakland Tribune, chairman of SDX's Freedom of Information Committee, said Thursday that several chapters and individuals "already got the jump on us" in providing financial aid to Bridge, reporter for the defunct Newark News.

Fogel commended Bridge for having the courage to stand up "against the coercive power of contempt" in defense of press freedom.

Californians' Campaign Funds Told

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A Common Cause survey of campaign spending reports shows the 104 California candidates for Congress raised $2.38 million and spent $1.72 million by Aug. 31.

Common Cause, which refers to itself as the public interest lobby, also said its canvass showed fund-raising between parties was almost evenly divided.

The survey released Thursday showed 42 Republicans reported receipts of $1.18 million and 43 Democrats $1.14 million. Ten Peace and Freedom party candidates reported $11,737 in receipts and nine American Independent candidates $45,284.

The spending figures were compiled by Common Cause from several hundred reports submitted to the clerk of the House. New reports on spending through mid-October were filed earlier this week and are being processed by the clerk's staff.

The reports showed Rep. Paul McCloskey Jr., R-Portola Valley, topped all fundraisers with $198,575. McCloskey's Democratic opponent, James Stewart, of Palo Alto, reported receipts of $36,486.

In another race, the report showed Rep. William Mailliard, R-San Francisco, raised $95,262 while his Democratic challenger, Roger Boas, reported receipts of $36,486.

According to the latest reports on file with the secretary of state's office Thursday, Boas' total campaign donations rose to $178,300 by Oct. 16. Boas, a former president of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors, reported spending $177,905.

The state records also showed Mailliard had collected $135,646 by Oct. 16 and spent $90,454.

Salesman Drops Out 4 Months, Then Returns

Memorial services were held for Wild, 31, about a month after his overturned boat was found in Crescent Lake and an extensive search failed to find his body.

Wednesday Wild turned up in Tacoma. He said he had spent the last four months in Hawaii "to learn to find myself." He said his career as a salesman had been too much of a strain and he planned his disappearance.

He said he would attempt to become an environmental scientist. He also said his wife, who had believed him to be dead, had accepted him back and "with the help of God, we're happy."

Alto Sewerage Plea Won By Mill Valley

I-J Special Report

CAMPBELL — The City of Mill Valley yesterday won approval to provide sewer service to the "Alto strip," where property owners have been paying double taxes for such service for four years.

The strip, some 60 acres of flatland adjacent to the west side of Highway 101 between Richardson Bay Bridge and the Alto Wye, was annexed to the city in 1968. Since then, however, it has remained in Richardson Bay Sanitary District, and its property owners have paid taxes to both the city and the district.

The Regional Water Quality Control Board yesterday unanimously approved shifting sewer connections to city lines after almost 90 minutes of debate over the impact on the city's already overburdened sewage treatment plant.

City officials finally convinced the board that an "extreme public hardship" justified the change. The hardship was that any further delay in making the sewer change would jeopardize an adjacent 70-unit low and middle-cost housing project because of complicated requirements for a federal grant toward the project.

Mill Valley City Councilman Robert Burton assured the board that it was approving only "a transfer from one substandard system to another substandard system."

The board also endorsed a plan calling for consolidation of sewage systems in the San Rafael and Ross Valley sanitary districts and San Quentin Prison.

Nixon Aide Enters Ship Strike Talks

SAN FRANCISCO UPI)— Several merchant ships were idled in West Coast ports by striking deck officers today while the Nixon administration's top labor mediator tried to resolve the three-day contract dispute.

J. Curtis Counts, chief of the federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, called negotiators for both sides to a round of talks in New York City. He met with them Thursday in Washington, D.C.

A spokesman for the struck Matson Line warned a quick settlement was necessary to prevent a "creeping paralysis" as deck officers join the walkout upon their ships' arrival in port.

The Masters, Mates and Pilots Union said seven vessels were tied up in port as Teamsters Union members, longshoremen and other unions refused to cross picket lines at the piers. An MMPU spokes man said all arriving vessels would be affected by the strike.

The deck officers began their strike Wednesday after 4-1-2 months of bargaining on a new contract failed to end with an agreement. A key issue was a Pacific Maritime Association proposal to use pension fund money to train junior officers whose jobs were in jeopardy because of automation.

The struck lines were Matson, States, American President, American Mail and Pacific Far East.

$7 Million State Gas, Oil Pact

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A $7.3 million contract has been awarded to Standard Oil Co. of California to provide gas and oil next year for state vehicles.

John S. Babich, procurement chief for the state Department of General Services, said the contract awarded Thursday represents a 2.3 per cent decrease on the state's current contract with Standard for credit card purchases for a fleet of some 26,000 vehicles.

Standard was one of two companies that submitted a bid fir the contract. The other firm, Union Oil Co. of California, bid $8.2 million.

Park Urges New Korea Constitution

SEOUL (UPI)—The government of President Park Chunghee proposed a new constitution today which gives the president more powers, extends his term from four to six years and weakens the powers of parliament.

(In Tokyo, a South Korean opposition leader, Kim Daejung, said Park was attempting to install himself as a dictator "forever.")

The proposal for a new constitution came 10 days after Park placed all of South Korea under martial law, saying he was compelled to do so by the situation at home and abroad.

Under the new constitionn, presidents—they are head of state and chief executive in South Korea—can seek reelection as many times as they wish. The existing constitution limits presidents to three terms of four years each.

The president will be elected by a "National Conference for Unification," a newly-created body which also will choose one-third of the members of parliament—with candidates recommended by the president. Presidents previously were elected by popular ballot.

Koreans will vote on the constitution, probably Nov. 21, but campaigning for or against it is banned by law.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin®.

TEAR GAS STOPS TRAFFIC

A Redefining Of Tunnel's Inspection

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The judge in the Sylmar Tunnel case clarified a controversial ruling Thursday, saying he did not intend it to mean that safety regulations written for the tunnel project were only recommendations.

Municipal Court Judge George W. Trammell III ruled Wednesday that seven safety requirements written by a state inspector the day before an explosion killed 17 workers could not be regarded as state orders to Lockheed Shipbuilding and Construction Co.

Lockheed and three employes are on trial for alleged safety violations and gross negligence stemming from the blast.

In clarifying the ruling, Trammell said he was not making a judgment on the validity of the regulations, but only leaving it up to the jury to decide.

The jury must rule, the judge said, "First, whether the requirements were reasonable ... then, if they were violated; and third, whether any violations constitute gross negligence in the maintaining of an unsafe place of employment."

The safety requirements were written by state inspector Wallace Zavettero the day before the fatal natural gas explosion.

The requirements called for continuous gas testing and improved ventilation in the tunnel

Trammell said Wednesday the regulations could not be considered orders because Lockheed, prime contractor at the tunnel, was not given prior notice as required by the state code.

Although saying the jury would have to decide the validity of the seven requirements pertaining to the tunnel, Trammell also ruled that minimum tunnel safety standards were established by the state Legislature in 1962.

Black Students Gain Entry Through Guards

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police, after calling for reinforcements, cleared a path through a crowd of jeering, scuffling white parents today and escorted 31 black students into class at embattled John Wilson Jr. Junior High School in Brooklyn.

The students, led by Rev. Wilbert Miller, a black, left a bus at about 10:30 a.m. and were escorted by police and school chancellor Harvey Scribner through the main entrance of the school.

Some of the white parents sang a mock version of the civil rights hymn "We Shall Overcome."

Most of the children who normally attend the school stayed home today at the urging of their parents.

Earlier, a shouting group of parents scuffled briefly with the police when they temporarily broke through the police lines.

Helmeted police fought with fist-swinging men and clawing women as they attempted to clear a path in front of the school for the obviously frightened children from Brownsville. A number of protesting parents were taken away in police vans.

After conferring with schools chancellor Harvey B. Scribner, the Rev. Wilbert Miller, a black Brownsville leader, agreed to take the children about a block from the school while police tried to clear the area.

While whites booed and screamed insults at him, Scribner told newsmen that the children would be taken into the school.

Rizzo Contempt Charge Sought

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Attorneys for 32 antiwar demonstrators said they would appear today before Federal Judge Daniel H. Huyett and ask that Mayor Frank Rizzo and Police Commissioner Joseph O'Neill be held in contempt of court.

Louis Natali and David Kairys said the demonstrators were arrested last Friday and held for more than eight hours without formal charges at a police station a few blocks from Independence Hall.

Rizzo said the arrests were ordered to protect President Nixon and other top government officials who accompanied him to sign the federal revenue-sharing bill. The demonstrators were released a few hours after the President left the city.

Help Wanted In Buying Ambulance

The Stinson Beach Fire Protection District board has agreed to purchase a new ambulance to replace the district's present vehicle which is more than 10 years old.

Volunteer Fire Chief George H. White said the board agreed on Wednesday to spend up to $13,000 for the ambulance and to ask the county of Marin to pay part of the cost.

"Stinson Beach has a population of 500 persons which swells to about 10,000 on weekends," White said. "And we serve everybody who comes to the district. We shouldn't have to pay the entire cost ourselves."

Aide Found Guilty In Bribe Case

FREEHOLD, N.J. (UPI)—New Jersey Secretary of State Paul J. Sherwin, top adviser to a governor who swept into office on an anticorruption platform, was convicted Thursday of conspiring and offering to receive a bribe.

William C. Loughran, a Republican fund raiser, also was convicted of the same charge by the jury of five women and seven men, and Michael J. Manzo, owner of a construction firm, was found guilty of conspiring and offering to give a bribe.

The three were charged with trying to get state Transportation Commissioner John C. Kohl to give Manzo's construction company special consideration on a $600,000 highway contract in return for a $10,000 contribution to the Republican party.

Witnesses testified that Sherwin attempted to influence Kohl. However, the company which submitted the low bid for the contract kept it.

Sherwin, 53, took a leave of absence from his job when he was indicted. He was a close personal and political friend of Gov. William T. Cahill, who campaigned largely on the promise that he would clean out corruption in the state's political circles.

All three said they would appeal. Superior Court Judge Francis X. Crahy set sentencing for Nov. 10. Each faces a maximum sentence of six years in jail and a $6,000 fine.

Valor Award To N.C. Man

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James H. Moore of Asheboro, N.C., has been presented with the Cheney award, the top Air Force prize for valor in an aircraft.

Gen. John D. Ryan, Air Force chief of staff, presented the Cheney award to Moore, a former staff sergeant who has completed his service obligation, in a Pentagon ceremony Thursday.

Moore, 27, was credited with saving the lives of his 13 fellow crew members. Their AC130 gunship was hit in Southeast Asia by an anti-aircraft shell, setting several signal flares on fire in a flammable area of the plane.

UAW Strike Looms At Major GM Plant

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The United Auto Workers union threatened Thursday to strike sometime within the next four days a key General Motors steering gear plant which could cripple auto production in other companies.

Some observers believe the threat to strike the Saginaw, Mich., steering gear plant, representing 7,000 workers, could be an attempt to bring pressure from other firms to speed settlement of production standards disputes between GM and the UAW.

The Saginaw plant not only makes parts for all GM cars and trucks, but also sells components to Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., American Motors Corp. and makers of other trucks and industrial vehicles.

An extended strike at Saginaw could deplete the supply lines to the outside companies.

For the past few weeks, the UAW has been conducting a series of short strikes at scattered plants throughout the country in order to resolve the production standards dispute.

Another strike notice was sent Thursday to a GM Assembly Division (GMAD) plant at Doraville, Ga., where 3,900 union members make parts for Chevrolets and Pontiacs.

The five-day notices were sent out by national UAW leaders in Detroit within hours of an announcement that the UAW had agreed to extend a 10:30 p.m. Thursday strike deadline on a day-to-day basis while negotiations continue at a major GM stamping plant at Hamilton, Ohio.

CALLING ALL
CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

TIPS ON POSING YOUR SUBJECTS

We have made this suggestion to our customers many times but it seems to warrant constant repetition. That is to have people occupied naturally, as they are photographed, instead of letting them stand stiffly in front of the camera.

To obtain natural postures and expressions from his subjects often requires no more ingenuity on the photographer's part than having them sit around relaxed in a group. Conversation about a topic of special interest to the subjects is a more effective way to accomplish this result.

Giving the subject something to hold can relieve posing tension. Thus a woman might be sitting holding a book on her lap and appear to be looking up from it as her picture is snapped. Or a girl in a garden might be cutting some of the flowers, smelling them, or holding one against her dress.

With children, having them play a game can usually get their attention off the camera and so permit photographing them naturally.

Reagan Asks Help In Prop. 15 Sponsor Probe

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Ronald Reagan plans to ask two federal agencies to move against what he calls "blatantly dishonest" campaign advertising by sponsors of the state employe salary ballot proposition, it was learned today.

Sources said the Republican governor will ask the Federal Communications Commission and the Federal Trade Commission to investigate advertising promoting Prop. 15 on the November ballot and "take steps against it."

The initiative, sponsored by the 100,000-member California State Employes Association, would eliminate vetoes by a governor of state worker pay raises and establish a collective bargaining system for nonwage issues.

Reagan has charged —and the CSEA denies —that Prop. 15 broadcast commercials, billboards and other advertisements are the "most blatantly dishonest" he had ever seen.

Officials of CSEA called a news conference Thursday to deny Reagan's charges and insisted that the implications of the advertising were strictly a matter of "interpretation."

Some ads assert that Prop. 15 would "put a lid on state employe salaries" while others claim it would "give control of the public payroll back to the public." Reagan said this was "absolutely untrue."

The promotion campaign on behalf of CSEA was handled by the public relations firm of Gumpers, Bently, Freed and Scott of Los Angeles. Members of CSEA chucked an estimated $2 million into the effort.

Philip Bentley, the firm's executive vice president, agreed that criticism of the advertising by officials such as Reagan could "raise large doubts" in the voters' minds but that such a hard-driving campaign "must be waged" to get a "yes" vote.

"If I had it to do again, I would do it exactly the same way," he said. "We feel that we have completely supported and documented every statement in the advertising."

Meantime, Reagan disclosed that the state soon will hire a private consulting firm to comb through state employe salary schedules and find out which are too high or too low.

"If we find that the study reveals we have gone over board and we perhaps have some employes that are way out of line, up too high... we're not going to cut their salaries," Reagan said.

DRAKE CO-EDS TRY HAND AT FOOTBALL

Look Into The Future—Freeways

FRESNO (UPI) —Freeways may one day be regulated to increase their capacity and dampen the need for building more.

This is the prediction by state highway engineer Robert Datel, in Fresno Thursday to present the National Safety Council award of honor for one million injury-free hours to the Fresno district of the state Division of Highways.

Datel said highway planners were seeking new ways to better utilize freeways such as the use of car pools or staggered working shifts.

He also said freeways were being studied as routes for mass transit systems.

The engineer said that because of increasing construction costs and the environmental impact of freeways, "we no longer automatically assume a new freeway is the answer to a given transportation problem."

Polaroid New Camera To Change Our Lives

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — After four years and $250 million, the Polaroid Corp. has intorduced a new self-developing color camera it says will "change our lives."

About the size of a paperback book and weighing only 24 ounces, the SX 70 will retail for $180 and be available nationally soon after the first of next year, Polaroid said yesterday it will go on sale in Florida Nov. 10.

The camera, brainchild of Polaroid founder Dr. Edwin Land, requires the photographer essentially to do only three things — focus, push the shutter button and wait.

One second after the photographer pushes the shutter, the camera ejects a developing picture unit within an invisible stiff protective plastic structure. The unit represents 17 layers of compounds, some only 10-thousandths of an inch thick.

The picture area at first appears uniformly turquoise, but within six minutes becomes a brilliantly colored finished print immune to rain, sun and fingerprints. It is almost impossible to bend or break with a human hand.

Operation is controlled by 250 transistors contained in the film packs. The packs cost $6.90 for a pack of 10 exposures. A special flash for indoor pictures was developed for the camera by General Electric. They cost $2.77 for a package of 10.

Watson Plan Supporter Sees Initiative As The Only Hope

Proposition 14 has been defended as the only hope for property tax relief since the Legislature has failed repeatedly to do the job itself.

The cochairman of the Marin County Committee for Proposition 14, Donald M. Van Dyke, speaking Wednesday night before the North Marin Federation of Homeowners at San Marin High School in Novato, declared that "if we want to hold onto our homes rather than be taxed out of them, then we are going to have to pass it."

(A report of the meeting in yesterday's Independent-Journal failed to include Van Dyke's remarks, which he provided an I-J reporter early yesterday. The story carried only an attack on the proposition by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, also based on a prepared statement.)

The proposition would limit property tax rates and hike state sales, excise and business taxes. Education and welfare costs would shift from local government to the state.

Its basic theory, Van Dyke said, was that property taxes should be used primarily to meet the costs of government services to people should be financed from broader sources of tax revenue.

The net effect of the measure on persons earning $30,000 or more probably will be an overall tax increase, while those earning less will receive an overall tax cut, he said.

The property tax, Van Dyke said, was "very unfair" since it was not related to ability to pay.

The only three tax reforms ever accomplished in California, he said, were brought about by initiatives on the ballot, not by legislative action.

Van Dyke branded as "fake" opposition charges that the proposition will not benefit renters. Federal wage and price controls would oblige landlords to pass tax savings on to renters, he said.

As for opposition to the measure by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post, Van Dyke said he was hardly neutral since his salary and office operations are appropriated by the Legislature.

For one thing, there's a lot more inside, inside. We're giving you plenty of legroom up front. And fantastic headroom.

We've also done a nice thing for your nose. Our new windshield is pushed way forward, and curved. It's actually 42% larger.

For comfort, the seats, too, are curved. The same way what you sit on is. And the same way your back is.

The padded dash is completely redesigned. To be read in a flash.

Getting in and out of the back seat of the Bug is now pretty easy even for non-athletic types.

And we've had some very fresh ideas about air. And how to circulate it. Our remarkable improved ventilation system even de-fogs the side windows.

Altogether, the interior of the 1973 Super Beetle is so radically different, you'd have a hard time knowing it was a Beetle, except for the steering wheel insignia.

There remain, however, certain things that will give you the clue that you're driving a VW.

Economy. Dependability. Our good old never-give-up character.

The beauty of the new inside may be its beauty.

But the fact that it comes in the car it does is the most beautiful part of all.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

Will Sugar Cane Curtain Be Next For Kissinger?

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Few in official Washington would be surprised if Henry Kissinger turned up in Havana one morning to begin hacking away at the sugar cane curtain.

Fidel Castro's barrier is about the last hill President Nixon's closest adviser has not yet climbed; when and if he does, claim those who know him, it will be in the same quiet, anonymous and thorough way he has helped open the doors to Peking and Moscow.

Professorial in appearance but pragmatic by reputation, the 49-year-old German-born Kissinger is simultaneously the most important, yet one of least public men in Nixon's inner circle.

His personal history is on the record: Born near Nuremberg in 1923, his Nazi-persecuted parents fled to America in 1938. At 21 he was in charge of a county for the U.S. Army in occupied Germany. At 33 he joined the Harvard faculty. At 49 he was present at the creation of President Nixon's proposed Vietnam peace settlement.

HENRY KISSINGER
Plays wide roles

He is 5 feet 10 inches, slightly rotund, wears relatively short wavy hair and horn-rimmed dark glasses, and still speaks — quietly —with the trace of a German accent.

Publicly he has won repute for being everything from a power-hungry Dr. Strangelove to an irresistable womanizer. One former worker called him "selfish, cunning, calculating, power-mad and publicity obsessed." Others say he is dedicated, loyal and intelligent.

All seem to agree he is subtle —an attribute credited with helping break the cold war foreign policy syndrome built since the days of John Foster Dulles.

To the press he is witty, frequently accessible and clever. To Congress he is impressive and generally cooperative —even though the cloak of executive privilege has kept him from its inquisitions on the war.

Away from his duties, he is reported to be a devoted father to his two children by a former marriage. He enjoys the Washington cocktail circuit. He was once quoted as saying "power is a great aphrodisiac."

The women who date him seem to be one of the most prolific sources of information about him. One once said in an interview:

"When you first look at him a girl gets the feeling that she's about to go out with a prosperous delicatessen owner from the Bronx. But once Henry starts to talk, and generally he takes over the conversation, he is an absolute delight —charming, courteous, attentive, fascinating. No girl could ask for a more rewarding date."

Felony Charges Filed In Initiative Forgeries

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. Thursday reported felony charges have been filed in Alameda County against 11 persons who allegedly forged names and committed other fraudulent acts in campaigns to place Props. 14, 15 and 22 on the Nov. 7 ballot.

"Today's legal action marks a milestone in California history," Brown said. "This is the first time in decades that a district attorney has taken strong steps to vigorously enforce our laws regulating initiative campaigns."

Brown said the felony charges, filed by Alameda County District Attorney Lowell Jensen, resulted from an investigation requested Aug. 29 by Brown.

The secretary of state said that at that time he uncovered evidence of fraud involving the circulation of petitions for Prop. 22, the farm labor initiative. Brown later said a large number of forged signatures were used to help qualify the measure for the ballot.

"I expect that today's action in Alameda County will soon be followed by similar charges against petition circulators in other counties," Brown said in a statement.

Prop. 14 is the controversial Watson property tax limitation measure. Prop. 15 is a measure which would eliminate the governor's power to veto state employe pay raises approved by the state Personnel Board.

Brown said handwriting experts working for the Oakland Police Department confirmed 365 forged signatures on initiative petitions filed with the Alameda County clerk. Of those, he said, 130 were counted as valid by the registrar of voters and certified to the secretary of state's office.

In one instance, Brown said, the experts found evidence that a petition circulator copies names from a telephone book instead of trying to obtain proper signatures.

No Victor In Hospital Build Pleas

It was public hospital plans versus private hospital plans in petaluma last night and both were denied permission to build.

The Sonoma County Comprehensive Health Facilities Planning Council denied applications by both the Petaluma Hospital District and the privately-owned Petaluma General Hospital as they competed for permission to build new hospitals.

Board members showed a preference to plans to expand Hillcrest Hospital to 100 beds when Petaluma General Hospital refused to participate in the hearing. Its representative, attorney Leroy Lounibos, challenged the jurisdiction of the council to pass on the plans.

He said Petaluma General had already bypassed the council and filed Tuesday its application for an operating license with the state Department of Health in Sacramento. Lounibos said the Bay Area Health Planning Council had failed to act on the hospital request within the specified time period, thus automatically approving the plans.

Representatives of the hospital district countered that Petaluma General had requested the delay.

Dr. William Henneks, chairman of the Sonoma council, said it was doubtful that either plan could proceed since official state plans indicate a need for only 38 additional beds in Southern Sonoma. He said that Sonoma Valley is included in the Petaluma planning district although recently approved hospital beds here would not benefit Petaluma residents.

Representatives of both hospitals said they would apply for variances so more hospital beds can be allotted to Petaluma.

The Petaluma hospital district proposed a 100-bed hospital to replace the 57-bed Hillcrest. Under the plan, the new hospital would be built at Old Redwood Highway and Denman Road at an estimated cost of $4.7 million. The two-story building would include 100,000 square feet and would be financed through the sale of revenue bonds. Hillcrest would be used for some other type of medical care than a general hospital.

The Petaluma General request was for a 99-bed hospital on North McDowell Boulevard at an estimated cost of $3,270,000. The one-story building would include 54,800 square feet which brought complaints that fewer auxiliary services would be available than through the Hillcrest plan.

Others complained that the private group had applied for only a 99-bed hospital so it would not need to provide services required of hospitals with 100 or more beds.

The council solidly backed the idea of only one hospital for Petaluma and balked at the request of Petaluma City Councilman William A. Perr Jr. that two hospitals be permitted. Members said one large hospital would provide more thorough and economical health services for residents than two small hospitals.

Representatives of both groups were advised to request a variance to permit either 99 or 100 beds and to reapply to the council if they want further consideration.

Mopup Begins In Plumas Blaze

QUINCY (UPI) —Firefighters began "mop up" work Thursday after controlling a fire that burned through 320 acres of brush timber in a rugged canyon along the Feather River in the Plumas National Forest.

The fire started late Tuesday about half way between Quincy and Oroville when the wind blew a tree on a Pacific Gas & Electric Co. power line.

Poll Shows Cranston As Favorite

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The California Poll today suggested that a 1974 race for the U.S. Senate between incumbent Democrat Alan Cranston and Republican Ronald Reagan would be a hard-fought affair with Cranston currently the slight favorite.

Cranston has predicted Reagan would run against him, but Reagan has not announced any plans other than the fact he does not plan to run for a third term as governor in 1974. Sen. John Tunney, also a Democrat, comes up for re-election in 1976.

To try to analyze the Senate race, the poll first assessed the voters' impressions on Reagan. It found 29 per cent thought he was doing a good job and 30 per cent a poor job. Thirty-five per cent rated his performance as "fair" and 6 per cent had no opinion.

Those percentages have not changed much in recent months though in February of 1969, 42 per cent said Reagan was doing a good job and 15 per cent a poor job.

The poll found that people had less of an impression of the two senators, and less of Cranston than Tunney even though the latter has been in office only half as long.

Some 23 per cent thought Cranston was doing a good job, 12 per cent a poor job, 35 per cent a fair job and 30 per cent had no opinion. For Tunney, the percentages were 22-32-21 with 25 per cent having no opinion.

In a theoretical matchup between Cranston and Reagan in a race for the U.S. Senate, Cranston was the winner 46 per cent to 35 per cent with 19 per cent undecided.

Sausalito Resident Is Found Dead

A 38-year-old Sausalito man died yesterday, apparently of a self-inflicted gunshot wound, the Marin County Coroner's office reported.

He was a native of Illinois.

Survivors include his wife, Sylvia, of San Rafael.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel in Mill Valley.

Nixon To Veto Nine Measures; Too Costly

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon said today he will veto nine measures because they would exceed his budget by $2.75 billion over the next two fiscal years. He said he was taking the action despite advice that it would be "politically very damaging."

"If I were to sign these measures into law, I would, in effect, be making promises that could not be kept since the funds required to finance the promised services are not available and would not be available without the higher taxes I have promised to resist," he said in a statement.

He repeated his pledge to hold federal spending to $250 billion and claimed the nine measures if enacted into law, would breach the budget by $750 million in the 1973 fiscal year and by nearly $2 billion in 1974.

"Each of these measures by itself might seem justifiable or even highly desirable," Nixon said, adding that the decisions had been very difficult ones for him.

The bills involved were:

The appropriations for the Health Education and Welfare Department, a measure which Nixon said included $535 million in over-spending. He vetoed an earlier version of the same measure which contained a budget busting $1.8 billion last August and said the latest version was as unwarranted as the first.

The public works and economic development Act of 1972 which Nixon said would unnecessarily add new federal programs which have been demonstrably ineffective in creating jobs and stimulating economic development.

A measure authorizing federal funds to support mineral research and training institutes in each of the 50 states and Puerto Rico, legislation which Nixon said was unneeded because of workable existing programs.

A bill to increase federal spending for airport development, a measure which Nixon said was too narrow in scope.

A flood control act which Nixon said contained some desirable features which he would propose in other legislation in the next Congress but was objectionable because it contained ill-defined and potentially costly programs.

A measure which would give some 1,500 deputy marshals a 38 per cent pay increase. Nixon said there was "no justification for this highly preferential treatment" for this one section of federal employes.

The National Cemeteries Act of 1972 which requires Congressional approval before any land belonging to the Veterans Administration larger than 100 acres can be disposed of. He said this feature conflicted with his program to assure that all federal property is being put to its best and fullest use and would impede the legacy of parks under which surplus federal properties are returned to local governments for recreational use.

The Veterans Health Care Expansion Act of 1972 which Nixon said "would unnecessarily add hundreds of millions of dollars to the federal budget" by opening the Veterans Administration hospital systems to non-veterans.

The Rehabilitation Act of 1972 which Nixon said would divert the vocational rehabilitation program from its basic objectives into activities which are essentially medical in character.

Princess Grace, Grant Say Hello

LEEDS, England (AP) — Princess Grace of Monaco went to a ball and met her one-time screen lover, Cary Grant.

"I'm delighted to see you again," the princess, former actress Grace Kelly, told the 68-year-old Grant last night when they met at a Variety Club of Great Britain ball.

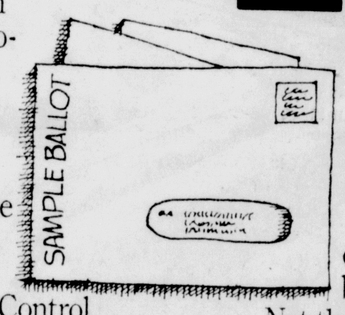
It's decision season again ladies and gentlemen. The program's in your mailbox. Complete with twenty-two (count them) unreadable ballot propositions.

We can't help you with the other 21 propositions. But we can shed a little light on Proposition 15. The State Pay Control Amendment. (After reading this ad, you may still vote against us. But at least you'll know why.)



State employees should work, not walk.

On May 22, 1972, state Water Project employees shut off the water flowing into Southern California. It wasn't the first strike by state employees.

We'd like to make it the last.

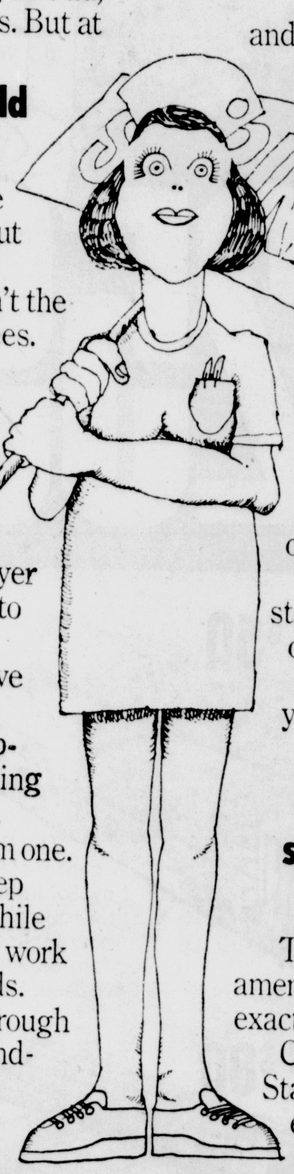
Unlike many workers in private industry, California State employees have no established way to work out employee-employer problems. They either have to strike or quit.

Twenty-five percent have quit in the past year. Others have staged costly work stoppages. The majority are looking for an intelligent alternative.

Proposition 15 gives them one.

A yes vote on 15 will keep state employees on the job while their elected representatives work out disputes with state boards. By law, decisions reached through these negotiations will be binding on all state employees.

Talking is much better than walking.



State employees should work for you, not the politicians.

Salaries of state employees are controlled by a handful of politicians. Not the entire legislature.

Control a man's income and you control the man. (Look at any boss-ridden eastern city and see how bad it can get.)

Three times in the past three years these politicians took money the legislature allocated to pay state college personnel, nurses, highway patrolmen, forest fire fighters and other California employees and put the money aside for their own pet projects.

Proposition 15 will take state pay control out of the hands of politicians and give it back to you, the voters, through your elected legislators.

After all, it's your money.

State pay should be controlled, not manipulated.

The State Pay Control amendment is designed to do exactly what it says.

Control state pay.

State salaries will be set by the established boards: The State Personnel Board, University of California Regents and State University and College Trustees.

Does that mean a generous board can run away with the taxpayers' money?

Absolutely not.

Proposition 15 limits the increases (or decreases) pay boards can recommend. State salaries, by law, will be kept equal to the average paid for the same jobs in private industry.

In other words, a lab technician working for the state will get the average salary paid to lab technicians in the private sector.

No more. No less.

As a safeguard, your elected representatives in the State Legislature have the right to turn down raises which might unbalance the budget.

The final vote belongs to you.

Does Proposition 15 mean higher taxes?

No.

The state has collected enough of your money to cover easily any and all salary adjustments affected by Proposition 15. (On June 30, 1972, the budget surplus was already $565.7 million.)

Keep state pay in line without a tax increase. Vote Yes on 15.

The Morally Battered Child Problem Rises

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A noted child psychiatrist said Thursday that the "morally battered" child was becoming an increasingly grave problem.

Dr. E. James Anthony, director of the William Greenleaf Eliot Division of Child Psychiatry at the Washington School of Medicine at St. Louis, Mo., said they are crippled—on the one hand—by overzealous, over-aspiring establishment parents.

On the other hand, Anthony said, they are crippled by over-permissive parents who themselves are "discumbobulated" by too many conflicting messages from society.

Anthony said the "morally battered" child was analagous in many respects to the child physically beaten.

The child, the doctor said, is ridden with guilt, constantly made to feel shame, smallness, inadequacy.

Teen Trio On Bike Struck In Hit-Run

A Novato teen-ager was hospitalized and two others treated for injuries last night when an auto struck them and its driver sped away, Novato police said today.

All three boys were riding one bicycle on Center Road near Villa Maria at 10:30 p.m., police said. An eyewitness reported hearing a thud, seeing the boys on the street and a white, late-model Toyota speeding away,investigators said.

Ronald Robert Potter, 16, of 1661 Center Road, was in the intensive care unit of Novato General Hospital today for observation of a head injury and treatment of leg cuts. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Michael Allen James, no age given, of 771 Diablo Avenue, was examined at Novato General Hospital.

Police said they had not made an arrest in the case.

Better Bumpers, Better Rates

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The buyer of a new car with a better bumper can get a reduction of up to 20 per cent in his insurance.

That's the word from the California State Automobile Association Inter-Insurance Bureau.

The highest reduction will be given for cars with bumpers capable of withstanding a 5-mile per hour impact without damage.

Big Fish Kill Is Scheduled

KERNVILLE (UPI) —A fish kill designed to wipe out rough fish along 45 to 50 miles of the Kern River has been set for Nov. 11 or 12.

The state Department of Fish and Game and Southern California Edison officials reported Thursday the cleanout is aimed at eliminating so-called rough fish, particularly squaw fish, because they are endangering trout.

The kill will consist of dumping 300-400 gallons of rotenone into the water at various points.

Larkspur Police In New Building

The Larkspur Police Department moved today to its new facility in Piper Park on Doherty Drive, next to Henry C. Hall School.

The move marked the end of a half-century of police work in the city hall and was necessary, according to assistant city manager Harlan Barry, because the old quarters were inadequate.

Built at a cost of $60,000, the new police station is the first structure in Piper Park, which is destined to be developed on a large scale in the next few years. The only other improvement so far is a baseball field.

Larkspur residents' calls to police will automatically be transferred to the new facility. The police telephone numbers will not change.

Barry said the city probably will erect an arrow sign on Magnolia Avenue pointing down Doherty Drive toward the police station.

Land Impact Guidelines Accepted

General guidelines for requiring environmental impact reports were accepted last night by the Rohnert Park Planning Commission.

The resolution to be considered by the city council next month would require that any construction requiring any type of approval from the city first provide a report on its impact on the environment.

Commission secretary Sandra Nelson said the proposed resolution delineates various kinds of reports to be submitted depending on the scope of the construction project.

The commission delayed action on two requests to rezone large parcels until the Nov. 9 meeting. Planning staff members said more study is needed before recommendations can be prepared on the request of Shapell Industries to rezone 680 acres and the application of Spivock Co. to rezone 175 acres. Both are in the city's northern section.

About 17,000 snakes were collected in Manitoba in 1971 for use in scientific research and university laboratories.

Police Cars Purchase Is Approved

The Novato City Council last night authorized purchasing 10 police cars through the state at $28,936.

The council Tuesday night rejected all three bids received on the cars and authorized staff to negotiate with bidders. In the meantime, the staff got the price from the state which was nearly $4,000 lower than Nave Dodge, whose bid of $32,929 was lowest of the three bidders.

The Novato City Council also:

PLANS — Approved precise plans for the Cow Barn apartments of 90 units on five acres on South Novato Boulevard opposite Fire Station 2 for Allan Steinau. However, it adjourned at 1 a.m. without hearing the precise plans for the 32-unit Rowland Boulevard apartments on 2.3 acres on Rowland Boulevard east of South Novato Boulevard for International Concrete systems Consultants Inc. Both had been continued for the Tuesday council meeting.

MEETINGS — Scheduled 8 p.m. Nov. 1 at the Novato community house for a joint meeting with the Novato Planning Commission and the county assessor on the Novato general plan and the assessed valuation of the city. It also scheduled 8 p.m. Nov. 2 for a meeting with the Marin County Planning Commission and the city-county planning council to iron out differences between the proposed county master plan and the Novato master plan.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned until 9 a.m. tomorrow to interview applicants for a position on the planning commission.

Environmental Impact Review Panel Created

The Novato City Council passed an emergency ordinance last night creating an environmental impact review committee to determine whether a development plan must be accompanied by an environmental impact report.

The committee will be composed of the heads of the city's planning, public works and parks and recreation departments.

It took more than three and a half hours for the council to iron out wording of the emergency ordinance while approximately 40 persons waited, believing the council was going through a list of projects to determine whether the reports would be required.

With the adoption of the ordinance, the council handed its decision to the newly created committee and did not consider the 19 projects totaling approximately 4,650 dwelling units for environmental impact reports. Many developers then left, but some stayed until the council adjourned at 1 a.m.

The council previously had listed 12 conditions for which an environmental impact report would not be needed. Some of these were new uses in existing buildings, land division, bringing a building up to code, auxiliary structures such as carports and swimming pools, tree removal and construction of single-family homes.

Under the ordinance passed unanimously last night, the environmental impact reports must contain the reason for the project, design of the project and activities such as site preparation for it. It also must show how it relates to air and climate; water resources; soils, geology and geography; wildlife and vegetation, and the linking of all of the above together.

Other things to be included are existing land uses adjacent to it, availability of public services, market for the project, and historical and aesthetic resources.

In judging the report, the committee will judge it on its uniqueness, importance, complexity, uncertainty and conflicting preferences for the land.

Much time was spent on wording to eliminate city council review of development plans approved by the planning commission.

Left unresolved was whether the new committee would comply with the state law requiring 24 hours advance notice of its meetings to the press.

The city council agreed to meet at 9 p.m. Tuesday to discuss policies, procedures and preparation of impact reorts.

'Elitist' Marin Is In Offing, Rights Group's Report Warns

With veiled reference to the countywide general plan, the Marin County Human Rights Department has warned that Marin is being shaped into an elitist one-class community of the rich.

The warning is contained in the watchdog agency's recently released annual report to the county board of supervisors.

"Present policies generally dictate that the present (middle class) residents are preparing the 'Marin County of the future' for those of considerable affluence, with relatively few children," the report says.

"It is as if a tribe of people were deliberately setting out to plan their own demise, in order to provide a setting for a new monolithic, super-wealthy social order."

To support its argument, the department points to the current lack of low and moderate-income family housing — a situation, it believes, will worsen as more and more land is placed in open space thus driving up the cost of remaining developable land.

The lack of such housing, it claims, already "tends to keep out young families and is driving older people from the county . . .

"Ironically, the enlightened interest of Marin residents in open space and agricultural preserves tends to accelerate the cost of housing in remaining buildable areas."

(The county planning department maintains that only by limiting and controlling growth — as called for in the proposed countywide general plan — will Marin continue to have an economic mix of residents.)

The report adds that new housing for families with less than $10,000 annual income cannot be built in Marin because of high land prices.

"The prognosis shows that young people who were raised in this county are not likely to be able to afford to remain here and start their families unless their income level is above $10,000."

The document, prepared by executive director Gerald J. Hood and his staff, basically outlines the department's activities during fiscal 1971-72.

It also gives a detailed picture of poverty in Marin showing slightly less than 10,000 persons on some form of welfare.

In one category, family aid, 80 per cent of the recipients last year fell below the age of 40, and 58 per cent between the ages of 22 and 28. About 67 per cent had two children per family.

The figures represent a "floating, highly mobile population . . . some of which originated in Marin County and some of it came to Marin after Haight-Ashbury."

The unemployment rate in the county, it continues, varies in estimates ranging from 4 to 6 per cent, depending on the source.

Unemployment and housing make up the bulk of problems faced by the poor in Marin, the report says, adding there are about 15,000 families living on incomes of less than $10,000.

Dahomey Army Seizes Power

PARIS (UPI)—The army seized power Thursday in the poor West African republic of Dahomey, the second coup since 1967, and French radio said the man in the street in Cotonou, the capital, learned about it only when it was announced in a national radio broadcast.

The overthrow of President Justin Ahomadegbe, 55, came in the fifth coup since Dahomey gained its independence from France in 1960.

Communication links with the outside world were cut, isolating 2.5 million Dahomeans.

The coup was announced by the deputy commander of Dahomey's armed forces, Gen. Matie Kerekou, who played a key role in the 1967 coup, but there was no indication who actually would assume the role of national leader.

McGovern Pleads For Labor Vote

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern appealed today for the labor vote by warning that the Nixon administration was preparing "a major assault" on American labor in his second term.

The Democratic presidential nominee said he had obtained a secret report prepared by an assistant secretary of labor which "calls for a second Nixon administration to slow the expansion of workmen's compensation, phase out the enforcement of minimum wage laws and seriously undermine the construction unions."

He said it appeared to be "the first post-November installment in Mr. Nixon's schedule of repayments to the powerful interests who have bankrolled his campaign."

In remarks prepared for a meeting of building trades union leaders McGovern said the report recommends "gutting still further" the department's program to enforce minimum wage laws by cutting back compliance officers in the department from 800 to 300.

The candidate also claimed the "secret plan maps an elaborate strategy to greatly expand the federal power to contract for wages far below prevailing union scales." Present law requires the federal government not to use its great purchasing power to undercut the prevailing wage rate in a community.

In his fifth and perhaps last trip to California in quest of the state's 45 electoral votes McGovern promised not to shut any defense installations until "alternate jobs are on the drawing board or ready to go."

Shifting momentarily from the war issue which may have been jerked from beneath him, McGovern addressed himself Thursday night in a speech to a wildly enthusiastic and mostly young crowd of about 5,000 persons at the state fairground at Sacramento to the main issue in California—defense jobs.

At first reticent Thursday about discussing the disclosures of near peace by Hanoi radio and presidential adviser Henry Kissinger, McGovern told the crowd the administration should not let South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu "dictate any more war for us."

He told the students, "many of you deserve much of the credit for the restoration of peace" if it comes. But he exhorted them to question why it took so much time and so many lives.

With the peace he said he had called for so many years apparently near at hand, McGovern appeared to be switching his tactics to putting the onus on President Nixon if a cease-fire is not reached by Nov. 7. Kissinger did not hold out hope Thursday that peace was less than weeks away.

AT FUNERAL

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sargent Shriver cut short a Detroit campaign visit and returned to New York today to attend funeral services for Jackie Robinson.

Aides said Shriver was acquainted with the black baseball player, but was not a close friend.

Before leaving Detroit Thursday night, the Democratic vice presidential nominee was asked on a television interview if he believed the possible cease-fire agreement announced by presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger would put the election in President Nixon's pocket.

"I think that is the initial reaction most people have," Shriver said. "I had that reaction myself when I first heard of it.

"But I have been very much impressed with the number of people who have had a very different reaction ...I think so many people have been so misled over a number of years, so tricked, by so many people—not just by politicians but by businessmen and others — I think they have come to the conclusion that this is a political trick."

Shriver disagreed with Kissinger's assessment that the major breakthrough in the peace negotiations came on Oct. 8 when North Vietnam agreed to a military settlement before a political one. He called it "a distinction without any significant difference."

"We've been fighting three years under President Nixon, spent $60 billion and lost 20,000 men to achieve what?...I don't know. Those were the same terms we could have achieved in 1968."

NO MENTION

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called Sen. George McGovern "a politician of the utmost expediency" Thursday in a prepared speech that did not mention the impending cease-fire in Vietnam.

Agnew was one of the few politicians at a rally of GOP faithful who did not mention Vietnam.

An aide told reporters Agnew would not make a statement, although he watched presidential adviser Henry Kissinger discuss on television the terms of the proposed cease-fire agreement.

Agnew said McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, switched his position on legalization of marijuana, amnesty for draft resisters, tax and fiscal policy.

"The hallmark of his campaign has been inconsistency so repetitive that I think we can safely say that the only consistent thing about Sen. McGovern is his inconsistency," Agnew said.

GALLUP POLL

PRINCETOWN, N.J.(UPI)—President Nixon leads Sen. George McGovern by a 59 per cent to 36 per cent margin in the latest Gallup poll released Thursday.

McGovern moved up two percentage points in the poll, conducted from Oct. 13-18. It also indicated 4 per cent were undecided and 1 per cent supported other candidates.

The previous Gallup poll, conducted Sept. 29-Oct. 9, showed Nixon with a lead of 60 per cent to 34 per cent over McGovern.

BUGGING

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Clark MacGregor, President Nixon's campaign director, says there is a cash fund used for reelection expenditures but it is not "secret."

The General Accounting Office and investigators of the House Banking Committee have reported that a "secret" fund had between $350,000 and $700,000. The GAO alleged that the fund was illegal.

But MacGregor said Thursday that the fund had never been "secret" and that it contained "very much less than" $350,000. MacGregor said there were no improper uses of the funds since he became Nixon's campaign director July 1 and that he was assured that there had been no abuses before July 1.

Congressional investigators have linked the funds with $114,000 that turned up in the bank account of Bernard Barker, a suspect in the alleged burglary and bugging of Democratic national headquarters June 17.

Tax Group Endorses Candidates

Irate Taxpayers of Marin last night endorsed three candidates in the Nov. 7 election, reported president Sarah Nome.

Members endorsed R. Michael Peevey for the fourth supervisorial district, and incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni for the second district, said Mrs. Nome.

"We feel Arrigoni has done a good job of budget watching on the board of supervisors," said Mrs. Nome, "and Peevey would be our choice for the type of measures we want."

The group voted to endorse Harry Moore, Democratic candidate for the Assembly, considering he, too, would be a "tight budget watcher," reported Mrs. Nome.

Irate Taxpayers gave "overwhelming support" to Proposition 14, the Watson property tax initiative, Mrs. Nome said, and a statement by county auditor-controller Mike Mitchell was read supporting the proposition which stated:

"This would be one way of assuring that some control over taxation would be returned to the hands of property-owners, insofar as the county portion of the tax bill is concerned."

Marin Women

THE MATURE WOMAN

Growing Number Return To College

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press

Growing numbers of women returning to the campus after marriage and children are finding that college means more than a return to tests and textbooks. It can often mean unsettling and dramatic changes in family life.

In some cases it has led to divorce, while in others it has resulted in closer relationships with husband and children.

According to U.S. Labor Department census statistics, the number of women aged 25 to 34 who returned to school has almost doubled during the most recent five-year period for which figures are available. It increased more than tenfold in a 19-year-span.

In 1969, the most recent year for which figures are available, 526,r00 women were enrolled in classes. That compares with 238,000 in 1964 and 47,000 in 1950.

NO FIGURES are available for women ages 35 and over, but a Labor Department spokesman said she believed the growth rate was similar.

A variety of reasons for going back to school emerged in interviews on several college campuses around the country.

Many of the women are housewives with diminishing home responsibilities who want to start on or complete college degrees and embark on professional careers. Others go back for intellectual stimulation and self-enrichment.

"I think I'm quite a different person after coming back to college," said Carol Herman, a 37-year-old mother of three studying for her bachelor's degree at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y. "My whole sense of values and priorities has changed.

"The average woman who gets married at an early age is limited in her intellectual and emotional growth. When she goes back to school, she often starts changing her ideas, becomes more independent and widens her experiences.

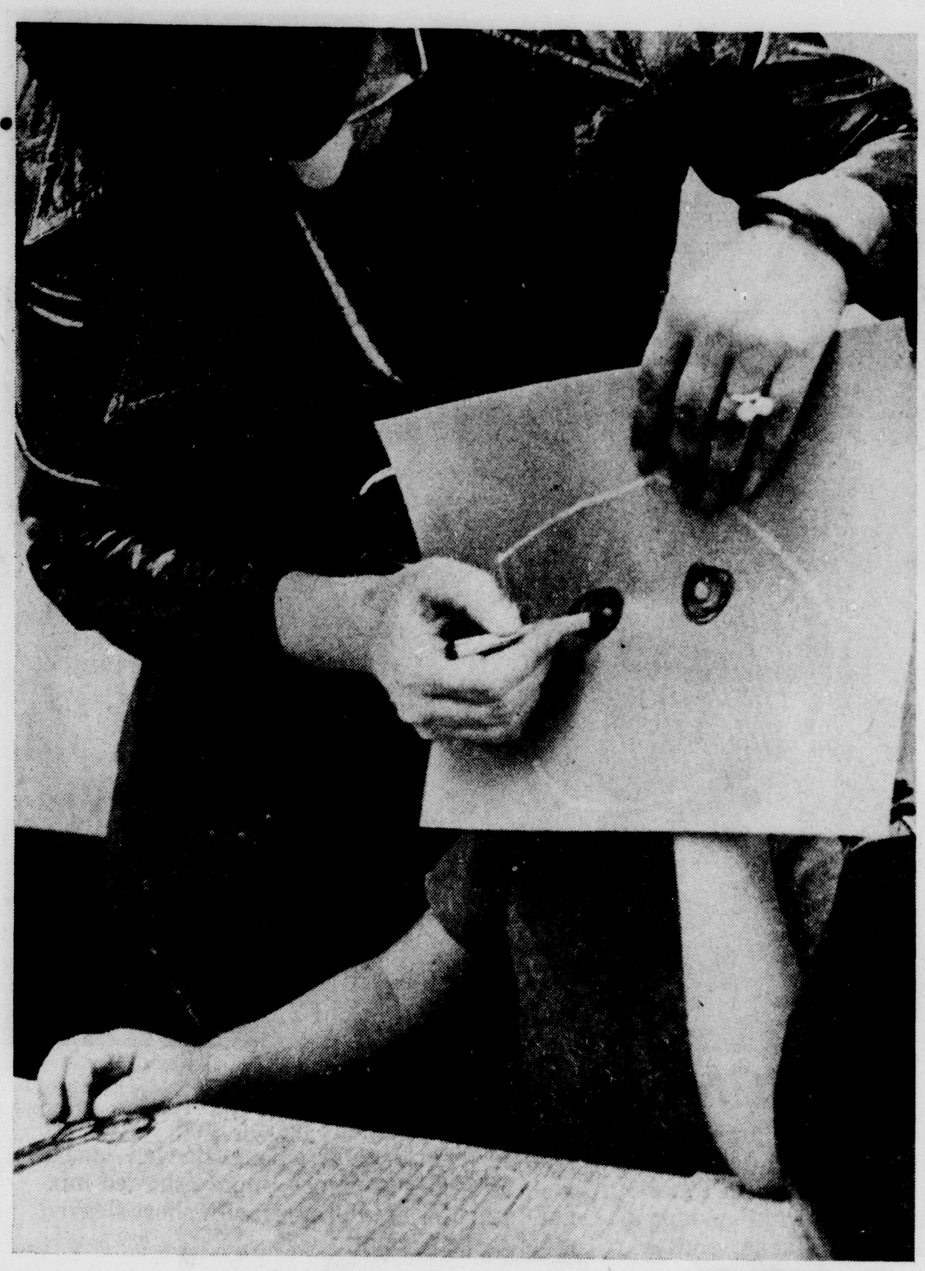
"IT CAN BE very painful and can create a strain on a marriage. You're not the same woman your husband married."

Counselors of returning women say most of them have encouraging, supportive husbands and that many develop closer ties with their families. But if a marriage is bad, the counselors agree, a woman is usually able to accept the fact and end it.

All the women interviewed said they had developed a greater sense of self-worth and independence as a result of returning to school.

"Coming to school is frightening to these women," said Elizabeth Minnich, director of the Sarah Lawrence Center for Continuing Education, which encourages older women to go back to school.

"They're afraid they're not going to do well. Some have told me, 'All my life, men have told me I'm dumb. So I must be.' Well, they find out they're not, and it can be a great shock for them as well as for their husbands.



IS THAT YOUR EYE?

PIECES OF construction paper, paper plates, doilies, paper flowers and glitter were transformed into Halloween masks with the help of a little glue, some crayons and scissors and the imagination of about 40 children, who gathered at the Corte Madera Library for a mask making session. Supplies were donated by the library and friends and neighbors of the library. Standing (far left) is Barbara Rauhala, Marin County Civic Center children's librarian, who with Teddy Olwyler and Novato children's librarian, Linda Switzer, helped the children.

Tips Are Offered For Halloween Night

It is almost Halloween night, and children are getting anxious to venture out into the night to knock on doors for trick or treats.

Most parents are not as eager for Halloween night wanderings. Traffic can be hazardous, especially in the seemingly safe suburbs, where sidewalks often do not exist.

One solution to the traffic hazard could be a do-it-yourself traffic patrol, arranged in advance with other neighborhood parents. Establish boundaries within which the trick or treaters must stay. Decide which intersections or stretches of the block need covering and assign adults to those areas, perhaps in shifts of half hour or hours.

For very young children, plan ahead for a brief sortie out to a few homes, selected in advance. An hour is long enough for three to five-year-olds.

Most small children don't mind being joined by adults, but if they are at an age where they consider adult accompaniment as being treated like babies, follow at a discreet distance.

10-Week-Old Son Joins Father In School Office

CINCINNATI (UPI) — In the spirit of togetherness, the dean of the college of education at the University of Cincinnati has put a crib in his office so he can bring his 10-week-old son to work with him twice a week.

When the boy is there, Dr. Hendrik D. Gideonse's wife of six years, Sarah, comes to his office to breast feed their son.

"I'm not going to see my son only when he's sleeping in a dark crib," Gideonse, 36, said Monday.

"THE PURPOSE of the arrangement was partially to free me," his wife said. "But mostly, it makes Henry feel together."

Gideonse was formerly a research planner with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, where his studies had the dominant theme of "humanizing work so that it does not require such a complete separation from the values, needs and activities which fulfill people emotionally and aesthetically."

"But someone's got to start," he said. "You do what you can do and I can do this."

"YOU DON'T have to be hung up in rules handed down to you without anyone ever saying what they are," he said. "Like 'appropriate professional behavior.' I can't be bothered."

University President Warren Bennis said he has received only one complaint — from a secretary who claimed "the whole place is upset."

"Since this is a tax-supported institution, my first concern is the competency of the dean and the quality of his department, not his personal philosophy," said Bennis.

"Hendrik believes he ought to give his wife a hand. I heartily endorse this. If it doesn't interfere with his work, I say bully for him."

Ski Stretch Pants Are Having Revival

Skiwear this winter features a pant for any of the many bootstyles. Sleek stretch pants are having a revival, some with zig-zag stitching trims on the pockets, wait and legs. Other warm-up pants feature sawtooth stitching on the slim nylon pant in colorful tones.

"All Skidding Aside" is what one manufacturer calls its pant with non-skid insert at the back and sides, to put an end to the "cire slide" down the mountain after a high-speed wipe-out.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Writer Wonders Why Columnist 'Suggested Divorce' For Woman

COLUMNIST BOTTEL:

I wrote a letter of complaint to you 15 years ago in Boise, Idaho, care of the local paper where your column ran. You were prejudiced in favor of women then and, I'm sorry to say, judging from your recent answer to another bellyaching dame you haven't improved much.

Who are you to suggest divorce (to "Gail") when you don't know how many lies she's telling about her husband? A woman's place is in the home and she should stay there and work things out for the sake of her children. So her husband "browbeats them," and "criticizes, complains and bosses" but "everybody outside thinks he's perfect." Maybe everybody is right and she is a slob and a slut.

Don't encourage these stupid critters, Mrs. B. They'll just go out and make a mess of some other man's life, when at least their own men know how to keep them under control. Divorce is an abomination. Why must you immediately recommend it above all other measures? — MR. T.G.

DEAR MR. G.:

First paragraph: Sorry, wrong number: My column has never run in a Boise, Idaho newspaper. In fact, it wasn't even running around in my head 15 years ago.

Second paragraph: Friend, you've jumped to more conclusions — laced with more condemnations — based on skimpier facts —than did your "prejudiced" columnist (who had a four-page single-spaced letter to study.)

Third paragraph: Your reading comprehension hasn't improved much in 15 years, as you're still scrambling facts I suggested "seeing a lawyer" as a last resort, after a marriage counselor told this wife, "divorce was indicated." Even then I tempered my "advice" with "maybe a little bluff-calling will help your husband change his ways."

But you're right when you say a columnist never really knows the whole story. That's why I so often preface my remarks with "If things are as bad as you say. . ." — H.

P.S. "Bellyaching dame," "stupid critters," "slob and slut" pardon me, sir, but aren't you just a wee bit prejudiced against women?

DEAR HELEN:

I'm a 24-year-old virgin and not happy about it. Don't get me wrong —I go out with men, but mostly as a showpiece. As a fashion model, I've built up the reputation that I'm "choosy."

The truth is I'm scared they'll discover I'm a fake. How absolutely awful if the word got around that I had actually never been with a man. You see, in my teens I "protected my honor," then I got so busy with my career I had no time for affairs, and later I was "ashamed of my honor," so kept my secret by acting sophisticated, but dropping men who came too close. There was still no time to fall in love.

But now I've fallen hard for a man who might never stop laughing if I told him the truth. He's ready for marriage (the word gets around), but how can I possibly confess to him that I am — STILL A VIRGIN

DEAR VIRGIN:

Like the cigarette ad says: "You've come a long way, baby." Fifty (even 25) years ago, women were asking, "How can I possibly tell him he's 'not the first one'?" Nowaday they're ashamed to confess that he is.

You could probably fake it, with the help of a doctor, but I think the truth would make you much more intriguing. (If you can't laugh about this together, then perhaps you both have sexual hangups that might threaten a marriage.) — H.

The Woman Executive To Be Discussed

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — "The Woman Executive: Her Opportunities, Achievements and Prospects" is the topic for a day-long symposium to be held Nov. 16.

Sponsored by Golden Gate University, the seminar will be held at the Sheraton-Palace Hotel, opening with a morning panel of women. They will discuss "The Woman Executive."

Registration may be made with Golden Gate University.

Liver Best Source For Needed Iron

The mineral iron is an essential nutrient in a person's diet, and the iron requirement for females far greater than that for males.

In general, meat sources of iron are superior to vegetable sources. Liver is by far the best food source for this mineral, although other red meats are also excellent sources.

ON BEING BLACK

Fat Folks And Food Stamps

By SANDRA HAGGERTY
(Distributed by Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

"In front of me at the checkout stand was this absolutely huge Negro lady — I guess they prefer to be called black now. Anyway, she was a far cry from being underfed. Her shopping cart was loaded, and would you believe she was using food stamps. I should go on welfare so I could gain a few pounds."

The trim middle-age woman admitted to being a bit facetious about a desire to gain weight, but she was fairly adamant in verbalizing two widely held misconceptions about food stamp and fat folks. One is that fat folks are simultaneously well fed and properly nourished, and the other is that food stamps provide unlimited food supplies.

Most truly needy people will tell you food stamp are no free tickets on a gourmet gravy train. The agitation of standing in long lines for hours to purchase the stamps and the humiliation —the negative and rude attitudes of checkers and proprietors when the stamps are being used — makes one's own money over stamps most desirable.

Even with efforts at public education regarding nutrition, many people still believe most fat people are simply overfed and overnourished. This is far from correct. Studies indicate that fat people are usually poor people, with high contents of starchy and fatty foods (cheaper in price than steak and artichokes) in their diets.

BLACK FOLKS have long inhabited the ranks of the poor, and skinny, malnourished children have been and are a constant source of concern. In a way, a skinny child has been a badge of failure to properly provide for our children. It is still common to hear older black folks respond to the sight of a round child: "Lord, that child is so fat and fine. You sure are feeding him good."

The irony is that the child is likely subsisting on a non-nutritious but fatty diet of French fries and cupcakes.

There is also an overcompensation element exercised by some folks who have grown up po' (poor). As one mother of an extremely overweight 10-year-old girl stated, "When I was a kid we were always hungry. We never had all the good things they have to eat today. I let Susie eat all she wants. She'll never have a hungry day as long as I'm able. Anyway, she'll grow out of this baby fat in a couple of years."

In most cases, children do not outgrow their baby fat. In fact, studies indicate that obese children very likely will become obese adults.

The effect of childhood eating habits is of particular concern because so many inner-city children appear to be on their own, foodwise. This is evidenced by the "pop and potato chip" meals they devour. Honest nutritional guidance (unlike much of the garbage they get via television) is still greatly needed.

Doctors warn us that heart trouble is just one major side effect of "eatin' good." For many poor folks, this statement simply refers to eating all you can of whatever you can while you can. Tomorrow may be bone dry.

Indeed, you can't be too thin or too rich, but you certainly can be too fat and too poor.

15% OF PATENTS

Women Moving Into The Nation's Invention Market

I-J Report

It has been said that women will invent what they need but that few have thought to market their inventions.

"Women are entering this male-dominated field with more enthusiasm," says Lawrence Deska, vice president of a New York-based invention development firm.

"About 15 per cent of patents applied for in the U.S. are from women. Just a few years ago it was only 5 per cent, and the number is steadily rising," Peska said.

Peska and other experts in the field argue there are six types of inventions that are prime for today's market: new games for adults and children; worksavers for the homemaker; hand tool innovations and do-it-yourself items; recreational and hobby ideas; protection devices for the home, car and individuals; car improvements and safety devices.

Of these, worksavers, games and do-it-yourself items are proving most popular with women inventors, along with products that relate to beauty care and food. The invention must be genuinely new, said Peska.

"It is not unusual for women to want to do routine jobs more easily," he said. "What is changing is the fact that so many women are carrying their innovative ideas forward, thinking of them in terms of products for the marketplace. Many ideas come straight from the kitchen or cleaning closet."

Lois Spencer of Brooklyn, N.Y., for instance, found cleaning her broom after each sweeping not only tiring but frustrating. When she hung up the broom, it still shed dust on the floor of the closet. She tried wrapping it but found this was a bother, too. Finally she took scraps to her sewing machine and fashioned a special cover. This looked so good she added pockets to hold dusters and other cleaning implements and found she had developed a marketable broom kit. It's now in the patent pending stage.

IDEAS DON'T always come from daily tasks. Sometimes doing a job once is enough to drive a woman to innovate. Such was the case with Paula Ricci, another New Yorker. Her invention is an electric wallpaper paster, an appliance that applies paste uniformly to wallpaper strips so that the paper can be hung without getting the hanger or the paper in the age-old "wallpaper mess."

Miss Ricci told the product-review board at the marketing company she developed her paper-paster after suffering through a do-it-yourself redecorating job in her apartment.

"It occurred to me that if you had a simple appliance that would apply paste fast, thinly and evenly, wallpapering would move into the 1970s."

Her first version of the electric paster was rather makeshift, she admits. Peska adds, "Miss Ricci didn't know if the device was marketable at all. It has now reached the stage where it is — not only to do-it-your-selfers but to professionals — and we're already submitting it to companies."

There are some women who become millionaires on the basis of a creative flash that finds enormous public acceptance.

Two famous examples are Margaret Rudkin and Mrs. Richard Rodgers. Mrs. Rudkin developed a rough textured bread from flour ground in a kitchen coffee grinder; that was the basis for the $7 million a year Pepperidge Farm business. Mrs. Rodgers, wife of the composer, has invented many gadgets. The most famous is the "Jonny Mop," the flushaway bowl brush.

Even simple, existing products have been improved by women inventors. Eugenia Short has designed a special thimble that fits on the stiff and sometimes swollen fingers of the arthritis sufferer. It has proved to be a boon to sewers with long nails.

IN THE CASE of Maudie Whittaker of Los Angeles, it was an unfortunate accident in which she almost lost an eye that led to her invention of an "unbreakable needle." Now patented, this needle has a shank of unbreakable material, and it is being used in commercial sewing machines, in upholstery tools and for phonographs as well as at home.

"I think the most important part of a child's room is the play area," says Mrs. Preston Harrison of Dallas, Tex. "Children learn by playing," said the mother of three girls, "but many children's rooms are so crowded with furniture there is no room to play at all."

This is why she has invented a new-style baby bed. Round and brightly colored, with a canopy shaped like a circustent top, the bed has nylon netting that holds the baby securely, but unzips. The area beneath the bed contains a unit that serves as storage cabinet, dressing table and waste and diaper receptacle.

The bed not only saves space and adds considerable charm to the room, it's more economical than a complete set of conventional baby items.

The need for space and seating room has led another investor, Addie Romero of New Iberia, La., to develop a twin sofa. It starts as a double bed, with head and foot rests. To convert it to an "entertainment" unit, one pulls up a central piece. This forms a common back for two sofas, and there are snack tables built into the two sofa arms (the head and foot rests of the bed).

"We like to see a product when it is in its earliest stages — even if it's no more than an idea expressed in rough notes or sketches," says Peska. "It's far, far easier to adapt a product to the prevailing market than it is to change the market so that it conforms to a particular product."

Pitch By Lumber Yard To Women

And that's what the 27-chain Spahn-Rose Lumber yards has been doing.

"We realized," says Charles Spahn, "that our box-like offices and cramped space and lack of color just weren't popular with women. We wanted to encourage women to come to our yards so we simply made them more attractive. Today's women help lay floors, panel walls, tear out partitions and paint and wall paper their rooms. And color is keynote in home decorating today."

Lumber yards were once the domain of men. But Spahn found that adding color attracted a much higher percentage of women customers.

Wide Belts

While wide belts are in fashion's front ranks for men, for the women, the emphasis is on the narrow. Emphasis with the narrow belts is on quality. Suede is an important leather.

The Layered Look·Right Down To The Toe Tips

Fashion comes in layers this year, and nowhere is the layered look more practical, more stylish than on the leg.

A combination of pantyhose and knee-highs carries the new look right down to the toe and provides added warmth when temperatures dip.

Combinations are almost endless. Basic beige pantyhose with beige knee-highs sporting a neat cable design or narrow rib for the monotone look. Or colorful opaque pantyhose with herringbone or geometric knee-highs for accent. The layered leg really gives a girl a chance to pull it all together in her own unique way.

With skirts, culottes or shorts the layered leg is fashion's answer to a cold winter day.

Sand Box Set Has Warm Response

The Sand Box Set is a newly-formed group of Marin Branch of the American Association of University Women, and it has had an enthusiastic response from young mothers who are members of AAUW, according to Mrs. Jay Hubert, chairman.

The group plans to get together at parks and playgrounds and take field trips.

The newest of the experimental lifting bodies, the X24B, was unloaded yesterday at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's flight research center at Edwards AFB, Calif., where it will be prepared for its first flight sometime next year. The craft — with extended nose, flattened underside and small blended wings — will be launched from a B52 aircraft.

Ross Recreation Program On Agenda

A special meeting to discuss an $18,500-a-year recreation program for the Town of Ross will be held Monday at 7:45 p.m. at Ross School library.

The meeting has been called by the Ross School District board, but is expected to constitute a comprehensive town gathering with councilmen, parent-teacher association officers, members of the Ross Recreation Advisory Board, and residents attending.

The proposed community recreation program is the result of several months' work by the recreation advisory board, which was appointed by the town council. Until now Ross's recreation programs have been run by a volunteer group funded with PTA donations.

The board has proposed a budget to the school district which anticipates spending $18,500 in the 1972-73 school year.

Expenditures include $15,200 in salaries for a recreation director, assistants and instructors for fee classes; $1,250 in administrative costs, $1,550 for contract services including transportation, and $500 for maintenance.

The board suggests that money to pay for the program should come from: Ross School District, $3,750; Ross PTA, $750; participants' fees, $9,500; a town fund-raiser, $2,000; Friends of Ross Recreation, $1,000. This would leave a deficit of $1,500.

Youth Booked In Probe Of Marijuana Pipe

An 18-year-old San Rafael youth was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possessing a marijuana pipe when police officers showed up at his house to serve him with a warrant for possessing dangerous drugs and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The youth, Gerald Beryl Bagley, of 1457 Lincoln Avenue, was arrested on suspicion of all three crimes on the front porch of his home at 4:50 p.m.

According to police, a marijuana pipe was found in Bagley's pants pocket when he was searched for weapons.

The warrant was issued after police learned that Bagley allegedly gave LSD tablets to three juveniles in August.

He was booked into Marin County jail where he posted $2,500 bail. He was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Tuesday.

Parking Prohibited In Early Morning

A typographical error in an Independent-Journal story Oct. 3 resulted in the erroneous report that parking will be prohibited on East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley from 3 a.m. to 6 p.m. to allow the streets to be cleaned.

Actually, parking will only be propibited on the street for three hours a day, from 3 a.m. to 6 a.m.

Cost Of Beef Dips Under Pressure

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Retail beef prices dropped again in September as chain stores, under heavy jawboning pressure from administration officials, sliced their margins down from record-high August levels, an Agriculture Department report showed today.

The report added that retail bread prices also edged down last month despite booming flour prices, forced up by the pressure of huge U.S. wheat sales to Russia, which carried the cost of bread ingredients to near-record levels. Baking industry officials, who are pressing the administration for permission to raise wholesale bread prices, said the retail decline in September apparently stemmed from sharp competition in retail stores.

The Agriculture Department's monthly report on farm-to-retail price spreads said the average retail cost of a typical market basket of farm foods in September dropped to an annual rate of $1,320, down 0.1 per cent from a month earlier in the first decline since April. The cost was, however, 5.6 per cent above a year earlier.

Officials said the farm value of food in the market basket rose 1.6 per cent in September to $539, and was 14.3 per cent above a year earlier. But the farm-to-retail margin declined 1.3 per cent to $781, and was only 0.3 per cent above a year ago.

The report said September retail prices for fresh fruits and vegetables were down along with beef. But pork rose slightly to a new record high, and there were substantial increases for eggs and frying chickens.

Average retail beef prices, which hit an all-time high of $1.173 in July and then edged down to $1.158 in August, fell another 2.9 per cent to $1.129 in September, still 6.6 per cent above a year earlier.

Farm prices for 2.28 pounds of beef on the hoof—the equivalent of 1 pound on the retail counter—slid 2.3 per cent to 76.7 cents a pound in September, 1.3 per cent above a year earlier. The retail store margin, which rose sharply in August, dropped 2.9 per cent to 36.2 cents a pound. This was second only to the all-time August record of 37.3 cents and was 19.9 per cent fatter than a year earlier. Meat packer margins in September dropped 5.3 per cent and were 5.3 per cent below a year ago.

In August, farm prices had declined sharply but most of the drop was eaten up before it reached the consumer by expansion of the chain store margin. Administration price officials stepped in with public calls for narrowing margins which have now brought retail prices down to the lowest point since last Spring.

Retail prices for one-pound loaves of white bread fell from 24.9 cents in August to 24.7 cents in September, 0.8 per cent cheaper than a year ago despite the fact that the farm value of wheat and other bread ingredients was up 17.1 per cent per loaf from a year ago. The farm value, at an estimated 4.1 cents per loaf, was just 0.1 cent below the all-time record set 25 years ago this fall.

$10 Million China Grain Sale Told; Nixon Pledges Farm Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today announced another grain sale to China — 300,000 tons of corn —and pledged "a full, fair share" of the nation's prosperity for the American farmer.

Nixon revealed the corn sale in the fifth of a series of paid political radio broadcasts. He said the sale — amounting to about $10 million — was signed within the last few days.

The corn deal, 12 million bushels, was tiny compared to the grain sales to Russia — corn, wheat and soybeans — worth a billion dollars. The only previously announced grain sale to China was for 15 million bushels of wheat worth around $25 million.

Nixon said the grain sales to China "only scratch the surface of an immense trade potential between our two countries."

He also told his audience that the sale of feed grains to the Soviet Union —the biggest peace time transaction of its kind in history —"holds enormous benefits for all Americans" and will raise crop value for America's farmers by a billion dollars in 1972 alone."

Nixon said "helping farmers to do better had been one of the major commitments" of his administration. But he said the farmer is still falling behind in personal income compared to other Americans.

"When you realize that the farmers' work week runs about double what most Americans are used to —when you realize that high risks and heavy production costs keep his profit margins paper thin —when you realize that he must often go deep into debt to maintain the $100,000 worth of capital assets required for family farming — then it is clear that farm people deserve a better reward than an average income which today is only 80 per cent of the average for non-farm people."

Nixon said that when he took office "farm prices were stagnating, farm exports were down, inflation was eating heavily into farm income, and family farms were disappearing at a rapid rate. Worst of all, it seemed that federal farm policy under the previous administrations had been part of the problem, not part of the solution."

He said at the beginning of his administration he immediately set out to "turn that situation around."

In extolling his own records against that of past Democratic administrations, he said that each harvest in his four years has brought "solid progress for the farmer."

A MAN AND HIS GUITAR

Once he was a long distance runner, baseball player and high school sports editor, but eventually he found his carrer in his guitar. The story of Phillip de Fremery of San Anselmo, classical guitarists, who devotes his life to his music is recounted in a story by Dorothy Gardiner in this Saturday's Marin Magazine. de Fremery practices as strenously toward his musical goals as any athlete and has a spiritual outlook that gives dimension to his music. Music, he believes, is on its way to a new age, and he at the age of 26 is working hard to be a part of it.

'Visit' Draws Cheers At Opera House

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO — With the composer on hand to accept cheers from a standing-room-only crowd, the San Francisco Opera has presented the American premiere of Gotfried von Einem's "The Visit of the Old Lady."

Something of a European sensation, where it has been performed in 20 opera houses since its debut in May, 1971, the cast here Wednesday night featured American mezzo Regina Resnik, for whom the Austrian composer has said he conceived the title role.

Von Eihem's adaptation of Swiss playwright Friedrich Duerrenmatt's cynical morality tale was directed here by Francis Ford Coppola, who also directed the record-breaking movie version of "The Godfather."

Designer Robert Darling created surrealistic sets for the grim opera, which tells how Claire Zachanassian, the world's richest woman, returns to her native village seeking revenge on an old lover who betrayed her. She offers to pour tremendous wealth into the impoverished town if the villagers will kill her former flame, and the townspeople, at first outraged, eventually succumb to greed and commit the murder.

Miss Resnik, in a role made famous on the stage by Lynn Fontaine, was supported by tenor Richard Cassilly as the town's mayor; baritone Raymond Wolansky as her ex-lover, now a storekeeper; and baritone Bruce Yarnell as a priest.

Maurice Peress conducted the orchestra in a lively performance of von Einem's score, which combines harsh, percussive staccato with romantic, lyrical melodies.

The opera, performed in English, is the only 20th Century work to be presented by the company during its 50th anniversary season.

$14,000 Paid For Washington Letter

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Philadelphia bookshop paid $14,000 at auction Thursday for a five-page letter written by George Washington on Dec. 26, 1790 to James Duane, a member of Congress.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Assn. magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Dumbo" — A reissue of the 1941 animated full-length cartoon produced by Disney.

"Funny Girl" — Partly fictionalized biography of Fanny Brice is more a play with music and songs and elaborate Ziegfield numbers. It is Barbra Streisand's film all the way.

"Legend of Lobo" — The world is seen through the eyes of a legendary wolf as he grows from a delightful cub to responsibile maturity and becomes leader of his pack. Great entertainment.

"On A Clear Day You Can See Forever" — A silly college student who possesses amazing mystical powers and can reveal her past lives is interwoven with lavish sets and excellent music and songs.

"What's Up, Doc?" — A diverting comedy set in San Francisco is fast moving and slapstick. A kooky girl chasing an eccentric young man and three men chasing their identical suitcases.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Butterflies Are Free" — A blind boy's striking out for independence from a domineering mother is both funny and touching. It presents both youth and parents point of view and can lead to a discussion of values.

"Marjoe" — A documentary type film tells the story of a fourth generation Pentecostal preacher, a self admitted conman who cruelly exploits the people and admits it.

"Ryan's Daughter" — An ageless romantic story photographed against rugged Irish landscape interweaves national pride and an unsanctioned love ending in tragedy. Flash of nudity.

"Skin Game" — Clever comedy of pre-Civil War days. Two men, one white, one black are partners in a clever skin game which outwits the slave traders. Foul language and sex scenes make it unsuitable for children.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say adults only)

"The Go-Between" — A turn of the century love story, a high born beauty and a handsome lower class lover and their doomed affair as seen through the eyes of a 12-year-old boy. Sex scenes.

"Harold and Maude" — A heavy-handed film about Harold, a poor little rich boy, who spends time attempting suicide and going to funerals, then he meets 80-year-old Maude and she shows him how to be happy. Plot soon palls.

"Kansas City Bomber" — Between violent skating sequences film shows Raquel Welch's personal problems with her children, teammates and a mean, amorous boss. Track action has a Jazz-rock score accompaniment.

"New Centurions" — A rookie policeman is teamed with the old pro in a squad car on duty in L.A. Story then turns to the personal lives of main characters and how when they are unable to handle their problems, falter on their jobs. Nudity and cursing.

"Slaughterhouse 5" — Unusual production that mixes tragedy of war, trivia of middle-class life and fantasy of science-fiction. Fine acting and direction save it from being just slick satire. Some nudity and cursing.

ADULTS ONLY

"Abductors" — Emphasis on plot doesn't detract from an ample amount of nudity and sexplay in the adventures of a mostly uncovered female undercover investigator. (Boxoffice Magazine)

"Beyond the Valley of the Dolls" — Three innocent girls are destroyed by success in Hollywood. Countless graphic scenes of drug society, homosexuals, sadist, nymphomaniacs and bloody murder at an orgy are all included in this film.

"Catch 22" — Film graphically depicts the immorality and unreason war breeds. Sexual license, depravity, brutality and sheer stupidity are the order of the day. Bloody, gruesome deaths are shown explicitly. Episodic structure with flash-forwards and back are very confusing.

"Doctor's Wives" — The plot of this prurient soap opera revolves around the infidelities of a group of doctors, their wives, nurses and interns who run a posh hospital. Close up scenes of open heart surgery is the ultimate act of bad taste. Nudity, sex and cursing.

"Everything You Always Wanted To Know About Sex" — A satire, seven vignettes, taken from Dr. Reuben's book, are answers to sexual questions. Offbeat and frequently bizarre humor.

"Female Animal" — Dubbed in English this Spanish-Italian co-production's leading lady, Arlene Tiger, digs into the perversion barrel and comes up with heterosexual sex, lesbianism, cunnilingus with a cat and masturbation. (Boxoffice Magazine)

He's Eaten All Meals (35,378) Out

HE EATS OUT — Fred Magel, an Illinois food expert, had dined out for more than 35,000 consecutive meals and won a place in the Guiness Book of Records.

1972 The Christian Science Publishing Society

By GUY HALVERSON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CHICAGO — For Fred Magel (that's "with an M," he says, "only like 'bagel' "), his last 35,000 meals have been enough to make him eat out every night! And they were eaten out — all 35,378 of them as of this writing — breakfast, lunch, and dinner included.

Magel, an official of the Chicago and Illinois Restaurant Association, has dined out for each and every meal since sometime in 1928 — no little thing in an age of instant dinners and cold cuts. And in doing so he's earned a listing — would you believe — in the authoritative Guinness Book of Records.

Actually, fine dining was never unfamiliar to this native Midwesterner, the son of a Detroit builder who loved to research restaurants.

"He had a yen for checking and rechecking the design and floor plan of restaurants and putting together detailed memos on how to improve them," Magel recalls of his father. One branch of his family even moved to Cincinnati and set up the old Castle Farm Restaurant — a longtime popular dinner spot that headlined such entertainers as the Dorsey Brothers, Doris Day, and Rosemary Clooney.

As might be expected, Magel, a gracious but somewhat serious man who initially reminds one more of a banker or stockbroker than the food industry official he is, takes the business of dining quite seriously. All told, he's sampled cuisine in more than 60 nations, including, on three trips, East European Communist nations.

Hi "best meal" he recalls, was at the Palace Hotel in St. Moritz, Switzerland, in 1950. Favorite dinner spots range from the Commander's Palace and the Rib Room of the Royal Orleans, both in New Orleans, to the Wrigley Building in Chicago ("best white fish in the Midwest,") to Haussner's in Baltimore. Meal No. 35,000, he recalls, was eaten at the Empire Room of the Palmer House in Chicago and consisted of "prime ribs of beef, French onion soup, and jumbo shrimp."

When Magel describes a meal — you can almost hear the cutlery clinking in the background, and you invariably find your thought drifting to the clock — and dinner.

Magel is convinced that the Swiss, of all food experts, are the world's best caterers.

"They have a fine sense for anticipating your every need," he says enthusiastically, leaning forward in his chair. "The Swiss excel —in attitude, in courtesy, in excellence."

Magel admits being delighted at the rapid growth of the American food industry (with one in every three meals in the United States now eaten out, it's a gigantic $46 billion economy in itself, employing 3 million people). But he concedes finding the increasing emphasis on "semi-casual" dining disturbing. This trend, he says, is in great measure a reflection of the impact of young people on American society.

Oh yes, in case you're wondering how your own favorite dining spot rates in Magel's view of worldwide restaurants, he has a seven-point "checklist" for you. "The seven C's," he calls them.

Cleanliness.
Colorful decor.
Cuisine.

Condiments (which, he insists, should be served in the original bottles).
Hot, fresh coffee.
Courtesy.

It need hardly be added that Magel, traveler and restaurant buff that he is, can speak with the ultimate authority: He never eats at home. His home, in fact, contains no kitchen — not even a hot plate!

Ladybird To Lead New Committee

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson announced Thursday she will serve as co-chairman of a new committee to present a yearly award of $25,000 to an outstanding American.

The honor will be called the Zale Award, after a Texas jewelry firm whose foundation supplies the award money. The foundation has provided funds to present the award for the next 10 years. "I don't know where we'll go after that," said Columbia University President William McGill, Mrs. Johnson's co-chairman.

Unique Class Offered For Cleanup Of Campus

DAVIS — How do you get students to have more respect for their school grounds and the physical plant?

Ron Valencia, a junior high school teacher, believes he has the answer. He founded a class called "scientific and vocational exploration." The school is on a large, barren tract and the budget didn't stretch far enough for much landscaping. So Valencia invented a new kine of class — to beautify the campus as part of learning.

The 42 students who enrolled are planting trees and grass, and are building a shed to store class equipment. Plans call for a concrete patio with shrubs and benches for the foreign language department and fencing and landscaping outside the art wing.

The class, an elective, is not duplicated anywhere, Valencia believes. The indirect benefit is a greater appreciation of the school and its campus.

Every student is enthusiastic. A 12-year-old girl laughed and said, "Gee, I hammered six whole nails." (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

'Move Over, Dummy' Fall Presentation By Players

It will open at 8:30 p.m. next Friday and be repeated at the same time Nov. 4, 10, and 11.

The show, written and directed by Elaine Bernardi, is set in a department store after-hours. The mannequins come to life and mix with those connected with the store in a comedy of the life and loves of the store employees and mannequins.

Vivienne Terry, who has been with the club for 19 years and was in the first offering in 1954, takes the part of Sophie. Lois Brown will be Cecilia; Maxine Buffo, Laura; Lillian Nehasil and Doris Cormier as sisters; Eline Bernardi and Mary De Francesco as Rose and Sunny, store employees. Wendy Diamond will play the fairy godmother.

Linda Waller and Vera Hartsock are coproducers. Jackie Proett and Kathleen Ketron are in charge of the props. Lei Mann designed the costumes and Richard Farshlar arranged choreography. Dorothy Thompson is in charge of makeup.

Caryl Yaudes of 15 Taurus Drive will handle ticket sales. Craig Waller and Bill Hartsock are in charge of lights and sound. Elaine Burke is musical director, and Paul Terry is in charge of publicity.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

The Alvarado Inn At Ignacio Has Arrived At Great Success

It has been said that a restaurant is just what the people who go there make it.

That may be one way of looking at it, assuming there is no efficient ownership control and no guiding hand to elevate and maintain certain standards. Check into any successful eating place and you will find it is what management makes it.

It has been almost two years since the opening of the Alvarado Inn at Ignacio by Dave Kahler and his associates. Before then the restaurant, lounge and bar had lain dormant for many months. Where once this had been a happy place, visited by many, its rustic charm had grown rusty.

Dave and his group saw the possibilities there, bought it, got to work restoring and updating it, gave it a new name and went into business. I can't say with certainty that it immediately became successful. Usually it doesn't work this way. It takes a terrific amount of effort and thought to create a new image and make it popular.

Just where its complete acceptance occurred in this last two-year period would be hard to pinpoint. Good things seldom happen suddenly. They evolve after trial and error and that's the way it has been at Alvarado Inn. Clearly the one responsible for success has been Dave himself, who willed it and who has stayed in the job continuously.

He deserves much credit, this man who looks something like George Gobel and is alternately a serious businessman and a fine host, gracious and interested in people.

Summing it all up, this is what you have at Alvarado Inn today: A fine motel, with nicely furnished rooms, garden and swimming pool; an excellent restaurant serving a variety of dishes and a wine list to please almost anyone; banquet space that is being used constantly by local and out-of-town groups; nightly entertainment that ranges from piano bar to orchestra and singing groups to Dixieland jazz — rotated and changed from time to time to provide continual interest.

Ignacio has been on the map a long time and is a historical area. But thanks to Alvarado Inn, more people have been made aware of it.

Marin Dining And Wining

BANQUET FACILITIES are being expanded at Deer Park Villa in Fairfax, making this fine old Marin restaurant more desirable than ever as a place for holiday parties.

A new section now being constructed adjoining one of the present rooms will seat up to about 225 and should be completed by Thanksgiving. More than that, it will have an outside covered deck with its own bar. Excellent for receptions.

GROUND SHOULD BE BROKEN for the new Grotto restaurant of Stan and Ursula Valan about the middle of November if all goes well (particularly if the rains hold off for a while).

Getting a major project of this kind under way has involved hurdling many permits. Most of these have been secured and the last I heard it was a matter of resolving the placing of kitchen equipment and necessary connections before going for a building permit.

The new location will be on Tamalpais Avenue in the area of R-B Furniture, Booby's and Wiltshire Towers, along the 101 Highway across from the Civic Center, with easy access driving either north or south. Look for a dining room divided into about three separate areas, with a different decor in each one, and offstreet parking.

Until opening here next spring, Stan and Ursula will continue doing business as usual on Lincoln Avenue in downtown San Rafael.

There should be other new developments along this same highway area within the next year or so.

Shaun Wiltshire has long been working on plans for developing his property. And now Bob Phelps and Gene Horton at Booby's are seeking another location close by. Nothing definite has been settled but if things work out they will have more space and eventually increase their food service to include breakfast, lunch and dinner.

ACCORDING TO THE NATIONAL RESTAURANT ASSOCIATION, the first menu was probably in the form of a long list of work instructions to guide the culinary crew in the households of nobles.

Individual dinner menus apparently didn't appear until the 16th Century and then not in restaurants but at royal banquet tables — one for "above the salt" and one below.

The location of salt on the table, you may remember, used to be the dividing line between important guests and those of lesser stature.

THE ONLY RESTAURANT in Ross — Jean's Kitchen on Poplar Avenue — has been closed for several months and although Jean Dobs still has the lease on the premises it is not likely to reopen under the same name.

However, it is possible that someone else will take it over and fix it up. We hope so. It is a good location for a small convenience eating place.

JESSE COLIN YOUNG and his new group are the featured performers at the Lion's Share on the San Anselmo Miracle Mile tonight and tomorrow night. Ex-Youngblood Jerry Corbitt will open the show.

YOU'LL FIND that most people who are particular (sometimes fussy) about the wines they order in a restaurant generally are the same at home and many have their own wine cellars.

But while it is true that wine appreciation is growing in America and particularly in California where we have so many fine vineyards, it is my feeling that the average diner-out who enjoys wines with his meals is not inclined to go overboard on smelling the cork, studying the color and rolling the liquid around in his mouth.

In other words, I believe that most Americans order a particular wine either because they remember and like the taste from a former experience or someone suggests it. For the most part they are much too involved in other things in life to make a close study of wines.

And unless they have a natural old country heritage of wine knowledge in their homes it may still be many years before they become as knowledgeable as the Europeans.

Incidentally, I notice there is an increasing tendency these days for diners-out to order the "house wine" in a carafe. It's less expensive and many restaurants' house wines are quality vintages. If you want to splurge in the realm of subtle flavors that's another matter.

GLIMMER AT THE GATE

Awash in light on a clear October night, San Francisco glows like an enormous jewel through the Golden Gate Bridge, its ghostly features broken only by the streaked image of auto headlights. This scene was caught from the Marin Headlands last night by Independent-Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn.

Redevelop Pact Signing Delayed

By PAT ANGLE

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency board agreed last night to delay signing contracts for redevelopment of Marin City for 10 days to allow its project area committee more time to consider the various proposals.

But the board authorized its chairman, George H. Gnoss Jr., to contract with Mid-City Developers if the committee does not present "substantial reasons" why the Washington, D.C., firm should not be chosen within that time.

With some reluctance, the board decided on the delay after representatives of the area committee, a citizens group formed to advise the agency in redevelopment matters, asked for the extension.

The committee said it plans to meet Tuesday with five developers, including Mid-City, who submitted proposals for all or part of the remaining 36 acres of residential property in the community.

"Why the big rush?" committee member Terrie Harris asked the redevelopment board. "The people in Marin City need time to find out what you plan to have built in their community."

The project area committee's chairman, Juanita Cobb, expressed doubt the committee could agree on a development proposal in a short period of time. "The greatest problem facing the PAC is lack of unity," she said in a letter to the agency. She said the group was "enmeshed in old personal feuds and old redevelopment hassles" that were hindering its operation.

Melvin Atkins disagreed that feuds were the problem. He said the whole committee has not had copies of the development proposals and there has been confusion over meeting dates and some planned meetings of the group have been canceled.

Jesse E. Berry, a Marin City resident and Sausalito School District trustee, objected to the delay in signing contracts. "The PAC was supposed to represent the people in the community and they have not done this," Berry said. "If that committee can't do its job, it should be dissolved."

Robert Pitts, the member of the agency board who called for the time extension, warned that the agency could not be "delayed unnecessarily" in starting redevelopment by failure of the advisory committee to act promptly.

To permit Gnoss to sign the contract if the area committee does not present its report in 10 days, the board approved preliminary plans for the development by Mid-City whicp would include 444 apartments and condominiums.

The agency board also reviewed the proposed contract with Mid-City in some detail.

It calls for the company to purchase the 36 acres from the agency for $1,058,400 and complete construction of the entire project by Dec. 30, 1975.

Precise plans for construction must be presented to the county by April 1, 1973.

The development firm is also required to put up a "good faith" deposit of $52,920, or 5 per cent of the total cost of its project, to insure it will purchase the land and perform according to the contract terms.

If the company fails to perform once it has received the deed to the property, the land will revert to the agency, although it may have to go to court to regain control of the property, an attorney told the board.

Pro, Con Of Death Penalty Is Debated

DAILY Independent-Journal Est. 1861
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
THIRD SECTION SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1972 27

By PAT PERRY

The death penalty is "the greatest deterrent there could possibly be to the killing of innocent victims," Marin County Asst. Dist. Atty. Joshua Thomas said yesterday.

The death penalty was called "vengeance, unconscious societal blood-lust" by Malcolm Burnstein, Oakland lawyer involved in the appeal processes of executed murderers Caryl Chessman and Aaron Mitchell.

The attorney debated the merits of Proposition 17, the death penalty initiative on the November ballot, before the Marin County Bar Association at the Edgewater Inn in Corte Madera. And from a question-and-answer session which followed the debate it appeared that Marin's lawyers are equally divided in their opinions on the restoration of capital punishment.

Thomas, advocating a "yes" vote on the proposition, said the death penalty acted as a deterrent to killing where the individual is in the act of committing violent crimes, particularly the experienced criminal with control of his actions.

"The most valuable thing an individual has to lose is his life. If you have the situation of choosing between life imprisonment and death, everyone would choose lifa imprisonment," he said.

Thomas predicted that absence of capital punishment would, over a period of time, "promote lawlessness and the killing of innocent persons by the creation of vigilante-type groups because there is no law to protect society."

Thomas said he is convinced that the California Supreme Court's February decision that the death penalty was "cruel and unusual punishment" was "a piece of judicial legislation, and I think the people have the right to express their opposition to judicial action of this type."

In his opinion, passage of Proposition 17 would immediately restore the mandatory death penalty in four cases — assault by a life-term prisoner whose victim dies, train wrecking by use of explosives, perjury which results in death, and treason.

Arguing that the death penalty does deter homicide, he said, "You can just as logically say because the penal statutes against robbery and rape don't deter commision of these crimes we should abolish all penal statutes, and that's absurd."

Citing California's early history when hanging of cattle rustlers halted the crime, and pointing to San Francisco's vigilantes, Thomas said: "Clearly, fear of the death penalty was the basic reason for the restoration of order."

Referring to the cases of Leo Estrada Robles, the San Quentin inmate sentenced to death in Marin Superior Court last year for the murder of a fellow inmate while serving life imprisonment for another murder, Thomas added:

"Even during the trial Robles tried to and did succeed in smuggling a razor into the courtroom. Had the death penalty been in force and carried out, Mr. Robles wouldn't have been around to commit subsequent acts of homicide.

"Robles is a danger to everyone he comes into contact with. To say he should be allowed to endanger other people for the rest of his life is ridiculous. What deterrent is there to a life-termer other than the death penalty?"

Burnstein, whose partner, Dorothy Walker, handled Mitchell's last appeals, and who himself served as a clerk in the Supreme Court during Caryl Chessman's appeals, spoke against the proposition.

There are three purposes of capital punishment, said Burnstein: rehabilitation, protection of society and deterrence.

"It's hard to rehabilitate a dead person, and the California prison system does, in fact, nothing toward rehabilitation," he said.

"Protection of society from that person is clearly a valid aim, but it can be accomplished with a slightly less Draconian solution than what Hitler called the final solution."

Burnstein said statistics show that homicide rates are lower in states that have abolished the death penalty — Oregon's dropped 30 per cent after abolition.

Suggesting that capital punishment is "attractive as a flame to the moth" to sick minds or would-be suicides, he cited the case of Arthur Bremer, Alabama Gov. George Wallace's attacker, saying the would-be assassin trailed political leaders, including President Nixon, through the U.S. and Canada, and his diary showed his wishing Michigan had capital punishment so that he could kill the president there.

"So he went to Maryland which has capital punishment and shot Wallace," said Burnstein. "We have the recent case of a babysitter in San Jose who killed two babies in order to get the state to murder her.

"It's an attraction, not a deterrent. You have as many sick minds attracted as you have deterred."

Scoffing at Thomas's prediction of vigilantes, he said: "Every civilized country in the world is in the process or already has abolished capital punishment. If there was to be a vigilante sytem why hasn't it arisen in Michigan, or Denmark, or Sweden?"

A Bar Association member asked Burnstein if he considered caging people for life more humane than the death penalty.

"The prisons need reform if you want to protect the guards," said Burnstein. "The death row at San Quentin proves it. There's never been a murder of a guard on death row."

Thomas disagreed: "He's overlooking what happened last summer at the adjustment center, where numerous of the inmates were on life sentences. I'm trying a case next month where one of the defendants was undergoing a life sentence and stabbed and killed a guard in July 1971."

Thomas added, "The suggestion of an alternative to capital punishment — life imprisonment without possibility of parole —would completely reduce any hope on the part of the inmate. He'd say 'What do I have to lose, I can commit any offense I want.'

"It's not fair to say we will keep an individual confined therefore he can't harm the public. Consider the fact that correctional officers have to come into contact with these individuals every day."

A judge in the audience asked Burnstein if he didn't consider punishment something to be considered.

"I don't think punishment as such is a valid aim of the penal system," said Burnstein. "If you are talking about a healthy society you are talking about society training its individuals, treating them if they are sick, training them not to act antisocially. Punishment doesn't accomplish that.

"Capital punishment isn't punishment. It's vengeance, unconscious societal bloodlust."

Another lawyer in the audience questioned whether passage of Proposition 17 would remove review powers from the judicial system.

Thomas said that section of the proposition which permitted mandatory death penalties "is in direct reaction to irresponsible action of the California Supreme Court. . .I personally feel the supreme court reached the decision they wanted to find."

He said — referring to the court's ruling that capital punishment was "unusual" because so few sentences were handed down and so few executions had taken place over the past 10 years — "The reason no one has been executed in the last five years is legal delays."

Burnstein countered that "cruel and unusual punishment is the one kind of concept which must change with the years. We don't any more use the rack, we don't pull people apart."

Theft Suspects To Higher Court

Two Ignacio residents have been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of concealing stolen jewelry.

Judge Robert A. Smallman of municipal court ordered Ronald Berg Goodrich, 23, and Carol Ruth Litteral, 20, to appear Nov. 8 on the one count, but dismissed a burglary charge for lack of evidence.

San Rafael police said Goodrich allegedly sold $1,780 worth of jewelry taken in a Sept. 26 burglary to a San Rafael merchant for $165.

The pair was arrested Oct. 3 at the home of one of Goodrich's friends. Goodrich claimed he was given the loot stolen from the home of Elan M. Foley of Nova Albion Way.

Holding Action Can Assure Right Protection For Victory

When you hold the ace of the enemy's long suit, you should often refuse the first couple of tricks in the suit. The same kind of holdup play may be useful with a less obvious holding in the dangerous suit.

HAS HIS CHANCE

West opened the seven of diamonds, and East won with the king. East returned the nine of diamonds, and South had his chance to be a hero.

South actually chose to try a feeble deceptive play. He put up the queen of diamonds at the second trick. The idea was to make West think that the entire suit was going to come in.

NOT DECEIVED

West was not deceived. He knew that his partner had returned his highest diamond. If East's highest diamond was the nine, South was sure to have the jack as well as the queen. West saw that he could not gain by taking the ace immediately.

FINESSE LOSES

After winning the second trick with the queen of diamonds, South's next move was to lead the ten of clubs for a finesse. This was his best chance, but it failed.

East took the king of clubs and led his last diamond. Now West took the rest of the diamonds, defeating the contract.

MUST STOOP

South must stoop to conquer: He must play a low diamond at the second trick.

East thus wins the second trick with the nine of diamonds. East continues with his last diamond, and South plays the queen or jack. West can no longer gain by refusing the trick. No matter how the play continues, South wins a diamond trick and can later try the club finesse in safety. When East gets his king of clubs, he cannot return a diamond.

Edicts Spurs Studio Rush

TORONTO (AP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission's Canadian content regulation, which stipulates that AM radio stations must devote minimum of 30 per cent of air time to Canadian talent, has resulted in a rush to the recording studios to produce Canadian material.

Recording studios across the country are improving facilities to produce a better-quality product.

In 1970 there was one 16-track studio in the country. Now there are five 16-track studios and one 24-track studio in Toronto. Montreal has a 32-track studio. Other facilities are springing up from Halifax to Vancouver.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Question: Do the names we give our children ever create any problems for them as adults?

Answer: They certainly do! My mother tells the story about a family she knew who were delighted at the birth of their first child, a baby girl. Since the family name was Rose, the parents thought it was a wonderful idea to name their daughter Wilde. No problem while she was growing up, because Wilde Rose was pleasing to the ear and quite complimentary. Trouble arrived when the young lady fell in love and married a man by the name of Bull . . . becoming Wilde Bull! Top that, if you can.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

1. Nanette Fabray, star of stage, screen, and television, will have 50 candles on her birthday cake today. On television, does anybody remember whose wife she was on the "Show of Show": Don Ameche, Robert Young or Sid Ceasar?

2. Jack Carson, motion picture star of the 1940s and 50s, was born in Carmen, Canada, on Oct. 27, 1910. He got into the theater while a student at Carleton College. Did Jack ever win an Academy Award? Yes or No?

3. Nicola Paganini, famous Italian musician, only lived to age 58, but his mastery of the violin captured concert audiences of early 19th Century Europe. He was such a master at holding listeners in his spell that some actually believed he was — the devil, a hypnotist, or a magician?

PUBLIC NOTICE

No Revival Of SST Plan Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Transportation Department official does not believe there will be an attempt to revive the controversial Supersonic Transport (SST) project next year.

The project to build the 1,800-mile-an-hour plane was scrapped by Congress last year after a heated struggle and despite President Nixon's vigorous efforts on behalf of the SST.

Undersecretary of Transportation James M. Beggs said Thursday there was no movement under way in the administration to reactivate the project.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Danger Exists In Exceeding Recommended Vitamin Limits

Vitamins are food when used in normal amounts. But taken at 10 to 1,000 times the normal level, certain vitamins become drugs. Now that a great number of people are nutrition conscious, we hear too much about the benefits of massive doses and too little about the potential dangers of vitamins.

Vitamin C is a case in point. It was first obtained in pure form in 1928 and, a few years later, was identified as the specific nutrient missing in the diet that caused scurvy. Today it is called ascorbic acid. The minimum daily dose to prevent scurvy is 10 mg. but to be on the safe side, international organizations have set the recommended daily intake at 30 mg. In this country, the recommended daily amount is a generous 70 mg.

RECOMMENDED DAILY allowances are established by the United States National Research Council. Subcommittees of experts on each vitamin set generous and reasonable minimal requirements for adequate nutrition. Most people get all the vitamin C they need by eating a varied diet, including plenty of fruits and vegetables. Taking an ascorbic acid pill or a multiple vitamin containing recommended daily allowances of all vitamins provides additional insurance and does no harm.

But an intake of 500 to 5,000 mg. daily far exceeds the recommended limit. We have no information on what ascorbic acid in large doses does to the body, mainly because we never before have been confronted with this problem. Scientists do know that excess vitamin C is excreted in the urine. Amounts such as 100 mg., have no side effects, but massive doses make the urine more acidic, leading to a burning sensation. In those prone to kidney stones, too much ascorbic acid may also cause urinary gravel. Recently I discussed this with a person who takes massive doses of ascorbic acid to ward off colds. This man is violently opposed to adulterating foods and liquids with untested chemicals. "How come," I asked him, "you are willing to use vitamin C which we all need, but which in large doses is an untested chemical?"

ASPIRIN FOR CHILD

Mrs. M. writes: Is aspirin hard on a child's stomach?

REPLY

The salicylates may irritate the gastric lining in children as well as in adults. This is avoided by taking the aspirin with milk or an alkali.

DRINKING AND NURSING

Mrs. G. writes: If a nursing mother takes a drink, will the alcohol get into the milk?

REPLY

Yes, but by that time the alcohol is so diluted the baby does not get much.

FLUIDS HELP

C.C. writes: Will drinking lots of fluid encourage or deter bowel elimination?

REPLY

Copious amounts of fluids will help by keeping the contents of the bowel moist so tht evacuation will be easier.

New Zealand Civil Force Is Well Paid

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — New Zealand is a Utopia for the civil servants who comprise almost 20 per cent of the nation's work force. A royal commision investigation has shown they are far better off than workers in comparable jobs in private industry.

Although government salaries are supposedly tied to rates paid by private enterprise, the royal commission found that the average civil service pay packet in the past three years has improved 13.7 per cent on private wage rates.

The commission denied any suggestion that public servants have merely been catching up.

Successive governments, in attempting to prove themselves good employers, have pampered staff to the point where 5 per cent of state employees receive more in salary then the $9,600 paid in salary and basic allowances to Members of Parliament.

With a salary of $22,848 Prime Minister John R. Marshall is the only member of the cabinet drawing more than his departmental head — and then by a mere $1,810.

Public service advantages include equal pay for women, which the government is only now extending to the private sector over a four-year period.

And when civil servants are compulsorily retired after 40 years, their retirement pensions are adjusted annually to compensate for rising living costs.

Responding to taxpayer pressure, the government is setting up a pay research unit to gauge wage trends more accurately. It is expected also to implement the royal commission's recommendation to restore wage relativity with other workers by tapering down future state salary adjustments.

Who Says Life Dull In The 90s?

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (AP) — Arthur Ingham manages two apartment buildings and does all the maintenance work on them hinself.

He gardens, plays golf, bowls, swims and writes poetry.

These would seem to be natural accomplishments for a man in the prime of life. But Ingham is 92.

He didn't start writing poetry until after he was 80. Since then he has written 11 historical poems, all but one of them about women of historical importance. His subjects include all six wives of Henry VIII and Elizabeth I.

"I found the lives of these women more interesting than most men in history," he said.

An exception to the exclusively feminine subject matter was a poem on Alexander the Great.

Ingham said he makes a rough draft in prose, then polishes it up into poetry.

Ingham and his brother formed the Ingham Construction Co. Ltd. They built many residential buildings in Niagara Falls before he retired 20 years ago. But Ingham kept two apartment buildings and maintains them himself.

Gardening is one of his favorite hobbies.

$2.1 Million For Comprehensive Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Four special grant awards totalling $2.1 million to provide comprehensive services to public inebriates were announced recently by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson.

Facilities in Baltimore, Milwaukee, Seattle and Philadelphia, will receive funding under the new Public Inebriate Program of the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAAA). The program is designed to support facilities providing 24-hour walk-in service. The central focus will be on chronic alcoholics known as "Skid Row" types.

"A pretty country retreat," Washington Irving once observed, "is like a pretty wife. One is always throwing money away decorating it."

ALMANAC

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Friday, Oct. 27, the 301st day of 1972 with 65 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Venus, Saturn and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

Theodore Roosevelt, 26th president of the United States, was born Oct. 27, 1858.

On this day in history:

In 1871, the political chief of New York's Tammany Hall— Boss Tweed—was arrested on charges of defrauding the city.

In 1904, the first practical subway began operating in New York City...from the Brooklyn Bridge to 145th Street in Manhattan.

A thought for the day: President Theodore "Teddy" Roosevelt said, "We demand that big business give the people a square deal; in return we must insist that when any one engaged in big business honestly endeavers to do right he shall himself be given a square deal."

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, heavy air pollution.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

RECEIVES AWARD — Sgt. Terry L. McFerrin of the 42nd Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base has been awarded the Airman's Medal, the Air Force's highest Noncombat award for saving the life of a child from a Utah mountain stream last summer.

New Alert Plan For Bad Checks

The San Rafael Police Department has announced plans for a phone-alert system aimed at cracking down on bad check passers, short-change artists, till tappers, fraudulent use of credit cards and bunco schemes.

The system will organize San Rafael merchants into a phone brigade and give each merchant instructions to alert police at first suspicion that a confidence game is in progress, according to Sgt. David H. Jones. Merchants will then receive a phone alert call, and in turn phone other merchants on a prearranged list, he said.

The system operates much like a chain letter, according to Jones.

"Merchants used a bunco alert system like this a few years ago but it fell into disuse," Jones said, adding that a recent flurry of till tapping and short-changing had sparked its revival.

He said the alert system would be in use before Thanksgiving and in time for the traditional Christmas shopping rush.

Jones said he was considering organizing San Rafael's hotel and motel owners into the same sort of phone brigade to stem fraudulent credit card and bad check use.

Novato, Redwood In Grid Go Tomorrow

It usually happens once each autumn — a football game of such extraordinary importance approaches that the respective coaches gather their warriors about them and say, "Gentlemen, this is it."

Such a game will be played tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at Novato High School. Undefeated Novato will confront once-beaten Redwood, and the clash will go most of the way toward determining this year's Marin County Athletic League champion.

Should Novato win, the Hornets would be 4-0 in league play and would have a good shot at an undisputed title. Should Redwood win, the Giants and Hornets would become locked in a virtual tie with Terra Linda at one defeat each.

Novato's 5-0 season has been sparked by Marin's leading defensive unit, a rough bunch which has surrendered a microscopic 87.0 yards a game. Led by end Jon Empio, tackle Dean Davis, outside linebacker Tom Hoog and middle backer Ken Straw, the defenders have been especially mean against the run — if you rush for 30 yards, you beat the average (29.3).

Redwood rushes for 123.3 however. The Giants (5-1 on the year, 2-1 in the league) also throw for 123.3 in the league's most beautifully-balanced offense, and as coach Phil Roark says, "They've got to worry about our passing," especially since it comes off the normally run-oriented Wishbone-T formation.

Quarterback John Troppmann ranks second in the league. His wide receiver, Katsumi Johnson, and running backs Mike Connor and Daryl Edralin are all among the league's top ten receivers, and Connor is eighth in rushing.

Redwood's defenders may be the key to the game, however. With tackle Scott Cochrane and middle linebacker Bob Fulton leading the way, they rank third in the league, and are pitted against a Novato offense which lack's Redwood's versatility.

Novato has the MCAL's leading rusher, workhorse tailback Mark Magers, and an explosive

HOT PURSUIT — Novato High School's defensive unit, shown converging on Terra Linda's Jeff Leaird in a 15-14 victory Sept. 30 will face a tough test tomorrow when the undefeated Hornets host once-beaten, offensively potent Redwood in a key Marin County Athletic League game. Making the tackle is Craig Johnson (82) and pursuing are Paul Kessler (52), Tom Hoog (80) and Ken Straw (47).

DeMont Understands Meaning Of Asthma

That title was bestowed upon the shy 16-year-old yesterday at a press conference to kick off a fund raising drive for the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital in Denver, world's largest free asthma treatment center for children between 6 and 16.

RICK DeMONT

Dr. Dudley I. Solomon, executive director of CARIH, named DeMont the institute's athlete of the year.

"Thank you," said the quiet DeMont. "I'm happy to be here helping all those children."

Those children he was talking about were the sufferers of asthma, and he knows what asthma is like since he's had the handicap since childhood. One of the medicines he takes for asthma contains ephedrine, a drug which is banned by the International Olympic Committee. It was because of this drug, found in DeMont's urine specimen, that the Olympic gold medal won in the 400-meter freestyle was stripped from him. And it was because of this he was not allowed to even race in his specialty, the 1500-meters.

IT ALL MAKES ME think about a book my fifth grade son brought home from school the other day. It was about drugs. "Why would you be reading about drugs?" I asked. But, I was told by my son, all drugs are not bad. The drugs in medicine are meant to help you. "That's why we are learning there are good drugs and bad drugs. We should know the difference."

Without taking medicine, asthma sufferers can't compete in sports. In its hasty action, the International Olympic Committee robbed DeMont of something he had worked very hard for. If there was punishment to be dealt, it should have been to the U.S. medical committe which didn't advise DeMont beforehand about his medicine.

Said Dr. Solomon yesterday: "What the IOC has done is to deny the hope of ultimate accomplishment to every handicapped person who strives to overcome his problem. Rick's victory in the Olympic Games represents hope to millions who struggle against breath-robbing asthma.

"IT IS TRAGIC that the IOC action has reduced what might have been an inspiring and hopeful example to the realm of frustration and discouragement that those who suffer from chronic disease have grown to expect. In working with children with chronic asthma, our physicians tell me that reversing this utter discouragement is often the most important aspect of treatment."

Solomon said he realized some action had to be taken because of the breaking of a rule, but he disagreed with the IOC's ultimate decision and termed it "arbitrary and wholly indifferent." He suggested the IOC "could reestablish some of its lost credibility by restoring Rick's gold medal and apologizing to him for its indifferent actions."

ANOTHER ANNOUNCEMENT from CARIH yesterday was that it was launching a $9,000,000 fund raising drive in California, a dollar for each asthma sufferer in the U.S.

As Rick and his mother, Mrs. Willard DeMont, turned to leave the room in the St. Francis Hotel where the press conference took place, she told me, "Hundreds of kids with asthma have been writing letters to Rick. They are really angry about the whole thing."

NCAA Quits Olympic Body, Makes Point

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)— With the aim of dramatizing the need for reorganization, the National Collegiate Athletic Association withdrew Thursday from the United States Olympic Committee.

The NCAA withdrew once before, in 1926, and, as a result, gained parity with the Amateur Athletic Union on the powerful games committees.

But that has since changed, and is one of the reasons for the NCAA's withdrawal. For instance, the AAU now has 25 of the 49 votes on the Men's Basketball Games Committee, while the NCAA has eight.

"We hope that this action will dramatize the need for Congress to reorganize the USOC so that it can be responsive to the times," said Chuck Neinas, chairman of the NCAA's International Relations Committee.

Arthur Lentz, executive director of the USOC, said the withdrawal was "disappointing inasmuch as all quiet, behind-the-doors efforts to bring a better organization into being are jeopardized by this complete move-out."

But the NCAA insisted that all its efforts within the USOC had been stifled and even backslid.

"We have completely exhausted our efforts internally," Neinas said. "You finally come to the conclusion that it can't get any worse, so what the hell."

NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers also was on hand for the announcement and added, "I do not believe the USOC can be reorganized internally. The only external force that packs enough clout to get it done is the agency that issued its charter, which is Congress.

"I'm of the view there ought to be an entirely new organization."

Neinas and Byers stressed that no athlete, coach nor NCAA member institution would be penalized for participating in the Olympics or the USOC.

A statement given to newsmen read, in part:

"The NCAA's withdrawal

Tenace Keeps Cool In Spotlight

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gene Tenace, instant celebrity, is doing one of the toughest things in the world, and what's more, he's doing it magnificently.

He's keeping his equilibrium. That's not alway easy when everybody is shaking your hand, pounding you on the back and making an uncommon fuss over you, the way they're doing now with Gene Tenace, but his head is the same size it was last week, and the week before that, both feet are firmly on the ground, and taken altogether, baseball's new 26-year-old world series hero hasn't changed one whit.

"I'm the same old me," says Tenace.

And the beautiful part about it is that he is.

ONE DESIRE

All he really wants to do now is go back home to Lucasville, Ohio, and by the time you read this, if he plays his cards right, he should be there.

Tenace's teammates with the Oakland A's had a special feeling for him even before he took apart the Cincinnati Reds in the series.

If you can't hit the sweepstakes yourself, Gene Tenace is the type of guy you hope comes up with the winning ticket. If the A's had to vote beforehand for one of them to hit four homers, drive in nine runs, bat .348 and go on a record .913 slugging tear in the series, Tenace very likely might've wound up with the most votes.

Why?

APPRECIATES

Because he doesn't put on, he doesn't pretend to be somebody he's not; he doesn't go around bad-mouthing anybody who takes his job, and anything he gets, he appreciates.

Like the car Sport magazine gave him Thursday for being the series most valuable player.

"It's very nice, and I appreciate these people giving it to me, especially since the one I have is not even paid for yet, but I really don't go for all this stuff," he said.

He meant all the TV cameras and microphones he was surrounded by in a midtown restaurant, all the fuss, the overnight adulation.

Tenace, who drew about $17,500 from Charlie Finley this year, plus a $5,000 bonus or increase, whichever you wish to call it, at the end, hasn't come out with any salary demands.

"I don't think there'll be any trouble," says the A's bland, sometimes almost Milquetoastish catcher-infielder who was a part-timer with them until early August.

MESSAGE

He didn't intend delivering a message, but there was an excellent one in what he had to say about his days in the Little League, and the effect his father, Fiore, now 50, had upon him then.

"I admire my father, and I think the world of him, but when I was in the Little League, he made it miserable for me," said Tenace.

"My father played a lotta semi-pro ball. When I was born, he said 'That's my ballplayer.' He wanted me to be a big leaguer, and I think that's what he thought I was when I was playing in the Little League in Medford, Ohio.

NERVOUS CHILD

"If I had made an error or took a third strike, my father would chew me out and really let me have it. It embarrasses you when it happens in front of other kids. I wouldn't do it if I had a boy. My father never let up on me. I had an ulcer when I was 13. I'm not saying my father caused it, but I was a nervous kid. He just wanted me to be a big league ballplayer. What did my mother say? There wasn't much she could say. My father wore the pants in the family."

Sometimes, things would go the other way. Young Gene, growing up, would watch his father playing bill.

ANGER

"I saw him take third strikes," the A's series star smiled. "I'd see him punch out and I'd ride him, get on him pretty good. He'd get mad and say 'Don't you ever get on me.'"

Now nobody gets on anybody.

There is no prouder father in the world than Fiore Tenace. If you're a stranger and happen to go up and ask him whether he's any relation to Gene Tenace, the Oakland catcher, he beams brighter than that early morning sunshine and says:

"That's my boy!"

FIRST MEETING

Warriors, Lakers In Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The Golden State Warriors head tonight for their first meeting of the season with the Los Angeles Lakers minus love for a forward named Bob from the Chicago Bulls.

Bob Love hit five straight jump shots in the final 3:12 minutes Thursday night at the Oakland Coliseum-Arena to lift the Bulls to a 94-93 National Basketball Association win over the Warriors.

Leading most of the way, the Warriors had an 83-80 advantage before Love, who finished with a game-high 30 points, went on his late binge.

Golden State outshot the Bulls, 42 to 41, but managed only 10 free throws attempts, hitting on nine. Chicago converted 12-of-17 charity tosses.

Forward Cazzie Ruzzell topped the Warriors with 28 points. Center Nate Thurmond outjumped Chicago's Cliff Ray to win the rebound battle 21 to 17.

The loss snapped a three-game win streak for the Warriors who are now 3-2. The Lakers top the NBA's Pacific Division with a 6-2 mark.

Tonight Thurmond will be paired against an old nemesis—Wilt Chamberlain—while Jeff Mullins and Jim Barnett will try to hold down the Lakers dynamic duo of Jerry West and Gail Goodrich.

The game also marks the first time since 1967 that Rick Barry of the Warriors faced the Lakers. Barry netted 12 points against the Bulls and extended his consecutive free throws to 24 with a 2-2 performance.

MAURA CAMPION

Swim Mark Broken By Marin Gal

Maura Campion, a freshman swimmer at Terra Linda High School, yesterday broke the national girls' high-school record by winning the 100-yard butterfly in 1:03.2 while Terra Linda was losing a meet to visiting Marin Catholic, 61-52.

Miss Campion's effort erased the standard of 1:03.4 set in 1969 by another Marinite, Robin Bachrach of Drake High.

Ann Haley set a Marin County Athletic League record of 1:03.9 in the 100 individual medley to lead Marin Catholic to victory in a clash of undefeated teams. Each entered the meet with a 3-0 league record.

In other MCAL meets, Tamalpais swamped San Domenico, 90-22, and Redwood drenched San Rafael, 81-31.

Wells' Bruised Ego; Lamonica's Bad Back

OAKLAND (UPI) —Quarterback Daryle Lamonica has a sore back and pass catcher Warren Wells a bruised spirit.

Both received bad news Thursday.

Lamonica tried to throw a few passes in practice with the Oakland Raiders but his back began hurting. He missed the second half Sunday against Denver after defensive lineman Lyle Alzado plunged his helmet into Lomonica's back to give him muscle spasms.

The means that Ken Stabler probably will start Sunday against the Los Angeles Rams at the Coliseum.

Wells, meanwhile, and his attorney appeared before Alameda County Superior Court Judge William J. McGuinnes seeking permission for Wells to play for the Houston Oilers this weekend. McGuiness turned down their plea until Wells' probationary status can be clarified.

The judge said Wells was not free to leave California until a progress report was received by the court from his probation officer. Houston picked him up on waivers from the Raiders Wednesday.

Redwood Wins

Hill and Hill blended Kentucky whiskey. A smooth blend of fine Kentucky whiskey. With the light, mellow taste that's as gentle as the rolling Kentucky hills.

Robinson Among 'Boys Of Summer'

They buried Jackie Robinson today. He was one of The Boys of Summer in Roger Kahn's best selling book about baseball as the Brooklyn Dodgers played it in old Ebbets Field two decades ago.

"One did not go to Ebbets Field for sociology," wrote Kahn of the days he covered the Dodgers for the New York Herald Tribune. "Exciting baseball was the attraction, and a wonder of the sociological Dodgers was the excitement of their play.

"THE DOMINANT truth of the Jackie Robinson Dodgers was integration. They were the first integrated major league baseball team and so the most consciously integrated team and, perhaps, the most intensively integrated team. All of them, black and white, became targets for the intolerance in which baseball has been rich.

"As many ball players, officials, umpires and journalists envisioned it, the entity of baseball rose in alabaster, a temple of white supremacy. To them, the Robinson presence was a defilement and the whites who consented to play at his side were nigger lovers.

"OPPOSING PITCHERS forever threw fast balls at Dodger heads. Opposing bench jockeys forever shouted foul epithets. Hate was always threatening the team. But the Dodgers, the dozen or so athletes who were at the core of this team, and at the core of this book, stood together in purpose and for the most part in camaraderie.

"They respected one another as competitors and they knew that they were set apart. No one prattled about team spirit. No one made speeches on the Rights of Man. No one sang Let My People Go. But without pretense or visible fear these men marched unevenly against the sin of bigotry.

"THAT SPIRIT LEAPED from the field into the surrounding two-tiered grandstand. A man felt it; it became part of him, quite painlessly. You rooted for the team, didn't you? You'd rooted for the team all your life. All right. They got this black guy now, and he can run and he can bunt, but can he hit?

"The stands erupt. The Dodgers win. We beat the Cardinals. That colored guy's got guts. I tell you that.

"BY APPLAUDING Robinson, a man did not feel that he was taking a stand on school integration, or on open housing. But for an instant he had accepted Robinson simply as a hometown ball player. To disregard color, even for an instant, is to step away from the old prejudices, the old hatred. This is not a path on which many double back.

"Robinson bore the burden of a pioneer and the weight made him more strong. If one can be certain of anything in baseball, it is that we shall not look upon his like again."

Nolan Works On Runners

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—San Francisco and Atlanta are likely to play it pretty basic Sunday when they clash Sunday in the Falcons' lair.

That's because coach Dick Nolan has indicated he will try to re-establish and simplify the ground game that has deserted his team in recent outings. Vic Washington and Ken Willard combined for almost 1,700 yards last season and have picked up 270 after six games this time around.

And packing the ball on the ground is Atlanta's thing, too. Dave Hampton, Art Malone and Jim Butler have all had success this season and with big defensive tackle Earl Edwards doubtful for San Franciso because of an ankle problem and defensive lineman Charlie Krueger and Tommy Hart also trying to shake off injuries, it figures Atlanta will test the middle of the Prospectors' defense.

PITTSBURGH

Tough Foe For Seals Tonight

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Golden Seals, still winless on home ice, take on a tough customer there tonight when Pittsburgh comes to call.

The lone Seal victory was a 4-1 job at Philadelphia and they also tied the Flyers in building a 1-6-1 record that puts them in the cellar of the National Hockey League West.

The Seals, among the biggest contributors to the World Hockey Association stockpile, hit the goal post several times during a 5-0 loss at Los Angeles Tuesday and then opened a four-game homestand with a 4-3 loss to Atlanta that was among the club's worst efforts.

"You've just got to be patient with so many young players," says General Manager Fred Glover. "They feel the pressure of not winning and they've been pressing hard."

LETTING ONE'S HAIR DOWN

PRO FOOTBALL

Viking Tarkenton Having Problems

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Tarkenton toiled at quarterback for 11 years in the National Football League without ever having a first-rate defense to back him up. The result was that while he compiled some impressive statistics, he only played on two winning teams—once in six years with the Minnesota Vikings and once in five years with the New York Giants.

That was all supposed to change this season when the Giants traded him back to the Vikings, who built one of the game's best defenses after they traded Fran away.

But, somehow, the club has only a 2-4 record after six games and finds itself in last place in the NFC Central Division as it prepares for the meeting Sunday against the Green Bay Packers, who are tied for first with a 4-2 mark.

Some of the Tarkenton critics —especially the ones who've said Tarkenton was never a winner—have been quick to put the blame on his shoulders. But Tarkenton is No. 4 in the National Football Conference statistics this year, completing 87-of-147 for 1,083 yards and eight touchdowns although he's had five interceptions.

And the scrambler has been the victim of some unfortunate breaks. He set up what was supposed to be the winning field goal against St. Louis and Fred Cox's kick hit the crossbar.

Green Bay has been one of the surprise teams in the NFC this year with Scott Hunter making vast strides at quarterback under the guidance of Bart Starr while John Brockington and MacArthur Lane have combined for form a revamped running attack.

Miami, the only unbeaten team in pro football, hopes to extend its record to 7-0 against a Baltimore team that will go with Marty Domres at quarterback for the second straight game.

Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, tied for first place in the American Football Conference Central, should remain deadlocked with wins over Houston and Buffalo. But Oakland, leading the AFC West by only a half-game, has a tough struggle against Los Angeles, the NFC West leader.

Rangers Get Carty In Trade

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI)—The Texas Rangers today announced they had traded sidearming relief pitcher Jim Panther to the Atlanta Braves for outfielder Rico Carty.

Carty, 32, has been one of the hardest hitting players in the National League since the mid-1960s, but has had difficulty playing in enough games to be eligible for the league batting crown.

Last year he hit .277 and had six home runs, 12 doubles, two triples and 27 runs-batted-in, but suffered a pulled hamstring muscle and played in only 86 games.

Carty has a lifetime batting average of .317, including a .366 year in 1970.

Another Legal Twist In Erving Case; Green's Ban Overturned

Combined AP & UPI

NEW YORK — The legal situation of star forward Julius Erving took another turn yesterday when American Basketball Association commissioner Robert Carlson announced he has appointed a Washington, D.C. attorney to hear the dispute between Erving and his current team, the Virginia Squires.

The Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit recently affirmed an order of the District Court prohibiting Erving from playing basketball for any team but the Squires, for whom he played last year, and directing that the dispute be resolved by arbitration.

Donald Dell, a former captain of the U.S. Davis Cup team, was the attorney Carlson appointed as arbitrator and his decision, as the court directed, will be binding on all parties.

More Basketball

BATON ROUGE, La. — The Louisiana Board of Education said yesterday it will override athletic commissioner Stanley Galloway's suspension of Louisiana Tech basketball star Mike Green.

The education board voted 10-1 to make Green eligible to play this season. Galloway had ruled Green ineligible for season play in an Amateur Athletic Union basketball tournament in Memphis, Tenn., last March.

Auto Racing

RIVERSIDE, Calif. — Roger Penske's turbo Porsche team of George Follmer and Mark Donohue seeks to put a final nail in the coffin of team McLaren Sunday in the last Can-Am race of the year.

Follmer, who ended the McLaren dynasty by wrapping up the Can-Am driving championship at Laguna Seca at Monterey two weeks ago, and Donohue are heavy favorites in the 15th annual Times Grand Prix.

Qualifying got under way today and winds up tomorrow at Riverside International Raceway where the Penske-prepared Porsches confront the orange McLarens of Denis Hulme and Peter Revson Sunday at 2 p.m.

Hockey

NEW YORK — The World Hockey Association and the Columbia Broadcasting Company have signed a five-year multi-million dollar contract for the televising of WHA games in the United States.

A minimum of five games will be televised this season, the WHA's first.

BOSTON — Bobby Orr, who underwent knee surgery last June, will be lost to the Boston Bruins for an indefinite period, it was announced yesterday by Dr. Carter Rowe.

Robinson's Burial Near Ebbets Field

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jackie Robinson was to be buried today in a landscaped Brooklyn cemetery a few miles from Ebbets Field where he made baseball history and influenced the lives of millions of U.S. blacks by becoming the first Negro to play in the major leagues.

Robinson, who died at the age of 53 early Tuesday morning, broke baseball's unwritten color line in 1947 when he signed with the Brooklyn Dodgers. He became one of the game's best players, winning a batting title and an MVP award, being recognized as one of its most competitive players, and was elected to the Hall Of Fame in 1962.

A steady stream of mourners viewed Robinson's body at the Riverside Church at 122nd Street and Riverside Drive Thursday. Burial will be at Cypress Hills Cemetery in Brooklyn after the hearse has been driven through New York's Harlem and Bed Stuyvessant areas and into the landscaped cemetery located in Brooklyn.

Vacation Is Over, Didn't Get A Buck

By AL GIDDINGS

Well, the vacation's over! Mary, my wife, and I just returned from Lassen County. Even the I-J gave me a couple of weeks off from writing a column which made things easy. Writing in that rainy camp would have been a chore.

After leaving Webber Lake for Ravendale, Lassen County, I never did fill out my buck tag. Buck hunting was tough. We did manage a couple of limits of ducks and two honkers and one lonely cottontail, but that was it. We saw lots of deer, but only one buck which I proceeded to miss.

ENOS FOSTER of Woodacre showed up at our Ravendale camp. He put on a five-day solo hunting jaunt and finally connected for his buck, a nice three-pointer. He had a four-hour pack-out by himself which is no easy task. But he's a pro!

One of the funniest things to happen was the meeting with three of the Marin County Sheriff's Office finest who were hunting near us at Webber Lake. They didn't have any bucks. One of them during the conversation came up with the idea of hunting a brushy area nearby. The second one added that the best way to get a buck out of such a place was to set the brush afire at the bottom, then to wait for the bucks to come out at the top where the hunters would be waiting. Of course they were kidding, but they kept up their act as if this was to be their plan of attack.

THEY DROVE down to the brushy area and you couldn't guess what happened. A fire was already in progress with planes, forestry men and trucks all fighting the blaze. Our noble three were immediately put into service for about 10 hours. I believe they earned about $20 apiece. Of course I've been accusing them of setting the fire because of their conversations with us, but they just can't see the humor of it at all. They are even beginning to think I started the thing.

What's doing around Marin County? I've got a note that on Oct. 28, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Marin Rod and Gun Club will host a Wildlife Management Workshop at Olney Hall, College of Marin, sponsored by the California Wildlife Federation and conducted by the Wildlife Society and the American Fisheries Society.

THIS PROGRAM is designed to bring basic and critical information to the people that write and talk about our wildlife. Outdoor writers, representatives of conservation organizations, legislators, representatives of industry, hunters and fishermen and individuals who want to know are all encouraged to attend. The program will open with the "Historical Perspective of Fish and Game Management," followed by three major workshop sessions each covering specific ecological principles. Each workshop group will consist of 8 to 10 laymen and two ecologists, one a specialist in wildlife and the other a specialist in fisheries. There is no charge for this workshop.

Trout plants are scheduled this week in Marin County in Phoenix and Lagunitas reservoirs.

UP IN PAPERMILL Creek tidewaters near Point Reyes Station the silver salmon fishermen are catching some fish. A day or so after last week's heavy rain, reports have it that between 25 and 40 silvers were taken when the dam at Waldo Giacomini's ranch broke open. Last Monday, five fish were taken, and when I checked there Tuesday, a Corte Madera fisherman had one about five pounds. He didn't want his name mentioned as he was supposed to be at work. He said he took two fish so far this week, his first catches in two years. He said things were just beginning to pay off, so he was staying.

Salmon fishing in the ocean outside the Gate slowed, but the fih being caught are generally large. Top fish for the week was a 40-pounder taken by Madelyn Crawford on her dad's (Sam Crawford) boat. Madelyn, who is 17, managed this on the second salmon trip she ever made. She was using 20-pound test line, three pounds of weight and "Bill Boyle's famous anchovies." The fish was taken off Rocky Point last Saturday.

means it will not appoint representatives to USOC committees nor offer financial assistance as an organization and will recommend to its more than 700 members that they not assist in fund-raising. It will leave the decisioc to each college, each coach and each athlete to determine within their own conscience the extent to which they feel they can support the USOC as it is organized at the present time."

The NCAA said it would direct its international efforts toward the World University Games. "We feel the World University Games is a natural extension of intercollegiate athletics," Neinas said.

Summer and Winter World University Games are held in alternate years, with the next one scheduled in Moscow in August.

Neinas said the NCAA had raised funds for the USOC in the past. "But as the USOC has become more affluent, we have become less active," he said.

He estimated the NCAA contribution at $200,000 for the 1972 Olympics.

outside threat in halfback Joe Powell. The passing game has not clicked in league play, however, although coach Al Scott says, "(Quarterback) Tom Conklin has started to throw well again, as he did at the beginning of the year, and this may put extra pressure on them (Redwood)."

The lineups:

Golfer Ziegler In Fast Company

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Larry Ziegler is in pretty fast company. He's a 33-year old golf pro who has won only $31,685 this year and is No. 74 on the Professional Golf Association money list.

He hopes to make the 36-hole cut in every tournament so he can collect enough money to move on to the next one.

That was good enough only to put him in a five-way tie—with Lanny Wadkins, Arnold Palmer, George Knudson, Doug Sanders—all big money pros.

That didn't bother Ziegler. "I'm glad I've got the 65 in the bag. Now I can just go out and play and I don't have to worry about making the cut."

When the cut comes after today's second round it may be quite low. Only the low 70 pros and ties are permitted to stay in competition for the final two rounds.

Nicklaus, who will go over the $300,000 mark in earnings for the year if he wins first prize of $27,000, said it all when he said. "I guess you can't find too much wrong with a 66."

Knudson, the 35-year-old Canadian who walks with a swagger, just won $30,000 last week-end when he took the Kaiser International at Napa, Calif.

"I'd like to repeat," he said.

In 1968 he pulled a rare one when he took the Phoenix and Tucson Opens on successive weekends.

He had a couple of bogeys on his card of 35-30—65 but he also had one eagle and six birdies.

The eagle was a 72-yard approach for a two on the par four 13th. "I pitched the ball by the hole and it sucked back in," said Knudson.

Most of the gallery was with Palmer and Nicklaus who played in the same threesome so not many saw Knudson's shot.

Nicklaus said he likes playing in the same threesome with Palmer who hasn't won a tournament in 15 months.

"We enjoy trying to beat each other," he said.

Sunshine and 70-degree weather and a wind that didn't become blustery until late afternoon made conditions just about ideal Thursday.

Forty-eight pros out of the field of 159 were under par in the first round which was played on two courses—the Las Vegas Country Club and the Sahara Nevada Golf club. Both are par 71.

Defending champion Lee Trevino was almost lost in the shuffle. He had 34-36—70 and should qualify for the final two rounds if he can match that in the second round.

CHICAGO DOMINATES

All-Star Pickers Shun Champion A's

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball's world championship belongs to Oakland but Chicago dominates the 1972 Associated Press All-Star team selected by writers and broadcasters across the country.

The champion A's failed to land any of the 10 first-team berths in the nationwide balloting but four players from Chicago — three from the National League Cubs and one from the American League White Sox — made the squad.

Even more surprisingly, eight of the 10 were from the National League and the other two — Gaylord Perry of Cleveland and Dick Allen of Chicago — were former National Leaguers.

Allen, the Sox' first baseman, headed the balloting with 407 votes, tops for any player this season. Allen batted .308 with 37 home runs and 113 runs batted in.

The three Cubs chosen were outfielder Billy Williams, whose 37 homers matched Allen, third baseman Ron Santo and shortstop Don Kessinger.

Joining Williams in the outfield were Houston's sensational young Cesar Cedeno and veteran Pittsburgh star Roberto Clemente. Cedeno batted .320 with 22 homers and 82 RBIs for the Astros, while Clemente, who reached the 3,000-hit plateau for his career, batted .312 for the Pirates.

Two Cincinnati players, catcher Johnny Bench and second baseman Joe Morgan, made the team. Bench bounced back from a poor season in 1971 and hit 40 homers while driving in 125 runs for the Reds. Morgan, acquired from Houston in a winter trade, scored 122 runs for the Reds, tops in the NL, and stole 58 bases while batting .292.

The two pitchers named were left-hander Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies and right-hander Perry of the Cleveland Indians. Both had remarkable seasons with losing teams.

Carlton led the majors with 27 victories and had a 1.97 earned run average, pitching for the last-place Phillies. Perry, a former San Francisco Giant, was 24-16 with a 1.92 ERA for firth-place Cleveland.

San Marin Visits Tam Tomorrow

San Marin High School, trying to rebound from the biggest disappointment of its biggest year, will visit Tamalpais High tomorrow at 1 p.m. in a Marin County Athletic League football game.

San Marin won four of its first five games and established itself as contender for the MCAL title, but lost a crucial game last Saturday to Redwood, 14-6. The Mustangs are 4-2 over-all, 2-2 in the league.

"The kids were a little flat on Tuesday, in practice, but I don't think they'll be flat for the game," said Mustang coach Bob Martin, whose team is 2-2 in the league.

Tamalpais is 1-4 over-all, 0-3 in the MCAL and coming off a 34-0 loss to Novato, but the Indians still could be dangerous. Wide receiver Dennis Morini is tied for the league lead in receptions and runners Fred Adams and Alvin Price rank in the top ten.

Davlin said he planned no changes in his starting lineup. Martin announced Steve Fowler would start at offensive left tackle, Tim Lessley at tailback, and Steve Goins at defensive halfback in a shuffled secondary. The Mustangs will return to a five-man defensive front after three straight weeks of playing a four-man front against Wishbone teams.

The lineups:

San Marin: (Offense) SE Greg Pater, LT Steve Fowler, LG Steve Rosa, C Tim Kelly, RG Matt Sherrill, RT Mark Couch, TE Craig Leaf, QB Hoza Wright, TB Tim Lessley, FB Fred Doar, WB Wayne Roche. (Defense) LE Mark Tornai, LT Bud Brice, MG Fowler, RT Hal Wood, RE Greg Sherwood, LLB Doar, RLB Steve Baldocchi, HB Steve Goins, HB Roche, S Terry Kom, S Pater.

Contra Costa Vs. Marin Gridders

An undermanned College of Marin football team ventures to San Pablo tomorrow at 8 p.m. in meeting Camino Norte Conference rival Contra Costa College.

With the loss of two-way halfback Leon Howard, out for the year with torn ligaments in his left knee, the Tars will be juggling players tomorrow. Marin, 0-2 in league and 1-5 over-all, will suit up only 33 men against the Comets, 1-1 and 2-4.

After Howard was injured Saturday against visiting De Anza College of Cupertino, Tar coach Dick Read decided using starters both ways might help. For example, starting safety Mike Massoletti "may play some at offensive halfback," Read explained.

He added, "(Quarterback Kevin) Donohoe may also perform in the secondary."

Despite the loss of Howard, who played defensive and offensive halfback, and the 62-12 pasting by De Anza, Read contended, "We had a pretty good week in practice."

The Tars worked on containing standout Comet runners like Willie Cox and Mike Burns. "They each run the 100 yards in 9.8." Fullback Larry Ellerbee and quarterback Joe Souza complete the Comet backfield.

When Souza, a deft ball handler and good medium-range thrower, passes, he looks to receiver Ron Andrews. "Andrews has good speed and excellent hands."

Football: Wildcats Vs. Menlo

Marin Catholic High School's football team will visit Menlo Park tomorrow at 2 p.m. to meet Menlo School in a non-league game.

"Menlo beat Justin (of Napa) last week, 6-0," said Wildcat head coach Bruno Banducci. "They're a solid team, but I sent assistant coach John Evans to scout them, and he feals we have a good chance to win."

Banducci sent down two players to the junior varsity and brought up a center, Pierre Rouzier, following last Saturday's 27-18 loss to Drake High, which reduced the 'Cats' season record to 2-5.

"We had four bad snaps on punts and that cost us 120 yards and the ball game," said Banducci. "Besides, there was an attitude problem. Even if we lose now, we'll be doing it with kids who are trying to win."

Running back Rich Cervisi and wide receiver Dan Mahoney, who appeared badly hurt Saturday with a broken rib and a jammed neck respectively, will be ready to go.

Cal Troubles Placed On Unaware Coaches

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Athletic director Dave Maggard says part of the recent troubles of the California Bears was caused by coaches unaware of National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Cal was slapped with a probation extension until Feb. 1, 1975 by the National Collegiate Athletic Association Wednesday for various rules violations in its football program. The school previously was on a two-year probation which was to have ended Feb. 1, 1973.

"We must do a better job getting the rules and regulations to the coaches," said Maggard. "Most of them don't really know the NCAA rules.

"I don't want to judge what the NCAA did to us. Some of these same violations are prevalent around the country. For example, 80 per cent of all major colleges have broken the 1.6 rule."

He referred to the NCAA placing California on probation originally in 1970 in a conflict over the 1.6 rule which requires schools to predict a minimum passing grade for students receiving athletic scholarships.

Maggard, who replaced Paul Brechler as athletic director nine months ago, outlined his fealings about the latest NCAA penalty in a "rap session"Thursday with an informal gathering of 25 students and three campus reporters.

"I'm not sure I'd want to say in print at this time that the University of California was singled out," he said, "but it's an extremely severe penalty."

Maggard would not comment on reports that some former athletes had put the finger on California, including Isaac Curtis, Larry Brumsey and Lon Crittenden. Curtis and Brumsey were involved in the 1.6 controversy, Curtis now is playing for San Diego State and Crittenden with the University of Texas at El Paso while Brumsey has dropped out of San Deigo State.

In its Thursday editions, the San Francisco Examiner reported Crittenden blew the whistle on California to the NCAA. He reportedly was the recruited football player over whom the NCAA found all the rule violations against Cal.

"The NCAA can act upon a student complaint or complaints from other institutions," said Maggard. "The NCAA does not have to have everything exactly documented."

The first thing Maggard did when named athletic director was to accept the resignation of head football coach Ray Willsey and his staff—the men in charge of the school's football program at the time of the NCAA irregularities.

Cal now won't be eligible for post-season play until after the 1974 football season.

Snider Seeking A Major League Coaching Spot

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Duke Snider is in the market for a major league coaching job, and his parent San Diego Padres are not standing in his way.

The Padres, of the National League, said Thursday Snider notified them he "prefers to acquire a major league coaching position for next season."

"Accordingly, the Padres have given Snider, 46, permission to seek a coaching position with another major league organization," the team said.

Terra Linda's Game Changed

The football game Saturday between Terra Linda High School and Monta Vista of Sunnyvale was moved to Fremont High in Sunnyvale.

The 8 p.m. non-league contest was switched from Cupertino High "because of muddy field conditions," Don Lucas, Terra Linda athletic director, explained yesterday.

Fans planning to attend the game can contact the Terra Linda High athletic department for traveling directions.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Try Postal Service Bonds For Safety

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would like to invest $25,000 in good quality safe bonds to increase my income. I am 71 and my wife 58. We own our own home and have $7,500 annual income from stocks and other sources. — O.E.

A. The newest federally-sponsored enterprise, the United States Postal Service, offered a Series A bond last February. This $250 million issue matures in Feb., 1997, and is nonredeemable by the Postal Service before 1982. Although this series is not guaranteed by the U.S. government, the service may request that the Treasury guarantee timely payment of principal and interest for a debt obligation. The bond is available in either coupon or registered form in $10,000, $25,000, $100,000 and $500,000 denominations.

Because this debt instrument is now trading at a discount from face value, the 6⅞ per cent coupon returns 7.2 per cent currently. Also of importance to a person whose income is derived in part from dividends and interest, these bonds have a partial tax shelter. The bonds are exempt from all state and local taxes except gift, inheritance and estate taxes.

Q. Why should Western Union Corp. (NYSE) drop from around $69 in May to $42 recently? As a shareholder I would like to know the reason. — L.S.

A. Western Union's satellite-connected glamor status resulted in a 35-point run-up in share price in a six-month period. When the market topped out early in May shares began losing ground steadily. Investors less willing to credit the high-flying aspects of the company's operations reduced the P/E multiple from 52x to a more realistic 22x in just 4 months.

New Luncheon-Type Restaurant Planned At Northgate Park

A new luncheon-type restaurant for employees at Northgate Industrial Park will open sometime next month at 135 Paul Drive, in a building formerly occupied by a tractor company.

The restaurant owner will be Rudy DiStefano of Corte Madera, who has been manager of Flamingo Hotel in Santa Rosa for the past five years, and had his own bar and restaurant in San Francisco for about 10 years before that.

"It will be a cosmopolitan deal with one hot dish from a different country every day," said DiStefano. He will also serve sandwiches, wine and beer. It will be open for lunch five days a week.

The name of the restaurant has not been decided as yet. "We'll have a contest to pick a name," said DiStefano. He has been a resident of Marin for 20 years, the last 12 years in Corte Madera.

THE DINETTE CORNER, a furniture store featuring dinette sets, bars and bar stools, will open next month in San Rafael at 1566 Fourth Street, next to Moose's Meals and Meats. An automatic laundry was formerly located there.

The Dinette Corner is a branch of Western Furniture Co., owned by Robert L. Thomas of San Rafael and Jack Patterson of San Anselmo. Western Furniture has been under the same ownership for 23 years.

"At the Dinette Corner, you'll be able to design your own dinette," said Thomas. "You can pick the design, the type of leg or the table top that you want." The store will also carry bars and bar stools for the private home.

Thomas said he hopes to open the Dinette Corner about Nov. 15.

REDWOOD OIL Co., an independent company which established its first service station in Fairfax last April, opened its second station in Petaluma last week.

Located at 501 North Petaluma Boulevard, it is owned by Peter C. Van Alyea of Greenbrae, who hopes to open a chain of independent stations throughout the Redwood Empire. He plans a third station in San Rafael in a month or two.

WOVEN WALL HANGINGS from Yucatan will get a preview showing this Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5 p.m. at Wasser's Furniture Accents in San Anselmo.

The wall hangings are colorful stylized versions of ancient Mayan gods and sacred animals and are actually made as small carpets for native use. Don Meeker, an authority on this little known art form, will be there to answer questions. Wasser's is located at 118 Greenfield Avenue on the Miracle Mile.

HELENA'S Hors d'oeuvres, a new business that makes hors d'oeuvres for parties, has opened at 1007 C Street in San Rafael, alongside Viking Pastry.

Helena's is operated by Gladys Wallin of Larkspur and Mailis Sundell of San Rafael. Miss Wallin, former manager of Lyon's Restaurant at Stonestown and Gay Nineties restaurant in San Francisco, has 20 years of experience in food service. Mrs. Sundell and her husband Erick have operated Viking Pastry for two and one-half years. Sundell has been in the bakery business for 25 years.

Helena's Hors d'oeuvres will make all types of tasty food including stuffed mushrooms and petit fours filled with meat. "Customers should order three or four days in advance," said Mrs. Sundell.

Baird, 35, has held several supervisory positions with Greyhound, including operations supervisor, terminal manager, regional sales manager, and director of personnel.

Market Not Spurred By Peace Talk

NEW YORK (UPI)—Continued news concerning the signing of the Vietnam peace pact failed to inspire traders today as the stock market remained mixed in light trading.

Wall Street observers noted that even with indications the Vietnam peace pact may be signed on Oct. 31, the market failed to respond. Some analysts contend the market already has written off the Vietnam settlement and now reflects investment concern over the economy and rising interest rates. Other analysts believed the market will wait for the actual signing of a peace document before moving higher.

American Telephone and Telegraph was the most active issue on the Big Board, dropping 3-8 to 48 1-2 on 194,400 shares including a block trade of 149,900 shares.

Computer issues continued mixed. IBM gained 2 1-4, Westinghouse 1 3-4 and General Electric 1-2. Motorola lost 1.

READY FOR HER FIRST JACK-O-LANTERN

Eight-month-old Kimberly Wartena holds her own toddler-sized pumpkin in her lap while sitting atop some of the 800 potential Jack-O-Lanterns that will be given away this weekend door-to-door in Corte Madera and Mill Valley. Kimberly's father, Grant Wartena of 4 Willow Drive, Corte Madera, and two fellow workers, Norman White and Bonny Simmons of the Stewart Associates real estate office in Corte Madera, cooked up the pumpkin giveaway as a goodwill idea, and brought them in from a Bay Area farm.

Tiburon Reaction To County Plans Mixed

The proposed countywide general plan was greeted with mixed reaction last night by Tiburon officials who postponed taking a position pending further study.

The hearing before a joint session of the city council and planning commission was the first in a series planned for various Marin communities. The next is scheduled for Wednesday at 8 p.m. at San Anselmo City Hall.

Of concern to Tiburon officials was the plan's projected 1990 population for the eastern portion of the county and how it would affect Tiburon Peninsula.

Sol Silver, chief of county advanced planning, said the plan envisions a 1990 peninsula population of about 19,000 — an increase of about 5,000 over today's total. He said that without the plan — aimed at keeping the total population in Marin at 286,000 by 1990 — the peninsula population could grow to more than 25,000 residents.

Pressed by Councilman Allan N. Littman as to how the plan could insure a lid on growth, Silver said a countywide review agency would be Tiburon's insurance.

He said the review agency, which is proposed to have veto power over all development deemed of countywide importance, would pinpoint and monitor rates of growth throughout Marin.

Councilman Albert Aramburu, a member of the City-County Planning Council of Marin, which created the plan, supported Silver, saying the countywide plan and its review agency would benefit Tiburon by giving it a voice in future use of lands surrounding the city.

Councilmen Littman and Branwell D. Fanning, meanwhile, urged further study and clarification of the proposed review agency, as did several of the 12-member audience.

After lengthy give and take between councilmen and commissioners on the merits of restricting growth to the eastern side of the county, the council referred the plan to the planning commission for further study.

Planning commission recommendations will come back to the city council, which then will continue its review of the plan. No date has been scheduled.

Sanford, Braithwaite To Write Charter

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina has been appointed chairman and Yvonne Braithwaite Burke, a California legislator, vice chairman of a commission to write a permanent charter for the Democratic party.

Democratic National Chairman Jean Westwood announced Thursday other members will be named at a Democratic National Committee meeting Dec. 9.

All-Day Bus Schedule For Sleepy Hollow Hit

Sleepy Hollow Homeowners Association members last night balked at the idea of Marin Transit District buses running through the hollow all day long, reported association vice president Dale J. Missimer.

The transit authority had suggested that since it is going to run morning and afternoon buses to Sleepy Hollow School for fourth, fifth and sixth graders, it might as well expand the Northgate-Sleepy Hollow route into an all-day service.

However, residents of Van Winkle Drive and Dutch Valley Lane were "extremely disturbed at the prospect of big buses running on their narrow streets," said Missimer. Instead the association consented to a 90-day trial period for the school buses alone.

An association open space committee presented an inventory of open space surrounding the hollow that they'd like preserved, and were instructed to send it to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Missimer said the horseshoe-shaped hillside open space happens to coincide almost exactly with the county's announced priority list for acquisition if Measure "A" on the Nov. 7 ballot is passed.

Two Bond Issues: Choice In Only One

Two local bond measures will be on Nov. 7 ballots in Marin communities — one in Novato, the other in Bolinas.

The Novato proposal (Measure C on Novato ballots) is for a half-million-dollar bond issue to finance a second municipal swimming pool.

NOVATO CITIZENS showed the way in municipal-school district cooperation when they approved a $100,000 bond issue for a city swim pool on the Novato High School campus. This provides the school with swimming facilities, as well as all others in the city with a municipal pool.

The $100,000 was insufficient to finance the pool, so Novato Unified School District made up the difference. This time, with costs highly inflated and with the school district's budget pinched, the city proposes a $500,000 issue to finance a second pool, probably to be located at San Marin High School.

There has been some complaint about that location as not central enough. It would, however, like the first pool, serve double duty if located there.

No case can be made that a second swimming pool is essential to Novato. But certainly a case can be made that it is desirable. The decision for Novato voters is simple: if they want a second municipal swimming pool badly enough to be willing to pay the cost — which, with interest over the life of the bonds, will be about $1 million — they will approve the bond isue.

THE ISSUE is not so simple for residents of Bolinas. The proposal there is for the Bolinas Community Public Utility District to bond itself for $385,000 to install a sewer system, including sewage treatment plant. This appears as Measure F on Bolinas ballots.

Bolinas is in desperate need of a sewer system. The situation there now is a health hazard, and is damaging the community in many ways.

Seeking a solution, Bolinas Community Public Utility District combined with Stinson Beach in commissioning a study, which resulted in recommendation for a $1.5 million system to serve the two communities.

A $385,000 bond issue is a much heavier load on the small community of Bolinas than is a half-million dollar issue on Novato. It is a high price to pay for each property owner there.

However, there seems no alternative, if Bolinas is not to be turned into a "ghost town" by its lack of sewer facilities, resultant ban on any building, and increasing pollution of Bolinas waters.

It is unfortunate that there cannot be a less expensive way for Bolinas to solve its sewage problem. But none is in sight. So Bolinas voters have little choice in the matter, if they want to save their community.

Both of these bond measures require two-thirds approval for passage.

Democrats-For-Nixon May Hurt State Nominees

By RUS WALTON

Statewide surveys indicate that only a small percentage of those Democrats who plan to vote for President Nixon also plan to vote for other Republican candidates. The vast majority say they will stick with Democrats when it comes to candidates for Congress and the state legislature.

Despite that, the California Committee to Re-elect the President has decided on a massive election day drive to get to the polls every Democrat who has expressed a preference for Richard Nixon. This could seriously jeopardize the fortunes of Republican candidates in marginal districts.

The decision could also determine which party controls the State Senate next year. Republicans are hoping theirs will be the one.

CONTROL OF THE STATE legislature is crucial. Reapportionment of the Senate and Assembly will be one of the top orders of business during the 1973 session. If the Democrats control both houses of the legislature, they will have an edge in controlling reapportionment. And, that could influence the make-up of the legislature and the thrust of legislation for the next 8-9 years.

Democrats now hold a 20 to 19 edge in the State Senate. There is one vacancy (created by the recent death of Sen. Tom Carrell, D-San Fernando).

Eleven incumbent Republican senators and eight incumbent Democrats are seeking re-election. All of them are expected to win.

Recent polls indicate that liberal Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, is running 6 to 8 points ahead of his Democratic opponent, Ron Pelosi. The same survey reveals an exception to the general Democratic intention to vote the party ticket. A large majority of the San Francisco Democrats for Nixon say they plan to vote for Marks and for Republican congressman William Mailliard.

THIS YEAR'S pivotal Senate race is the 12-county, northern California Third District seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Stephen Teale, D-Railroad Flats. The race between Democratic Assemblyman Ernest LaCoste, Modesto, and Republican Clare Berryhill, Ceres, is rated 50-50.

Berryhill is one of the Republican candidates who could be hurt by the Nixon committee's decision to get Democratic voters to the polls.

Ultimate control of the State Senate will depend on two special elections which Governor Reagan must call in early 1973: one to elect a successor to Senator Carrell and the other to replace Sen. Clair Burgener, R-La Mesa. Burgener is considered a shoo-in for California's new 42nd Congressional District (parts of Orange and San Diego counties).

REPUBLICANS ARE now on the short end of a 43-37 split in the Assembly. To gain control of the lower house they must hold all 37 seats and pick up four on Nov. 7. It is doubtful that they can do that. Eight GOP assemblymen are not seeking re-election. Thus, Republicans have lost the edge of incumbency in those contests and Democrats may pick up two, if not three, of the seats.

Assemblyman W. Don MacGillivray, R-Santa Barbara, is trailing his opponent, Gary Hart, by almost 10 points. This is due, in part, to the youth vote on the UC Santa Barbara campus.

MacGillivray's defeat may be offset by a Republican win in Ventura County's 37th District. Supervisor John T. Conlon appears to be ahead in his battle to unseat Democratic Assemblyman Ken MacDonald.

In San Diego's 76th Assembly District, phone company executive Ron Del Principe is reported to be five points ahead of incumbent Democrat Bob Wilson.

The north coastal Second District, represented by retiring Assemblyman Frank Belotti, R-Eureka, is seen as a toss-up. Barry Keene, a Democratic attorney from Santa Rosa, started fast, but Sonoma County Deputy Dist. Atty. Lawrence (Gary) Antolini has proved to be an attractive candidate and is coming on strong.

All-in-all it does not look like a Republican year in the State Assembly. The GOP will do well to hold on to 37 seats.

"Excuse me, but all the Gallup poll wants is a simple yes, no, or undecided."

Pot Smoking Case Not As Described

The recent letter written by R. H. Turk of San Rafael regarding Judge Samuel Conti is quite understandable, provided all the facts are known.

The information pertaining to this case is quite different than that which apparently Mr. Turk developed from reading a famous liberal gossip columnist in one of our San Francisco morning newspapers.

According to what I have learned, on entering the premises in Bolinas, four persons were arrested. One was the young lady mentioned in the article — not using marijuana but something more deadly. Furthermore, along with this harmless smoking venture, I further understand $35,000 worth of peyote was confiscated, and in the basement was apparatus producing additional material.

I don't condemn Mr. Turk for his infuriation over the action taken by Judge Conti, if the situation was actually as inferred by the San Francisco columnist, but from the circumstances above, I think judgment has been rendered without gathering facts.

Full detailed information relative to the case is public knowledge and can be obtained, in any event, at the federal court house.

Proposition 17, Yes; Six Justices, No

Your editorial of Oct. 18 in opposition to the death penalty Proposition 17 was in error on several points, but correct in its criticism of the California Supreme Court which abolished capital punishment.

The restoration of the death penalty is justified because of the sharp increase in murder that has occurred since 1967, the last year a murderer was executed in California . . . The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that . . . if states wish to avail themselves of capital punishment, they must enact the necessary legislation that will prevent the death penalty from being applied in a disorderly or haphazard manner. Proposition 17 will enable the state legislature to enact the necessary laws as held by the court and will immediately restore those laws which prescribed a mandatory death sentence.

The only delay provided by law for those awaiting execution is the automatic appeal to the California Supreme Court. All other delays are caused by the indecisiveness of the courts in their search for error instead of justice . . .

The six justices "who rewrote the law to suit themselves" can be recalled simply by a majority voting "no" when their names appear periodically on the ballot. Or perhaps they will resign after Proposition 17 is passed by an overwhelming majority . . .

Artificial Fluoridation May Produce Imbalance

Up to now they have silently approved of just about every known chemical and drug on the market, and they prescribe them freely. Fluoridation of our water is just another example of their synthetic approach to the healing of disease.

Natural fluoride occurs in waters which contain great amounts of many different minerals including calcium and magnesium, which, in combination, strengthen tooth enamel. Calcium is also responsible for offsetting the toxic effect of the fluoride ion.

But when man tampers with the water by artificially fluoridating, nature's results are not reproduced. Instead an imbalance is created and the result is legalized pollution. . .

Hard-Core Pornography At Drive-In Deplored

I was both frustrated and disappointed when I read from the theater page of your paper last week. A "dusk to dawn" series of 10 hardcore pornographic films were to be shown in the open-air of the 101 Drive-In Theater. This ad was at first unbelievable to me — not that pornography itself has much shock value left. It was the open availability and the marathon nature of these films, in plain view for all, that was unbelievable. Obviously this is just one short step removed from late showing on TV. It's just a matter of time.

Is suburbia Marin settling for open-air vicarious sex orgies? The almighty dollar seems to prevail again, this time it's the selling of what I will call "barnyard sex". . . . Is this what we came to Marin for — another North Beach at our back doorstep? Surely those emotional and psychological cripples and the immature who must have their pornography can head south across the Golden Gate — for it is abundantly available there and too late now to control. I suppose, in Marin, it is the silent minority that must speak up this time, for I hardly hear a whimper from the media or from community leaders. Perhaps they are preoccupied with controlling the rising V.D. rate with massive doses of penicillin.

As a principal of an elementary school near this theater, I am particularly incensed. I have reason to believe that young children were present outside the theater enclosure. More than adequate guidance in getting there was provided by the effective advertisement in the Independent-Journal . . .

. . . I expect that five years from now editorials in your paper will lambaste the schools for failing to instill in children wholesome family life ideals as hands are wrung about rising V.D., prostitution, family breakups, etc. Most likely none will remember that "a little yeast effects the whole loaf" and few seemed to care in 1972 — but I join with those who do care with this objection.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Nixon Wrong In Thinking Nobody Cares About Watergate

WASHINGTON — President Nixon appears to assume that the American people are not deeply concerned — and shocked — by the Republican Party's alleged offense in breaking, entering and bugging the Democratic headquarters.

I am persuaded he is making a false assumption and a rather dangerous one. The experience I have had in recent weeks in different parts of the nation, interviewing and answering questions from various kinds of audiences, yields evidence that he is misjudging the state of mind of many people.

His misjudgment, I think, comes from the polls which quite accurately show that most are going to vote for the President despite the Watergate outrage.

THERE'S A CATCH in the polls.

They reveal that most Aemricans do not see the Watergate affair as a determining factor in deciding how they will vote. It is far down on the list of controlling considerations in the campaign. Gallup reports, for example, that 66 per cent of the public feels that the Vietnamese war, the economy and the conduct of foreign policy are the three matters most affecting their choice between the two candidates. Only 3 per cent see "corruption," including Watergate with all its evil implications, as very influential in their decision.

No wonder the President and his principal political adviser, the same Richard Nixon, assume that Watergate criticism can be stared down with cool and aloof disdain.

It can't as far as the future Nixon Presidency is concerned.

SINCE MOST VOTERS feel that the war, the economy and foreign affairs are the biggest issues, you would think that most questions would concern these matters.

They don't. My experience is that most questions directly concern Watergate. And these questions come mainly from Nixon supporters.

They know what they think about the war, the economy and the conduct of foreign affairs. But they don't know what to think about Watergate and when they think about it they don't like what comes to mind.

They want to know why it was done, who authorized it, who approved the expenditure of tens of thousands of dollars to set up a system for the steady theft of the political secrets of the opposition party in a presidential election. And if those involved — closely associated with the Committee for the Re-Election of the President — were acting on their own, what kind of irresponsible management is there at the head of the Republican Party?

NOTHING APPROACHING a candid answer has come from any Republican leader privy to the facts.

Spokesmen for the President have said that no one "presently" on the White House staff had anything to do with the Watergate affair. Does that in any way explain, justify or extenuate what was done — the fact that those who did it are not "presently" on the White House staff?

All the Republicans in authority have devoted themselves to criticizing the way the Democrats have criticized them for the Watergate crime but have not devoted one syllable to explaining what they did or what was done in their behalf.

Until there is a persuasive explanation or confession (which is good for the soul) this cannot fail to erode confidence in government and in the Presidency.

This Watergate thing is like a counter-intelligence operation behind the Iron Curtain. It is alien to a presidential campaign in the United States of America.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON

Justice For Jefferson Davis — And Vietnam War Amnesty

GULFPORT, Miss. — Estelle Heiss has neither the looks nor the vital statistics of your typical agitator for amnesty. She is silver-haired, her accent is redolent of magnolias, her grammar precise, her paragraphs only slightly wandering. She is 91 years old, and she has been on an amnesty crusade of her own for the better part of her life — since long before Mr. Nixon and George McGovern were born and developed their differences on the subject.

True, her campaign is rather special. But it says something, nevertheless, to those arguing in 1972 about amnesty for the young men who fled to Canada and Sweden to avoid doing their duty during these past few years.

MRS. HEISS has devoted many years of her membership and leadership in the United Daughters of the Confederacy to winning the ultimate posthumous forgiveness for Jefferson Davis — the only president of the Confederate States of America. She is not satisfied that he died a free though broken man, without ever having asked for a federal pardon. She and her sisters in the UDC believe Davis should be enshrined in the Hall of Fame at New York University, the closest thing we have to our own Westminster Abbey.

It is a more personal thing to Mrs. Heiss than to most of her sisters. With no provocation at all, she will explain why.

She sits on the flowered couch in the parlor of her apartment in a small frame house on 19th Avenue, the long curtains stirring in the breeze off the Gulf of Mexico, a mockingbird providing perfect accompaniment. It is just a few miles down the highway west of Davis' postwar home, Beauvoir, which faces the gulf at Biloxi. And local pride clearly is part of her devotion. She is not merely a daughter of the South and of Mississippi but a neighbor of Davis — although he died a dozen years before she came to the Gulf Coast as a young bride from her hometown of Okolona, in Chickasaw County.

BEYOND THAT, it seems that in a way Mrs. Heiss considers formal acknowledgment of Davis as a great American to be the same acknowledgment about her grandfather, Brig. Gen. W. F. Tucker, a southern soldier whom she describes as "the chastest, the kindest, the most honest." He was respected as lawyer and postwar politician and finally was "assassinated" for his uprightness, as she tells it. He stood for "white supremacy and good government," and was instrumental in "throwing out the scalawags and Republicans" long before others took such action to lift Reconstruction repression. But although he was dear to her heart and to Mississippi, he is neither in the Hall of Fame nor in the "Dictionary of American Biography" nor in "Who Was Who in America."

Mrs. Heiss has done her best for her grandfather by writing her master's thesis about his life — and receiving prominent local publicity when she was awarded her degree from the University of Southern Mississippi last August. Her efforts on Davis' behalf take that effort to a higher plane.

Already she has gotten a commemorative marker placed at the site of the old Harrison County courthouse here, where Davis made a speech urging his former comrades to strive for a united country. She also has been successful in getting his picture hung in many Mississippi schoolrooms, and she has been instrumental in the upkeep of the gracious old Beauvoir mansion. She designed the UDC's Jefferson Davis medal when she was the group's historian general. But she and her friends have tried twice to get him into the Hall of Fame, and twice he has been voted down. Now they are distributing petitions, in schools and elsewhere, in support of a third try.

SHE CITES DAVIS' unity speech here as proof that he was a good American. But her hero's postwar career also included two years as a prisoner at Fortress Monroe, then release on bond in 1867. He could have been United States Senator from Mississippi, but he proudly refused to ask for a federal pardon.

And there is where we reach a vague parallel with what is happening a century later. As far as I know, none of the draft dodgers who now want to come home freely has presided over a secessionist government. But they have loudly and proudly insisted that they will not ask forgiveness because they have done nothing wrong. Davis did not think he had, either. But before he could go home to Mississippi, he spent two years as a prisoner of the government he had defied. Now, these many years later, he still has not made it into the Hall of Fame, and it also might be appropriate if we wait awhile before we make heroes out of today's expatriates.

Dog Show People Wish A's Could Have Won Day Sooner

Sure, everybody was pleased that the Oakland A's won the baseball crown, but at least one group wishes the team could have done it without waiting until Sunday.

The Blue Ribbon Dog Breeders, Inc., went to a lot of expense, time and toil to put on a free, educational dog show for the public at the Marin Veterans Memorial Auditorium on Sunday. Their first show a year ago drew about 7,000 persons.

This year, the public stayed away in droves, glued to the easy chair to watch the World Series and then any of several football games. Only about 3,000 made it to the dog show.

I hear tell that a cannon could have fired down the main aisle of at least one church without endangering anyone other than the preacher, too.

Apparently those who weren't watching the idiot box went out of town for the three-day weekend.

THE GOLDEN GATE Bridge District's bus service through Marin is pretty great, once a rider learns the schedule's complexities. But any rider who alights in Novato expecting to ride a taxi the rest of the way to any place in North Marin is in for a rude shock.

After struggling to read the tiny taxi ad in the yellow pages, in a booth with nonfunctioning light, I repeatedly dialed the number given and got no answer — nor could I get my dimes back.

A desperate call to the information operator resulted in a San Rafael number, but no explanation for why there was no Novato number in operation. The first try of the San Rafael number was answered by that damned robot who nasally tells you you did a no-no. The second try reached the cab office.

After a 10-minute wait, a taxi hove into view. Its operator said the Novato taxi company folded a month ago, and all calls are being handled through San Rafael. But the Western Telephone Co. apparently hasn't figured out any way to tell the public. That'd be too much like progress.

LARKSPUR'S CITY council seems to go into closed session at the drop of a hat or of the mayor's gavel. Based on private conversations with some of the council members, who aren't happy with the trend, the meetings seem to be as much closed to hide dissension within the council as to handle personnel matters.

I look for an out-loud explosion soon almost as strong as after that time when the council happily was on record —the tape that is — while in session with no audience.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Suit Against County Shows Abdication By Supervisors

Dizzyland — Throne Room and Abdication: These terms, as you know, I have used many times to emphasize the fact that you are not getting the thoughtful, careful, business-like attention to county matters you are paying for and for entitled to.

The way things are stacking up, they each should be underscored. On page VII of the county budget, which I have in front of me, appears this line at the top of the page, "County Administrator's Message to the Board of Supervisors".

"A CAUTION" heads a paragraph midway of the last column. This is followed by these three paragraphs:

"THE COUNTY of Marin is a defendant in a civil action in the amount of $1.6 million instituted by the Robert E. McKee Co., builders of the Hall of Justice. No reserve is included in this budget for this litigation.

"A conditional agreement for sale of the courthouse for $650,000 has been executed with the City of San Rafael. This amount has not been considered as revenue in this budget.

"These two items may offset one another during 1972-73 and their status should be reviewed from time to time during this year."

Reversing the order of the terms, we have the abdication of the going board of supervisors during the construction of the Hall of Justice. They left everything to the administrator and his assistant (now the administrator himself) and the architect while they basked in the elegance of the throne room.

So, now, if the McKee company is successful in the lawsuit, you taxpayers are stuck with anywhere up to the full amount less the $650,000 from the sale of the courthouse (money which could have been some relief on the tax levy).

In the true tradition of Dizzyland, the administrators and the architects managed to let things get into such a shape that the contractor felt he had a right of action against the county. The gents in the throne room suddenly woke up to the facts of life and have they been quiet about their discovery.

ANOTHER THRONE ROOM performance has created a considerable credibility gap in this open space thing. The open space activists "invaded" the supervisors' meeting (all in costume) and read a proclamation extolling the virtues of open space. People attending the board meeting who were obliged to sit and helplessly witness this invasion of the serious business at hand were so turned off that any doubts they may have had as to whether the proponents of the mis-labeled park district were simply indulging in the latest thing or not had their answer. The photo coverage in the I-J showing them all in action confirmed the doubts of hundreds more throughout the county.

In the column of the 13th of this month, I wrote that there seemed to be a feeling of maintaining community identity, instead of acquiring open space as a county-wide deal. Since then the town of Ross is talking about acquiring "Old Baldy" and thus having the control and regulation in its own hands.

In Wednesday's I-J there was the seven column spred that the Mount Marin Homeowners were in the process of bonding themselves to buy 184 acres of open space as did their neighbors in Lucas Valley.

SP Will Seek Price Increases For Penninsula

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Southern Pacific said yesterday it will seek increases of from six to 12 per cent in commuter fares for San Francisco Peninsula service it said is producing a $2.5 million annual loss.

The railroad said it is asking the state Public Utilities Commission to approve a $2.50 increase in monthly commuter tickets good five days a week, a $2.75 increase in monthly daily ride tickets, a 75 cent increase in weekly tickets and a 15 cent increase in one-way tickets.

George V. Housman, traffic manager, said most SP commuters use monthly tickets, and increases for them would range from 6 per cent on the San Francisco-San Jose run to 12 per cent over shorter distances, as from San Bruno to San Francisco.

Information For Senior Citizens

Information sessions for senior citizens will be held next week in Rohnert Park and Petaluma under the auspices of the Sonoma County Council on Aging.

Representatives will meet with persons past the age of 55 to review their problems and make referrals to agencies that can assist them.

Staff member Ruth Dustako will be available at the Rohnert Park community center Monday from 10 a.m. to noon, and Leilani Braumberger will be at the Petaluma city hall social service room Friday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

DR. GORDON FOSTER
College lecture

Lecture On Death Set At College

Death in our society will be the theme of a lecture at College of Marin's Olney Hall Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

Speakers will be Dr. Gordon Foster, a marriage and family counsellor and Faith Bartlett, coordinator of continuity of care at Marin General Hospital.

Dr. Foster was pastor of the Community Church and the United Church of Christ in Mill Valley for 23 years.

Mrs. Bartlett, a nurse, headed the terminal illness program at the hospital funded by the American Cancer Society.

The speakers will show the film "Until I Die," by Elizabeth Kubler-Ross, and lead a discussion on death and dying.

The lecture is the sixth in the "SOS — Stress in Our Society" series, co-sponsored by the college and the Marin Mental Health Association.

Enough-Evidence Ruling On Pot

Robert Elton Yates, 18, of San Rafael, is to appear Wednesday in Marin Superior Court because a municipal court judge ruled there is enough evidence to try him on a charge of having marijuana in Marin County Jail.

Judge Gary W. Thomas made the ruling after hearing the details of Yates's arrest Sept. 30 after a sheriff's deputy smelled what he thought was burning marijuana and found a small bag of possible pot in Yates's cell.

Also arrested was Eugene Milton Paine, 18, of Vacaville, who shared the cell. Paine's case is already in superior court awaiting trial.

When arrested, Paine was serving time for driving without a license and Yates was doing time for burglary.

Man Sentenced In Assault Case

A 22-year-old Novato man charged with the statutory rape of a 16-year-old girl has been sentenced to a week in jail or 40 hours of work for a park and recreation department.

Declaring the offense a misdemeanor, Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court gave Steven Rex Hickman three fewer days in jail than negotiated and decided against probation.

Hickman, who lost his job as a dental lab technician because of the case, was arrested after his date at a wedding party July 29 told Novato police he took her to his home and repeatedly raped her.

Candidates Night For College Rivals

A candidates' night for the 11 rivals for two vacant seats on the Marin Community College District board of trustees will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club.

This will be the first occasion in this election when all eleven college board candidates have appeared together in public.

To cope with the number of candidates, the program will be divided into two parts. The first hour will be devoted to candidates' prepared speeches of five minutes; the second hour will feature two-minute answers to questions from the floor.

Advance questions which candidates will be expected to answer include:

To what extent should students be involved in decision-making processes?

Should the editorial content of the student newspaper be reviewed by the administration or should the students be given complete freedom to publish the newspaper as they see fit?

What should be the board's place in the evaluation of teachers? Would you influence or reflect the views of the community?

Chairman of the event will be Elva Edger, president of the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin, and the moderator will be Betty Rogers, also a league member. Timekeeper will be Anne Layzer of the Mill Valley PTA.

The candidates night is sponsored by the American Association of University Women, Mill Valley and Marin branches; The League of Women Voters of Southern and Central Marin; the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club and the Mill Valley PTA Council.

Deep Hole In Antarctic Slated

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Thirty scientists from Japan, New Zealand and the United States next year will drill a hole nearly a mile deep into the bedrock of Antarctica in an effort to learn more about the history of the continent.

National Science Foundation spokesmen said Wednesday the hole will be the first of at least 10 to be drilled during the next three years. The first bore will be made in January and February on Ross Island, the site of Mt. Erebus, an active volcano.

The purpose of the project is to get information on how Antarctica, once a part of the southern hemisphere's ancient temperate zone supercontinent of Gondwanaland, drifted over the past 200 million years to its present place on the map.

Lockers Looted

Someone who apparently opened lockers belonging to teachers in the boys' gymnasium at Davidson Junior High School in San Rafael took $80 in cash, police said yesterday. The theft was discovered at 9 a.m. Wednesday.
